

DOCTOR RUFUS M. JONES NOTED FRIEND, TO GIVE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Dr. John L. Kesler of Vanderbilt
Will Deliver Baccalaureate
Sermon

Dr. Rufus M. Jones of Haverford, Pa. will give the Commencement address at Guilford College on June 3. Since 1904 Dr. Jones has been Professor of Philosophy at Haverford College, and is recognized widely in inter-church circles as one of the greatest religious leaders of the day. He is chairman of the American Friends Service Committee, and has travelled abroad extensively in the interest of this work. He studied at Oxford University, England, last summer.

Dr. Jones is the author of several books on religious education and Quakerism. Among those which we have in the library are, "Abundant Life," "Dynamic Faith," "Later Periods of Quakerism," "Practical Christianity," "Quakerism, a Religion for Life," and "A Service of Love in Wartime."

John L. Kessler, LL. D., of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., will preach the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning, June 1. Dr. Kesler is a North Carolinian by birth and is a graduate of Wake Forest College. For some years he was closely connected with the Y. M. C. A. conference held at Blue Ridge.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS TO ATTEND N. C. CONVENTION

Guilford is planning to send quite a large delegation to the annual State Student Volunteer Convention which is to be held this year at Queen's College, Charlotte, March 7 to 9.

At this convention there will be delegates from colleges all over the state who convene for the purpose of outlining their work for the ensuing year. Besides other notable state leaders, Robert P. Wilder, one of the founders of this movement, will attend the convention. Several famous addresses, which constitute the main feature of the program, are anticipated. Aside from the addresses, various group meetings are planned in which the different phases of student volunteer work will be discussed.

This meeting will be the largest of its kind yet held in the state, and it has adopted the following as its motto: "Charlotte to North Carolina what Indianapolis was to the world." To those who attend this convention it will mean much as a source

"VIRGINIA ROBINS" APPEAR IN ORCHESTRA CONCERT

Reorganized Musical Club Gives
Semi-Classical Program

The Virginia Robins, let it be explained here, are not new kinds of birds from Virginia. Everyone who attended their first concert given in Memorial hall last Wednesday night Feb. 27, knows that the Virginia Robins form one of the most interesting organizations on the campus—an orchestra.

The versatility of the orchestra was shown by the program they gave—one part jazzy, two parts classic. As the success of an orchestra depends upon the individual player, no one of them can be too highly praised.

The numbers given by the club were played with rhythm and expression which showed the results of hard work and much practice. These included the "Anvil Chorus," from Verdi, and "Amaryllis," by Ghy, "Down on the Farm" and "When It's Night-time in Italy" were jazz numbers made jazzier by choruses sung by the orchestra.

Special praise should be given to Mr. Casay, who sang beautifully the "Canoe Song," by Lieurance, in Indian costume. Mr. Pamplin, who played his violin solo, "Farewell to Cuculion," with masterly skill and technique, is a new addition to the orchestra. He is one of its most valuable members on account of his ability as a violinist. The piano solo by Mr. Kendall was also well done.

Mr. Holder the pianist for the orchestra, is the backbone of the organization. It is due to him and Miss Virginia Robinson, for whom it is named, that the orchestra has reached its present importance among other college activities.

R. H. DANN GIVES TALK IN QUAKER FAITH SERIES

At chapel Thursday Professor Dann gave another of the series of lectures on principles of Quaker faith.

He gave two conceptions of religion as: the idea that religion is something outside of the individual, permanent and unchanging—the idea that religion is something within man that there is a constant revelation of God to man, that religion is in an ever-fresh and changing condition. "All the great reformers adhere to the second belief," Mr. Dann maintained. "The idea that the church band experiences of Christianity to persons is the old idea."

Mr. Dann read a series of extracts from great Christian leaders giving their conception of religion. He first quoted St. Augustine, "Thou hast made us for Thyself, O God, and our heart is restless till it rests in Thee." The extract from Peter Waldo stressed personal communion with God and the need for the rejuvenation of the church by a return to original

J. G. Frazier Scores 88 Points In Closing Week of Basket Ball Season

The 1924 curtain was pulled down on the basketball season last week when the Guilford varsity returned home from their Virginia trip with five victories and one defeat. They defeated N. C. State by a count of 32-22, threw an earthquake into the Wake Forest camp by defeating them 23-20, nosed out ahead of Richmond Blues by a score of 37-36, and smothered William and Mary and Hampden-Sidney by scores of 34-26 and 41-22 respectively. They lost to Richmond University by a count of 29-27. This record brings the total number of victories this season to 13, while defeats stand at 5.

During the week's rampage J. G. Frazier pierced the hoop for a total of 88 points, and according to the Richmond papers demonstrated a brand of basketball which overshadowed anything seen there this season. J. W. Frazier was largely responsible for "besmattering" the Baptists, and showed the fans everywhere that he was no back number in the court. Tew, Cummings and Thomas made a wall of defense which was nearly impenetrable. "Shirt" Smith also found the basket many times and with his strong left arm nobly defended the magic loop.

