NOTED ENGLISH FRIEND SPEAKS ON RELIEF WORK IN WAR-STRICKEN AREAS

Joan M. Fry Tells of Conditions After War and Stresses Need of Further Support

The delegates to the general conference of the Woman's Missionary union of Friends in America, who were entertained by the local New Garden Missionary society at a supper and pageant on the Guilford college campus Saturday afternoon, were fortunate in having to address them, Dr. Joan M. Fry, a noted English Friend and member of the English Friends relief force, and a person who perhaps knows as much about conditions in the central countries following the war as anyone who has visited this state.

The speaker was one of the first outsiders who went into Germany following the close of the war. She went to Berlin a few days after the peace treaty was signed and has been active in the relief work done by Friends in Germany since. She spoke at length upon the results of the blockade during the war. Clothing, food and health conditions she stated were terrible when she entered the country. At one time there was no food for the children to eat except turnips and a very limited amount of other things. This winter came to be known as the "turnip winter." Such conditions ruined the health of the people and the results are still to be seen in the weakened citizenry.

Miss Fry spoke of the hatred which

CONFERENCE DELEGATES SEE STUDENT'S PAGEANT

Missionary Conference Delegates the Guests of Local Society—Philip Frazier Present

Under the direction of Rev. Joseph Peele, Mrs. Raymond Binford, and Miss Laura Worth, an Indian Pageant was staged on the college campus Friday afternoon for the entertainment of the delegates of the Woman's Missionary Conference of American Friends which is holding its triennial conference in Greensboro.

The Pageant was a marked success due to the competent supervision and to the ability of those taking part in it. The fact that one of the characters, Phillip Frazier, was a full blooded Sioux Indian also added to the interest of the pageant. The scene and costumes were typical of the Indian camp.

On the first scene the Red men were gathered around the campfire discussing whether or not they should send a number of their braves in search of the White Man's "Book of Heaven," of which they had heard about from the "Pale Faces." They decided to send five of their braves to the east in search of the book in spite of the opposition of their "Medicine Man."

On the second scene only one of the braves returned, and without the book, but with the promise that the white

CLASS OF '28 REPRESENTED ON FOUR VARSITY TEAMS

By G. G. Page

On glancing at the situation, one sees that the class of '28 has taken no small part in the athletics of Guilford during the past season. Freshman boys, of course, went out for all branches of sport; and in football, baseball, basketball and tennis, some representatives of this class were placed on varsity teams.

Ranking high among the gridiron performers, there are four freshmen; Murray White, Walter Robertson, Warren Taylor, and Charles Weir. With them were others from the class who performed well.

Foremost among the freshmen on

J. FRANK SMITHDEAL

J. Frank Smithdeal, of Winston-Salem, who has been elected captain of the Quaker baseball team for next year also has been picked as an all-state man for this season. "Frank," while in preparatory school at Mount Pleasant Institute was all-state for two years. His playing on the team this year has been spectacular and his batting average is well over the .400 mark.

GLEE CLUB PLEASURES GREENSBORO AUDIENCE

The Glee Club ended the most successful season of its existence Friday, May 15, by giving a concert at the Grand Theatre in Greensboro. The program went off in true form and in the opinion of most of the clubmen it was the best program given this year. Directed by Sam Keen the chorus work was the outstanding part of the program, the attack, release, and general interpretation being very much better under a direction than has heretofore been the case. When the club sang without one.

The solos of Gurney Briggs who sang in the informal grouping and in the Scotch and Sailor tableaux was especially well received by the large audience. The Indian scene which took a loving cup at the Durham inter-collegiate Glee Club meet, made a hit as usual and the dancing and singing of Alexander Pavlov captured the audience. The quartet, also a cup winner, was put on the regular glee club concert program for the first time, and received several encores to the singing of their parody on the madrigal "Now is the Month of Maying."

