

Asheboro Meeting Marks Holiday Activity of Guilford Endowment Campaign: Oscar Redding Ch'm'n

GUILFORD'S CHANCES FOR GOOD BASEBALL TEAM LOOKS BEST IN SEVERAL SEASONS

With The Exception of One Man All Veterans Are Back

COACH DOAK OPTIMISTIC

New Material Seems to Indicate A Better Team Than Last Year

Guilford's promises for a winning baseball team are the best in several years. Every man on last year's regular line-up, with the exception of Orvie Hayworth, is expected back to don the Crimson and Gray and Coach Doak is quite optimistic over prospects for new recruits. He is confident that he can develop several valuable players for Guilford from the new material available. Many of the candidates have played high school baseball extensively and have acquired valuable experience in baseball tactics.

Old Recruits Back

Last year's first string men who are back are "Shorty" Frazier, "Babe" Shore, "Goat" Cummings, Fred Winn, "Block" Smith and Everette McBane. Nereus English, Roy Burge and George Ferrell are expected back at the beginning of the second semester. Cummings, Shore and McBane are fourth year men, while several of the other men have been under Coach Doak's supervision for three seasons.

Strong Pitching Staff

"Babe" Shore is expected to do the major pitching this season although Ferrell and Burge are both dependable "agate hurlers." With these three and some prospective new material, Bob Doak will build a pitching staff expected to be invincible.

Positions

J. W. Frazier, who has recently returned to Guilford, will resume his position at third base. Cummings, Winn and "Block" Smith will probably take their regular berths at first and second bases and ceter-field respectively. French Smith last year's substitute outfielder is sure to give some of the veterans a lively race for their position on the team.

The New Material

New men who will doubtless contribute to the team's success are: Frank Smithdeal, Clyde McBane, Wade Linley, Rufus Smith, Richard Ferrell, Odell Hepler, Charlie Frazier, Floyd Gray and Paul Woody.

Smithdeal comes from Mount Pleasant where he has played baseball for four years. He played last summer with the Blue Ridge league. He holds the unusually high batting average of over 400 and a record of twenty

County Superintendent of Schools T. F. Bulla Commends Work Of Guilford

GUILFORD QUARTET SINGS

Dr. Perisho Presents Financial Status of Guilford To Meeting

The work for the Guilford Endowment is being vigorously pushed at the present time. An interesting meeting was held in Asheboro court house on the evening of December 28. All the students of New Garden and Guilford College living in Randolph county helped to make this Guilford gathering one of the important events of the holidays. The occasion was one of old time fellowship and the renewal of the joy of college days. On the whole, this meeting was one of pleasure, information, and inspiration.

Oscar Redding Chairman

Oscar Redding '98, chairman of the Guilford College club of Randolph county, was ill, and hence unable to attend. William Armfield, of the class '94, acted as chairman of the meeting. He made an interesting opening address, setting forth clearly the influence of Guilford College and the Quakers upon the history and development of North Carolina.

T. F. Bulla Speaks

County Superintendent of Schools, Thomas Fletcher Bulla, of the class of 1911, spoke enthusiastically of the work of Guilford College, and paid a high tribute to the institution for what it had done for Randolph county, and the influence the college had exerted directly and indirectly upon the leading men and women of the county.

W. C. Hammond Present

William C. Hammond, of the class of 1901, made an excellent address, in which he urged those present to take the time and effort to persuade at least one young man or woman to attend Guilford College next year. He was certain that if young people eager for a college education knew what opportunities Guilford offers many more would enroll in the college.

Debts To Guilford

Jesse Philip Garner, of the class of 1917, emphasized in his interesting address the debt which every student of Guilford owes to the institution.

Students Represented

Glenn Lassiter, of the class of 1924, representing the present student body from Randolph county, presented in a very effective way, the present activities in the college. The audience was much interested in what he had to say of the Christian organizations, the literary societies, the glee club, and the prospects of the athletic teams.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS BANQUET HELD AT FOUNDERS. THEME IS BUILDING THE HOUSE-GUILFORD

Professor Rhesa L. Newlin Toastmaster; Harry Barton Talks

"Building the House Guilford" was the theme which Professor Rhesa L. Newlin, toastmaster, presented to the students at the annual faculty-student banquet held Saturday evening December 15th. "Hail, dear Old Guilford" were the strains which wafted up from the student body as they filed from the dining hall of Founders after enjoying one of the faculty's most successfully planned banquets.

