

SOCIETY NOTES

Hershel Macon Elected

Websterian Society President
Officers for the Websterian literary society were elected at the regular meeting Friday, March 14, as follows: President, Hershel L. Macon; Vice President, J. W. Frazier; Secretary, Nereus C. English, assistant secretary, Gilmer Sparger, marshal, Lonnie Russell.

The following program was given: Debate, "Resolved that Congress should enact a law providing for compulsory military training of all men for one year between the ages of 18 and 24. The affirmative was strongly defended by Thomas English and James Penny; but Elton Warrick and Lonnie Russell of the negative succeeded in breaking down the points of the affirmative.

A reading by Nereus English was enjoyed very much by the society. The current events by Willard Allen were very interesting and instructive. The last number, jokes, by Lonnie Russell was the source of much laughter and was enjoyed immensely by the society.

Clays Entertain Visitors

Administrative Officers Elected

The Henry Clays were honored by the presence of several visitors at their regular meeting last Friday evening. Vernon L. Brown, Prof. R. L. Newlin, and Prof. J. D. White, all old Clays, and Paul Wagger, and Hershel Macon were present at the meeting, and spoke words of encouragement to the society. The officers elected at a recent called meeting to serve for the next term, took their places at this time. They are as follows: president, Earl Cummings; vice-president, Russel Branson; secretary, Max Kendall; assistant secretary, Robert Marshall; chaplain, Raymond Thomas; sergeant-at-arms, Paul Holt.

One of the best debates of the year, on the Lenoir-Guilford debate query, "Resolved that the present Congress re-enact the Per Centum Limit Act for a period of two years," provided an interesting and entertaining program. The affirmative, upheld by James Thigpen and William Blair, showed the need of this law, although the negative speakers, John Cannon and French Smith, brought out the fact that it has many defects. The affirmative won the judges' decision.

Philomatheans Give Impromptu Program

The Philomathean literary society held its regular meeting on Friday evening, March 14th.

As a means of discovering latent talent, the program committee gave us an impromptu program which was as follows:

I. Silent Oration—Alice Thompson.

II. Debate, Resolved: Bobbed hair is more sensible and attractive than long hair. The affirmative side of the query was forcefully upheld by Mary Lou Wilkins and Maude Simpson. The negative was precisely and daintily defended by Marie Beamon and Edith Macon. By a standing vote, the affirmative won by an overwhelming majority.

III. The most thrilling experience I ever had—Bertha Zachary.

IV. Piano solo—Frances Hodgkin.

V. Fairy story—Isa Winslow.

VI. Reading—Margaret Smith.

VII. Instrumental duet—Virginia Galloway and Connie Butt.

Every person on the program responded with unusual alacrity, and the entire program was a decided success.

Zatasions Elect Officers, Louise Winchester, President

Officers of administration for the next six weeks' term were elected at the Zatasian society Friday, March 14, as follows: president, Louise Winchester, secretary, Olive Jinette, marshal, Inez Blanchard.

The following musical program was given:

I. News from Musical America, Jonnie Conrad.

II. Piano duet, "Charge of the Uhlans," Margaret and Mildred Townsend.

III. Piano solo, "Forest Voices," Margaret Levering.

IV. Violin solo, Schubert's "Moment Musical," Maie Holladay.

Track Men Work Out

For weight hurlers include two football stars, Kenneth Neese and Everette McBane.

About 16 men are out for spring practice in football. This work is being done under the direction of three varsity men of last fall, Elton Warrick, Fred Thomas, and Kenneth Neese. Some good timber seems to be developing here. Pate and Reynolds of last fall's squad are showing up in real artistic bootwork this spring. Coach Doak thinks that he will get a nucleus for his team next fall out of this bunch of amateurs.

Those who are chasing the pigskin around the Guilford lot out of season include Watson, Hammon, Reynolds, Burgess, Thompson, Max Conrad, J. Welborn, Allen, Pate, Ebert, Penny, Martin, Henry Tew, and the three varsity men who are doing the coaching, Warrick, Thomas and Neese.

Miss Kopf Reads Paper On Bird Life

Miss Kopf, in leading chapel Wednesday morning, read an interesting paper on birds. She stated that there is now a great interest in bird study largely owing to the work of the National Audubon Society of which T. Gilbert Pearson, G. C. '97 is president. She stressed the necessity of bird protection since many species like the wild turkey and pheasant are almost extinct, while the quail and grouse are fast disappearing.

Miss Katherine C. Ricks spent the week-end with friends in Greensboro.

Misses Mary Mitchell and Grace Smithdeal, of Greensboro, were the week-end guests of Miss Margaret Smith.

Misses Ruth Stephens and Virginia Galloway spent the week-end at Greensboro college.

Student Volunteers Meet

student at Princeton University, and since that time has devoted his life to this work, and has been a constant inspiration to the 10,000 Volunteers who have gone to the foreign fields.

Other speakers at the Conferences were three returned missionaries from China: Dr. Bond, a Medical missionary, Dr. Alexander, an evangelistic worker, and Dr. Buan, an educational missionary. Also Miss Virginia Pritchard, travelling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke.

One of the many interesting features of the Conference was a pageant given by the Lenoir Student Volunteer Band.

During the Conference the citizens of Charlotte showed the delegates every courtesy. The Stonewall Hotel lobby was thrown open for registration of the delegates, the Civitans and Rotarians furnished auto service and the Charlotte homes were thrown open for the entertainment of the delegates.

The officers of the Union for the coming year are as follows:

President, Alice Gibbon, Queens' College, Vice President, John Westbrook, Trinity College, Secretary, Virginia Poe, Greensboro College, Treasurer, Harry Price, Davidson College. Editor of Volunteer, Beatrice McCracken, N. C. C. W.
