QUAKERS DOWN STATE'S TENNIS AGGREGATION IN AN EXCITING TOURNAMENT

Joyce And Burke Make Brilliant Comeback In Doubles—Trotter Shows Fine Form in Singles

The Quaker tennis team defeated the N. C. State aggregation on the local courts, Saturday afternoon, in a hotly contested match, the final score being 100 to 60.

The doubles were the sensational matches of the event. Joyce and Burke staging a great comeback in their final set, and playing in Tilden form, were able to trim the fighting double team of State, composed of Chang and Taylor. The supreme serving of Burke, coupled with the deadly forehand drives of Joyce, proved too much for the visitors.

Brown and Trotter playing in brilliant form overcame Campbell, and Shelor of State in two sets of fast tennis.

In the singles, Trotter playing with a cool head as usual defeated the hard fighting Chang, of State 6-0, 8-6.

Burke, Guilford, won over Shelor, State, 6-2, 2-6, 2-6. Harren, State, defeated Brown of Guilford 6-3, 6-4. Taylor, State won over Joyce, Guilford, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4. Campbell, State, defeated Parker, Guilford, 6-3, 6-4.

The score for the doubles: Burke and Joyce, Guilford defeated Chang and Taylor, of State, 9-7, 4-6, 7-5. Brown and Trotter, Guilford, defeated Shelor and Campbell, State, 6-4, 6-4.

DOCTOR HOBBS DELIVERS AN INSPIRING ADDRESS

Dr. Hobbs made an interesting talk in chapel Friday morning on the subject of the intellectual life and freedom of thought. He spoke of Guilford's distinguished alumni, Pendleton King, who entered Haverford and made an unusual record there, and later taught at Guilford. He was greatly interested in botany, and was conceded to be a great naturalist. Under Cleveland's administration he was given political appointment abroad, and died while in the consulship in Germany. His splendid library is now housed in the University of North Carolina. Dr. Hobbs paid a fine tribute to Pendleton King and his life work by saying that young men were always inspired by his words and actions. "He was a complete type of intellectual life that I love to remember," he said in closing.

Doctor Hobbs then remarked upon the value of learning to be independent thinkers. "In the laboratory and class rooms we have to be told what to look for and what to see, and some of us have to be told what to believe. You can't learn by proxy," concluded Dr. Hobbs. "Things do not come by chance. We need to train ourselves to see the question on all sides and then to draw our own conclusion. We need to learn and practice the art of thinking for ourselves."

NEW Y. W. C. A. CABINET ENJOY FESTIVE EVENT

On last Wednesday evening from 6:00 to 8:00 o'clock the new Y.W.C.A. cabinet was hostess to the members of the past year's cabinet at a camp supper on the hillside across from Dr. Binford's home.

Most of the two hours were spent in cooking and serving the meal "camp style." Bacon and eggs, together with hot coffee completed the first course—sandwiches and pickles were then passed around and were eagerly dispatched.

The main feature of the supper came with the appearance of a large bowl of strawberries, which were served unspangly.

The marshmallow toasting completed the evening's outing.

Mlle. JACQUELINE MERLE OF CHALONS-SUR-MARNE VISITS GUILFORD

Mlle. Jacqueline Merle, head of the Maison Maternelle at Chalons-sur-Marne, was a visitor on the campus this week-end. Mlle. Merle is the daughter and also the granddaughter of a Protestant minister, which is quite an unusual thing in Catholic France. Her home is at Niems in southern France, although most of her time is spent at the Maison Maternelle at Chalons. Mlle. Merle has studied both at Sorbonne and in England.

Over eight years ago Mlle. Merle became interested in Friends through a sister of Joan Fry, who was also a visitor at the College last week. She became associated with the Friends in the newly constructed Maison Maternelle at Chalons-sur-Marne. When the Friends gave up the work there, Mlle. Merle became the head of the Maison and has continued in the work.

One of the most interesting bits of information concerning the Maison is that the staff is composed of 20 persons from at least six nationalities. The staff is changed every few years and it has been the custom to choose persons of different nationalities. The countries most often represented on the staff are, America, England, France, Holland, Switzerland, Norway and sometimes others. This institution is a practical experiment in the growth of international understanding.