The concert was sponsored by Mrs. J. C. Penny working through the two Eastern Star organizations, and to her goes much of the credit for the successful entertainment. A large 16 page program was one of the results of her efforts and this added greatly to the financial success of the concert.

This performance ends the glee club season. So "the tumult and the shouting dies" (this is written by one of the members) but the "captains and the kings" have not departed and all are looking forward to a successful season next year.

REV. MURPHY WILLIAMS SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

Rev. Murphy Williams, of Muirs Chapel, gave an inspirational address before the student body at chapel last Thursday morning. Rev. Williams pictured vividly the story of the three spirits. Watching the planets and stars being thrown from the hollow of God's hand in the beginning of creation. The first spirit exclaimed: "Let me have it." The second asked: "How did he do it?" The third spirit fell down upon his face and worshipped God.

The first spirit, Rev. Murphy, said, overlooks the better things in life, but pursues only gold and silver. The sec-

ANNUAL INTER-CLASS PICNIC A GALA OCCASION

Freshmen And Sophomores Formally End Their Differences In Festive Event

The Freshman-Sophomore picnic in short was nothing less in any respect than a great success.

The procession of hikers started from Founders Hall at about 4:45 Tuesday afternoon. Hamilton Lakes was the destination and was reached after a little walk of half an hour or so—mostly so.

The Sophomores gave an entertaining and instructive program. It was taken in by all Freshman as good advice, at least it is presumable that such was the case if expression on their faces tell anything. Sydney Winslow opened the program with a few wise words of counsel to the future Sophomores. He was followed by Raymond Thomas who expressed the sentiments of the present Sophomore class along the same lines of the form of a few more suggestions and recommendations. Gilmer Sparger followed and increased the seriousness of the occasion by a reading. It was well given, with good expression and feeling.

GUILFORD HIGH SCHOOL STAGES "NO TRESPASSING"

The Guilford College high school dramatic club scored another success Friday evening in the presentation of Evelyn Gray Whiting's "No Trespassing" in Memorial Hall. The house was filled and went away satisfied after an evening of humorous entertainment.

The play was a drama in three acts, the scenes of which were laid in the living room of a farm home in New England. The home was being used as a summer resort for people of more or less wealth. Around this the plot was laid. Miss Bernice Thomas played one of the leading roles as the young lady living in the farm home and trying to do a little "social climbing." With her, Henrietta Edgerton played the part of the city girl, trying to become a rural rustic. Charles Coble, coming from the city, af-

HONORS TO THE CLASS OF '28

In this issue many of its members make their formal debut into the field of journalism; they will probably be thrilled to see themselves in print for the first time. The editorial staff is pleased with the results. The greater part of the material in this paper was written by freshmen and a great deal of material was handed in which could not be used because lack of space would not permit.

GLEE CLUB IS HEARD IN CHAPEL EXERCISES

The Glee Club delightfully entertained in chapel Thursday morning for the last time before disbanding for the year. The quartet composed of Messrs. James Joyce, Ralph Landis, Samuel Keen and Frank Crutchfield responded to the encore given after the first song and delighted the audience with their humorous selections. The Glee Club then concluded the program very appropriately by singing, "Hail, Dear Old Guilford."

JOHN REYNOLDS AND MRS. A. S. WINSOR GIVE THEIR GRADUATING RECITALS

John Reynolds and Mrs. A. S. Winsor, voice students of James Westley White, gave their graduating recitals in Memorial Hall, Wednesday, May 13, before a large and appreciative audience.

Both soloists were at their best and gave excellent interpretations to every number, especially in their arias. These were done with feeling, and showed an excellent command on the part of the performers of the technical difficulties.

Outside of his aria, Mr. Reynolds' "I Bring You Heartease" made the greatest impression of the audience, and Mrs. Winsor's "Der Lindenbaum" was especially well done.

