ALUMNI NEWS

News sheets have again been sent out to a number of the Alumni. The Registrar would be delighted to have these filled in and returned at an early date. She would also be glad to have a statement from all who are planning to be at the college for the home coming. 1898.

Ada M. Field, '98 is associate professor of food chemistry in Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn. Miss Field says she is "teaching college students nutrition and trying to get them to make use of their information in the public schools when they go out!" She also has nutrition classes with undernourished children in clinics and settlements of Nashville. She had an article entitled, "Grade Teachers Study Nutrition" in the American Food Journal for October, 1923, and one entitled, "When the Fifth Grade Asked: 'What is Food'," in the Peabody Journal of Education for March, 1924.

Miss Field has an M. A. degree from the University of Washington and one from Columbia University. She has held the following positions: teacher of science, International Institute, Idaho; graduate instructor in chemistry, University of Washington; assistant in nutrition, Teachers College; lecturer in dietetics, Medical College of New York, and Professor of Chemistry, Guilford College.

Miss Field is a loyal Guilfordian. She is very much interested in Guilford's present campaign for an increased endowment and made a pledge very soon after the campaign was launched. She sends best wishes to all Guilfordians.

Clara Davis, '13, has for the past three years been teaching Latin in the Spencer High School. She is also teaching a class in a Sunday school at that place. Since graduating from Guilford she has had two years of special work at N. C. C. W.

Clara has written of her intention of becoming a life member of the Alumni Association this spring and N. C. is making plans to be present at the home coming at commencement.

1919. Eula Hockett, '19, is teaching second grade work at Matthews, near Charlotte, North Carolina. 1921

Dovie Hayworth, '21, is teaching Geography in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades of the White Oak Mill School, Greensboro. Besides her class room work she supervises the play on the school grounds and often directs a gymnasium class for girls at the Y. W. C. A.

1923.

Lois Rabey, '23, is teaching English and History in the Carrsville High School, Carrsville, Va. This school is planning to go into a nice new building at an early date. Lois writes that she likes her work very much but that she still thinks of Guilford and misses the Guilford life.

Old Students

GREETINGS TO ALL GUILFORDIANS The more I ponder over the big Home Coming at Guilford College, June 2nd, the more assured I feel that it will be the most successful and most productive meeting ever called at the college.

First, it will be a stupendous gathering of Alumni and old students, the largest ever at one time, and while no estimate of the number has been made, I feel that the college will literally be flooded with old friends. I, for one will certainly be proud to be one of such an immense gathering of men and women.

Second, the big Home Coming presents to everyone the opportunity to see more college friends than have been seen since college days. Social and entertainment features galore. It is my firm opinion that the exchange of ideas and experiences, the messages from eminent speakers will make an investment unusually profitable.

Third, you have a role to fill in making this the largest and the most successful gathering in the history of Guilford College, and that is meeting your responsibility as a graduate or old student by being present at the big Home Coming.

Finally, set aside the 2nd day of June for the Big Jubilee, as an inviolable business engagement, and then every day just before breakfast and before retiring, say-"I am going to Guilford-I am going to Guilford-I am going to Guilford (Repeat for 99 times), Write your college friends and tell them to meet you at Guilford.

Do not forget that every committee is working hard to make sure you have a great, big, jolly good time.

Miss Ada M. Fields, instructor in George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., writes: "If it is at all possible, I am planning to be at the Guilford 'Home Coming.' It is a wonderfully fine plan, and I know will mean very much to the college as well as to the Alumni themselves, and I am glad to 'root' for it. It seems to me that Guilford Alumni have made a record for themselves of which we may all feel proud and I should like to be able to see a fellow Guilfordian wherever I have the opportunity."

Yours for the Big Home Coming, C. C. SMITHDEAL President of Guilford College Alumni Association P. O. Box 1695, Winston-Salem, N. C.

SECRETARY BERGTHOLD ADDRESSES Y. M. C A.

In a short talk at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Thursday evening, Dr. Binford summarized some of the things for which the two main opposing factions of the Church stand. He mentioned some of the characteristics of the Modernists and the Fundamentalists showing their main difference.

"One of these views is no more assure you of the best course. But you are assured of the best in