The quint went into the State tilt with the regular line-up. J. W. Frazier and J. G. Frazier played the offensive, Tew at center, and Cummings and Thomas clashing against the Tech advance. This formation was maintained in the Wake Forest game and against the University of Richmond. In the scrap with Richmond Blues Smith was run in at right forward. In the game at Williamsburg and Hampden-Sidney he held down the left wing of the defense.

N. C. State Outclased

In the N. C. State game the Quakers proved themselves superior in almost every phase of the game. J. G. Frazier as usual ran wild, and scored 17 points while "Shortie" Frazier followed close with ten points to his credit.

Baptists Resign Third Place

Wake Forest's hopes for third place in the state lineup were smashed when the Crimson and Gray quint, with their placid form of caging licked them in the hair raising scrap Tuesday night. The excellent foul shooting of J. W. Frazier was largely responsible for the three winning points.

"THE DOVER ROAD" TALE OF TANGLED ELOPEMENTS

Spring Play is Absurd Comedy of Eccentric Bachelor and Runaway Couples

Rehearsals are now under way for "The Dover Road," the play that has been chosen for this spring's production, and already the casts are learning that elopements are not as easy as they are put up to be. "To elope or not to elope" seems to be the question; and according to the views of Mr. Latimer, benevolent bachelor who has rather odd and eccentric ideas on this question, young people should at least be given a try-out before they decide finally. Young people are so apt to be impetuous and hasty.

Therefore, the plot of this delightful comedy of tangled situations. Mr. Latimer, being a wide awake executive personage, as well as a philanthropist, proceeds to try out his pet hobby, in the quiet seclusion of his country home just off the Dover road.

And, if one wishes to advertise one's home as a hotel, and so incur the risk of various strange, where is the harm? Also, once a young couple is inside, observations and data can be made in readiness, and incidentally at the same time the interested parties give themselves a week's uninterrupted enjoyment of each other's presence.

So thither come Anne and Leonard (very much in love), who are taking the Dover road together, only to find that another couple likewise are spending a rather forced and sulky week at the country house. Mr. Latimer unfortunately possesses the idea that a man is a creature of environment, and will of necessity react to it, determines to give the stray couple

Musical Clubs to Give Initial Concert March 15.

With the advent of the spring season the Glee Club emerges from its trainging camp to make its bow to the public. The initial performance is scheduled at McLeansville high school auditorium, March 15.

During the remaining weeks of March the club will appear at neighboring high schools, touching Pleasant Garden, March 20, Vienna March 22, Jamestown, March 25, and Germantown, March 28. This short tour of the high schools will put the club in fine form for the schedule proper beginning the first week in April.

Dates have not been definitely arranged, but the schedule will include High Point, Winston-Salem, Asheboro and probably Greensboro before Easter. During Easter week the manager expects to take the club over the western part of the state, giving concerts at Charlotte, Salisbury, and Concord. The Program will be broadcasted from the radio station at Charlotte.

The engagements at Rich Square and Woodland have cancelled. The schedule will close with the home concert May 3.

HERBERT HOOVER INVITED TO ADDRESS THE ALUMNI ON "HOME COMING DAY"

Sec. of Commerce and Nationally
Prominent Guilfordians May Speak at Commencement

"Home Coming Celebration" to be held on Monday, June 5, is now being carefully planned by the Alumni committees. Governor Joseph M. Dixon, of Montana, a graduate of Guilford, Herbert N. Hoover, international figure, T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Audubon Society, and Guilford alumnus, have been invited to speak on this day. With these as speakers on Monday, Doctor J. W. Kesler of Vanderbilt on Sunday, and Doctor Rufus M. Jones of Haverford the following Tuesday, the commencement will present the greatest array of speakers in the history of the college.

"Home Coming Day" is distinctly an old student arrangement. Every old student either of New Garden Boarding School or of Guilford College will be and is invited to attend the celebrations on the day which will be in the form of a jubilee over the successful winding up of the Endowment of $500,000.00. Everybody is expected to return to their Alma Mater and meet everybody else. It is to be a GRAND CELEBRATION—A COMMENCEMENT JUBILEE—A HOME COMING DAY—for all Guilfordians.

Arrangements for the day have been placed in the hands of various

1924 "QUAKER" MATERIAL ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

The 1924 Quaker will soon be a book in reality. A great deal of the material has already been sent to the publishers and Hershel Macon, the editor-in-chief, reports that the remainder will probably go in before the end of this week. So far about a hundred prints of different kinds have gone ahead to be arranged in their respective panels, while only some twenty or twenty-five are on hand to be forwarded this week.

Hugh Dixon, a capable artist, has charge of making the drawings for the opening of the different sections as well as some other designs. His work is practically finished and most of his drawings have been mailed out.

As there has not been a Quaker published for several years, the class is making a special effort to produce a really worthwhile publication. It will contain at least 170 pages, and will be bound in semi-flexible black fabricoid with the Guilford seal stamped in gold on the front cover.