Professor Rhesa L. Newlin, as toastmaster, spared no amount of wit and humor in his attempt to keep the enthusiasm running high. He presented Guilford College as a house to the student body and in the construction of the "House Guilford" he called upon the following students contribute something to the building: Robert K. Marshall '25, explained very effectively the study, and showed how each life and ideal contributed a book to the study of Guilford. French Smith '26 briefly brought before the student body the fellowship of the Dining Room. The Playground was the contribution Lucille Purdie '27 made to the House. "Without the playground" said Miss Purdie, "no house would be complete." She described several ways by which general interest in athletics may be stimulated. Hershil Macon '24 in his depiction of the Living Room concluded by presenting to the college "The Quaker" which the class of '24 is getting out.

Dr. L. L. Hobbs, in the opening speech of the evening, briefly described what Founders Hall used to be back in the last century when Guilford was known as New Garden Boarding school. "Founders Hall," said Dr. Hobbs, "was the first building erected, and the site of it was chosen because of the healthful as well as the artistic location." Dr. Hobbs in closing expressed a wish that the old Friends who were instrumental in the beginning of New Garden Boarding school might have a

Guilford Students Attend Ninth International Volunteer Meeting

Maude Simpson, Virginia Os-Moir Edwards Go

(By Bessie Maude Simpson)

"The ninth International Student Volunteer Conference held at Indianapolis, Indiana, December 28 to January 1, was perhaps the greatest one ever held in the history of the organization. There were nearly 6,000 student delegates present besides 200 returned missionaries and various speakers and non-students. Students from all parts of the United States, Canada and possibly forty foreign countries were present.

Fine Spirit

The spirit manifested by the delegation was exceptionally fine and the various speakers, with clear cut messages, aroused in the vast delegation a true sense of duty to their fellowmen. Among the most outstanding speakers of the convention were Robert Wilder-General secretary and founder of the Student Volunteer Movement, John R. Mott; Dr. Robert E. Speer, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of foreign missions; Dr. Paul Harrison, a medical missionary of Arabia; Cannon S. Wood of Cambridge, England; Sherwood Eddy, noted student leader.

Discussion Groups

Perhaps the most outstanding features of the Convention were the "discussion" groups held on Saturday and Monday of the convention week. The students were divided into forty-nine different groups to discuss racial relations and international problems.

Most of the group discussions centered entirely around the race problem and the question of war. Many new ideas were brought to light on these subjects, and although there were many differences of opinion expressed, there was evidenced a unanimous desire to see the convention take some action in regard to these great questions.

Resolutions Presented

A committee from each group was appointed to draw up a set of resolutions to present to the entire convention, and after carefully considering the points brought up in each group the convention adopted the following resolutions:

1. Eliminate the teaching and ingraining of white superiority in our schools.
2. Have prayer groups on every campus, who pray and work for the breaking down of race barriers.
3. Convert our own family to the race problem.
4. Right concrete racial wrongs.
5. Through the means of the press try to tear down race prejudices.

In regard to war, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Work against the teaching of glorification of war.
2. Work for the elimination of R. O. T. C.

GYMNASIUM IS CENTER OF ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES NOW

Best Material in Quaker Lineup In Years Opinion of Many

Since the holidays the Quaker gymnasium has been the center of enthusiasm on the campus, where a group of peppy, swift and accurate ball-cagers are fitting themselves for the first game of the season, which will be against the Trinity "Blue Devils" January 14.

With the best material in the lineup for years and a strong second team affording competition for the varsity, the Quaker five is expected to make a good start on a successful season.

Lineup Against Trinity

The lineup against Trinity is likely to find Captain J. W. Frazier and J. G. Frazier as forwards, Cummings as center, Thomas and R. Smith as guards. Owing to stiff competition some changes are likely to be made before the opening game. This is suggested by the brilliant playing of Richard Ferrell, a candidate for forward. Ferrell was a member of the Guilford high school team of last year. In Albert Smith, hailing from Goldsboro, Coach Doak has a prospective center. The other prospects who are making good on the floor, include Henry Tew, French Smith, Gray Herring, Gilmer Sparger and John Reynolds.

Captain "Shorty" Frazier

In Captain J. W. Frazier, the team has an allround athlete, this being his third varsity year in the three major sports. In basketball, as the "Chatham Rabbit", he is the swift midget that calls the court his territory and claims every angle at the basket, his favorite.

When thinking of the outstanding Guilford players of past years there always comes to mind the prominent star of the state, ex-captain J. G. Frazier, who will play on the Quaker squad again this year.

George Ferrell, Earl Cummings, Thomas and Rufus Smith will form a strong defense and this, combined with the Frazier offense, seem to give a bright tint to Guilford's 1924 basketball prospects.

A Note of Thanks

To my friends, one and all, who have shown so many marks of kindness, to all of whom I cannot write individually. I wish to express my hearty thanks; for the many expressions of sympathy, for the many wishes of Christmas cheer, and especially for the rich floral offerings, I thank you, and assure you of my grateful appreciation of every act and expression of kindness in my sad bereavement.