Miss Sue Kyle Southwick was the

ROBERT MARSHALL AND SARA HODGES GET HAVERFORD AND BRYN MAWR SCHOLARSHIPS

Offers Years Study In Northern Colleges

At the faculty meeting last Friday evening, Robert K. Marshall was awarded the Haverford scholarship and Sara Rebecca Hodges was awarded the Bryn Mawr scholarship. In selecting the members of the seniors class to whom these scholarships were awarded, great weight was given to rank in scholarship, but excellence of character; and promise of future usefulness in society were also taken into consideration. These scholarships offer possibilities for the winners to continue their studies at Haverford and Bryn Mawr with the idea of obtaining a master's degree—

Robert K. Marshall came to Guilford from High Point, N. C., in 1921. Throughout his student life at Guilford, he has taken an active part in many of the student organizations on the campus. Mr. Marshall is a member of the Henry Clay Literary Society and has held many offices, including the office of President, in this society. He was elected president of the freshmen class in the fall term of his first year and president of the sophomore class in his second year. He was elected reporter for the "Guilfordian" in his sophomore year and became editor-in-chief of the paper the following year. When a sophomore he won the Marvin Hardin scholarship. Mr. Marshall has taken much interest in the dramatic productions since his first year. He was made Secretary-treasurer of the dramatic Council in 1923. He

MERCER NET STARS WIN OVER THE GUILFORD MEN

The Mercer University tennis team drove its way to 3-2 victory over the Quaker varsity Friday afternoon in one of the best exhibitions of tennis seen on the home courts this year. The Heywood brothers who played together in the doubles, did the meteoric playing for the Mercer team. Joyce was the outstanding player, in behalf of the Quakers. He dazzled the onlookers with his brilliant comeback against Heywood after he had lost one set to him. He came up fresh and won the next two sets 6-1, 6-2.

The doubles were as follows: Heywood and Heywood, of Mercer, beat Burke and Joyce, of Guilford, 4-6, 6-4. Heywood and Heywood, Mercer, won over Trotter and Brown, Guilford, 6-1, 8-6.

In the singles Heywood, Mercer, beat Brown, Guilford, with a score 6-3, 6-3. Trotter, Guilford, outplayed 6-0. Joyce, Guilford, downed Heywood, Mercer, in the most brilliant set of the meet 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

HATH "CHING-CHOW LIED.

Noah Webster gives the following synonyms for "FRESH."—Inexperienced, vigorous, strong, sound, not stale. Ching-Chow, little Chester's faithful guardian, says, "It is written that the gods shall abundantly reward the one who is vigorous, strong, sound unexperienced but willing to learn."

Has this year's Freshman class proved Ching's saying to be true?

If not, how could the Freshman have managed to place so many men on the college ball teams?

How could they have placed so many men in the Glee Club and Orchestra?

How could they have taken such an active part in the dramatic production?

How could they have selected a debating team capable of beating the Sophomores and a number who made the college debating team?

How could the Freshman succeed at any undertaking if he didn't have the qualities described by Ching-Chow? Ching-Chow is no fabricator.

Quakers Fall Before Duke in the Final Game of the 1925 Season

Griffin, Lindley and Taylor Led the Team in Hitting

Duke University had little trouble in defeating the Quakers Saturday afternoon by the score of 13 to 3 for the last game of the year. This sound drubbing administered by the Blue Devils closed the season for Guilford, this defeat being the most severe of any during the past season.

Several familiar faces were out of the Guilford line-up, including captain Ferrell and Lefty Smith the brilliant Quaker battery.

Lindley who is usually stationed at first base was Coach Doaks' choice for mound duty, he being replaced at first by Taylor. Lindley's offering were hit freely. A total of 18 hits being garnered off his delivery. Dempster and Thomas the opposing hurlers pitched creditable ball and were given better support by teammates than was Lindley. Loose playing by Guilford helped pile up the score.

Guilford made all of her runs in the seventh inning when they bunched hits off the delivery of Thomas and were able to push over three runs. Lindley and Taylor led in the hitting with two singles, each while Griffin secured the only extra base clout.