"KNAVE OF HEARTS" TO BE GIVEN BY SENIORS IN CLASS DAY EXERCISES

Play Will Be Take-Off on Mother Goose's Story

There is an old nursery adage, that the Knave of Hearts was a thorough rogue and thief, and got justly punished for having had the audacity to steal some famous tarts on a summer's day—but the Senior class have decided to enact anew this famous nursery rhyme and prove conclusively that instead of being a rogue, that Knave of Hearts was a thorough gentleman and knight to a lady in distress. All of which is only by way of explanation concerning an amusing and delightful take-off of Mother Goose's account of the stealing of the hearts, written, by Louise Atkinson, called quite appropriately "The Knave Of Hearts." This charming play has been used by Tony Sarg as a marionette show, and has also been enacted on the legitimate stage. It is a comedy very light and witty, but written with understanding and delicacy.

There is an age old custom in the kingdom of the King of Hearts to the effect that upon the cookery of the realm depends the ultimate welfare and well being of all the husbands, so a new princess that weds must cook a pastry before the chief pastry cooks of the land, and so set the custom of good housewifery before the populace. Should she fail to create a dish worthy a prospective wife and queen, she must be banished forever from the court. Now it happens that the young princess, Ethel Watkins, with whom King, Frank Casey, is captivated, although she is lovely and doll like and native, is hopelessly ignorant of the culinary arts. To help her out and save the day the Knave of Hearts offers to slip her tarts away and substitutes some of his own wife's samples, for his spouse though fat and ugly and inclined towards being a shrew, can cook the best tarts in the whole country. So he essays to substitute the tarts, and though caught in the act and disgraced, the young princesses reputation as a cook and pastry maker is saved, and the whole court rejoices.

The Senior class will give this play, Monday, June 8th, of commencement week.

BASEBALL SEASON COMES TO CLOSE LEAVING THE QUAKER TEAM AN EXCELLENT RECORD

Number of Strong Teams Beaten—Smithdeal Picked as all State Centerfield—Captain-elect

The 1925 baseball season was ushered into history on the 26 of May, when Guilford met Duke University for the last game of the year. Another record was added to the long list of records both good and bad which is entitled "Athletic Achievements at Guilford." The past season did not result in a championship for Guilford, but all that can be said is that it was just a mediocre season. It will go down on record by the side of many Guilford championships.

Out of the 19 college games played the Quaker nine won 7 and lost twelve with an average of .370 for the year. With a good prospect for a winning team and an auspicious start, with victories over High Point College 13-0, and N. C. State, (State champions) 2-1, it seemed that Guilford was bound for another championship. But injuries to players, loss of confidence and fighting spirit resulted in several losses for the Quaker team. The jinx could not be shaken off the Quaker camp during the entire season. It was the third game of the season that the team started its long losing streak which resulted in seven straight defeats, most of which were lost by a one run margin. The losing streak was finally broken in a thrilling game by the score of 1-0, due mainly to the splendid pitching of Shore. Elon, Guilford's ancient rival was the next Quaker victory, which they took into camp by a score of 14-11.

The team then took a jaunt into Virginia where they played seven games, winning three and losing four. Victories were turned in over the strong Georgetown team, Richmond University and Hampden-Sidney. Losses were made to the Marines, Richmond Medical College, William and Mary and the final game to N. C. State by the score of 12-3.

In reviewing the individual players of the season it is difficult to pick the outstanding players, but in giving credit to whom credit is due, it is due

SENIOR GIRLS RECEIVE CUP FOR BEST ATHLETIC RECORD

At the Woman's Athletic Association banquet Saturday evening, Miss Elizabeth Parker awarded the silver cup to the Senior class, for the highest average per person score in points, secured by observance of health rules, by participation as cabinet members, and by participation in baseball, basketball, hiking, track and tennis.

For the first time in the history of the association the three persons holding the highest number of points were awarded sweaters in recognition of their accomplishment. Those who received sweaters this year are Inez White, of Belvidere, Sara Hodges, of Mocksville and Bertha Zachary, of Saxapahaw. Several girls received numerals as recognition of points secured.

Bertha Zachary was toastmistress for the occasion. In response to her introductions Pauline Choffin, Ethel Watkins, Alice Thompson, Ina Mixon, and Lucile Moore spoke upon "Score," "Pep," "Optimism," "Results" and "Thrills," respectively, as attributes to "Sports" which was the theme of the evening's discussion.

The festive event came as a very fitting close to one of the most successful seasons of athletic activities that the women of the college have seen recently. Miss Parker has been very successful in arousing a great deal of interest in physical culture by arranging contests and rivalry that have made the hour of exercise one of the most interesting of the whole day.

