

ALUMNI NOTES

Notice to Alumni:—Recently the college Alumni editor sent out four hundred News sheets to members of the Alumni Association, requesting that these be filled in and returned at an early date. Several of these sheets have been returned, bringing interesting and valuable information. With one of these was enclosed a short letter containing the following: "I am enclosing a few remarks on the News sheet. I feel that my accomplishments are not worth bothering to print but am sending the sheet anyhow to show you that I, at least, have a spirit of co-operation." Perhaps a number of the Alumni feel the same way about their accomplishments, but the Guilfordian Board and officials of the college hope that they will also have the same spirit of co-operation, and that every one of the four hundred blanks will be returned and filled in in detail.

Ida E. Millis '03 is again teaching Latin and tenth and eleventh grade English in the Guilford College high school. This is now a consolidated high school occupying an up-to-date new building located about a mile from the college on the road to Guilford station.

Miss Millis is recording clerk of the New Garden Monthly Meeting and has just been appointed Young Peoples' Division Superintendent for the Guilford County Sunday School Association.

During the past summer Miss Millis spent several days at Niagara Falls. On her way home she visited Mrs. Hilton Salisbury, formerly Edith Reynolds, who was a student at Guilford in 1920-21. Edith Reynolds was married to Hilton W. Salisbury on March 24, 1924, and is now living at 175 Penhurst St., Rochester, N. Y.

1906

Joseph M. Purdie '06 is teaching Spanish and French in the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. He has held this position for the past seven years.

Mr. Purdie has an A.B. degree from Guilford College and both an A. M. and a Ph.D. from Lincoln-Jefferson University.

Since graduating from Guilford Mr. Purdie has spent several years in the mission field. He first finished the work in Mexico which his father, who was a lifelong missionary, had begun. He then went to China where he was principal of the school and did pastoral work at Holguin and Banes. For five years he had charge of the Blue Ridge mission near Mt. Airy, N. C.

Mr. Purdie is a loyal Guilfordian and visits the college almost every summer. His daughter, Lucille, is a member of the present sophomore class.

Rufus H. Fitzgerald '11 is, at the present time, directing a campaign for $1,000,000.00 to erect a student activity building on the campus of the State University of Iowa. The contract on the first section of the building has already been let.

Besides his duties as director of this financial campaign Mr. Fitzgerald is consulting secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of the University of Iowa, member of the Educational Committee of the "National Council of Religion in Higher Education" and an elder in the First Presbyterian church of Iowa City.

In addition to his degree from Guilford College, Mr. Fitzgerald has an M.A. degree from the University of Tennessee, and has done advanced work in Egypt, Palestine, and Syria.

Mr. Fitzgerald has this to say of the denominational college: "After my twelve years connection with two state universities I am a firm believer in the denominational college. Their influence on the state universities and the influence of the state universities on them is one of the finest things in American education."

1916

Fred Morris '16 is postmaster at Kernersville, N. C. He has, however, been studying law at the University of North Carolina, and successfully passed the bar examination the past summer. He will probably practice law in Winston-Salem after January 1, 1925.

Mr. Morris was on the campus yesterday to see the Guilford-Le noir football game.

"WORK," SAYS DR. HOBBS IN CHAPET EXERCISES

"I would like to speak a word of encouragement to the discouraged," stated Dr. Hobbs in Friday's chapel exercises. He quoted the following from William James' chapter on habit: "Let no youth have any anxiety about the upshot of his education, whatever the line of it may be. If he keep faithfully busy each hour of the working day he may safely leave the final result to itself."

"One need not be concerned," works." "We are here for the asserted Dr. Hobbs, "provided one sake of scholarship, I take it. One can do the things set before him if one gives them proper attention. Our main object is to get an education in order to discover things. All students should develop their minds so that they will be among the competent ones, and then they will be able to secure and retain good positions."

"A person's time is wasted," said the speaker, "if it could be more profitably employed. Now is the time to prepare for the final examinations."

The speaker concluded by mentioning Pendleton King as studying Greek for four hours daily, thus showing the thoroughness of preparation of the old school.

MISS KOPF JUSTIFIES COLLEGIATE TRAINING

Miss Kopf in her chapel talk of last Tuesday related two incidents, one of which was about a business man who had never attended college expressed his views, stating that a college education was of no benefit to business men. The second was concerning the will of an old gentleman. This man, again not a college man, left a fortune of $124,000. The conditions were that his neices and nephews should not receive a penny till after they had graduated from college, and then only a small sum at first. A remark of the old gentleman was quoted: "I do know that if I had received a college education I should have given more to life and gotten more out of life."

"College life," said the speaker, "should develop the intellectual, social and spiritual sides of our lives." "All round development is what we want." Four years are not enough for intellectual development for it is a slow process.

The Mentor contains this recommendation, "Learn one thing a day."

Miss Kopf stated that cramming causes one to lose the connecting links in a field of knowledge. She stressed the necessity of attending to one's social duties and stated that one should get pleasure out of them. She emphasized the fact that neither side of one's development should be neglected.

E. P. BROWN '26 ELECTED

fessors A. I. Newlin and George P. Wilson, faculty advisers; B. Russel Branson, reporter. Re-elections, Ethel Watkins, circulation manager, and N. Era Lasley, Alumni reporter. There is still a vacancy on the reportorial staff from the Henry Clay and Philomathean literary societies.

"A WAGGIN' TONGUE"

By Beulah Allen

Trinity has launched her amateur theatrical season by choosing Rastand's "Cyrano De Bergerac" for their production this year. Despite the difficulties of properly interpreting the leading role, that of the name part, they are enthusiastic over the prospects of staging the masterpiece. Just who is to don the big nose, and portray the tragic figure of Cyrano has not been announced.

Earlham College's "Mask and Mantle Club" which has many amateur successes to its credit, such as "Peg-O-My Heart," "Daddy-Long-Legs," etc., is launching out into new fields. Under its auspices S. H. Clark of the Chataouqua platform will present at that college, George Bernard Shaw's masterpiece "Saint Joan" at an early date. As a passing comment G. B. Shaw seems to have, after much argument, convinced the dramatic critics that he's right and they are wrong.

Guilford gets her share of Athletic fame one way or another. First, "Chick" Doak, a Guilford graduate coached a State Championship team down at N. C. State in 1924, then Tom Zachary knocked the wind out of the New York Giants in the world series. Besides this, Guilford's one time football star, Tom Cox, was for a time Captain of State's Wolfpack team this year, and is still the most outstanding satellite. George Crisp and Bartemus Nicholson, also one-time Guilford football men are holding down the bench as "first class" varsity substitutes on the Wolfpack team.

Little Eleanor, who was reared in a liberal religious atmosphere, visited relatives whose creed was decidedly straight-laced.

"In Aunt Maria's church," she announced on her return, "the sermons are much louder and much longer and full of queer words. I didn't like them, but of course I let my expression be impolite; when the minister said things I knew were not so, I just crossed my fingers."

Working Your Way Made Feasible

Writing life insurance has enabled many a man to pay his way through college. It is a social service.

To induce your fellows to form habits of thrift—to obligate them to put by a little of their income—to safeguard them against future loss of earning power—is a form of effort that brings keen satisfaction as well as profit.

These are only a few of the reason why the insurance business today is attracting the very best brains of America.

Write for full particulars of a plan whereby you can assist yourself through college, and, at the same time, prepare for a profitable and satisfactory career.