SENIOR CLASS TO PRESENT COLLEGE WITH PAINTING OF J. FRANKLIN DAVIS

PAINTED BY FREEMAN

The senior class will present to the College as a part of class day exercises an oil painting of Prof. J. Franklin Davis. The picture is now being painted by Mr. H. L. Freeman of Greensboro, who is known to be an excellent portrait painter. The picture is to be 24 inches by 30 inches. (It will be formally presented to the college by B. Russell Branson, representing the senior class, and Dr. Raymond Binford will receive it on behalf of the College. It will be framed and hung in the library. This presentation and the play "The Knave of Hearts" will be the feature of the class day exercises.

The presentation of this picture of Professor Davis to the College is a recognition of his long and untiring service to Guilford. By this act the senior class attempts to express to Professor Davis its appreciation for his labors with them and his guidance during their stay at Guilford; and also to honor him for his fine christian spirit which has exerted such a strong influence over many young lives that have gone out from Guilford the last thirty years.

PROSPECTS FOR SUMMER SCHOOL ARE SPLENDID

Plans for the Guilford summer school are now about complete. The school will open on June 10, and continue until August 1.

The purpose of the summer school is to offer preparatory work for high school students who have almost finished their course, but who need an extra unit or two for college entrance, and to give college students an opportunity to make up any back work in order to secure class standing.

Requests have come in for more courses than are outlined in the summer school bulletin, and these demands will be met, even to the extent of securing extra faculty members if such should be necessary.

Many of the college students plan to remain for the summer session.

LARGEST SENIOR CLASS IN GUILFORD'S HISTORY TO GRADUATE THIS YEAR

This year's senior class, which numbers thirty-five, will be the largest graduating class in the history of the College. The class of 1914 was the next largest, there being thirty-one members.

It is interesting to note that eleven of the thirty-five members of the class are men. The twenty-one who will secure their A.B. degree are:

Nida Lee Blalock, Guilford College, Russell Branson, Goldsboro; Jennie Howard Cannon, Guilford College; Frank Casey, Goldsboro; Nell Chilton, Walnut Cove; Clara Coble, Guilford College; Ruth Hodges, Mocksville; Edward Holder, Tobaccoville; Sara Hodges, Mocksville; James Howell, Wilkesboro; Edith Hollowell, Guilford; Kate Lambeth, Guilford College; Edith Macon, Climax; Harriet Pringle, Guilford College; Blanche Robertson, Guilford College; Pherlie Mae Siske, Pleasant Garden; Ethel Watkins, Wadesville; Robert Marshall, High Point; Inez White, Belvidere; Bertha Zachary, Snow Camp; Clyde Shore, Yadkinville.

Those who will obtain their B. S. degree are: Edna Coble, Guilford College; Frank Crutchfield, Guilford College; John W. Frazier, Liberty; Olive Jinnette, Goldsboro; Ralph Landis, Guilford College; Ruth Levering, Guilford College; Margaret Levering, Guilford College; Carrie Norman, Cameron; Bessie Phipps, Greensboro; John Reynolds, High Point; Margaret Smith, Greensboro; Fairy Staley, Climax; Ghi-

GILMER SPARGER WINS GOLD MEDAL PRESENTED BY WEBSTERIAN SOCIETY

Ernest Cude, Lonnie Russell and Paul Swanson are Other Orators

IS FORTIETH CONTEST

Gilmer Sparger, of Greensboro, N. C., was the winner of the Gold Medal, given by the Websterian literary society for the best oration given at its fortieth Annual Oratorical Contest last Saturday evening. Ernest Cude, Lonnie Russell and Paul Swanson, the other men in the contest, all presented orations of high order.

The name of the winning oration was, "Peace Through the Entrance of the United States in the League of Nations." Mr. Sparger made a powerful plea for the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. He discussed the likeness of the League to the Monroe Doctrine brought down to 1925 and this Doctrine enlarged to affect the entire world. This plan, said Mr. Sparger, would protect not only the small and defenseless nations of America but, would protect them throughout the world. He also discussed the similarity of accepting the League, as an agency of Unity and Peace, to the acceptance of the constitution over the articles of Confederation. It was just as possible to bring the nations together in love and respect of the whole world, of which they were a part, as it was to bring the many states of the United States together in love and respect for the nation of which they were a part.

Ernest Cude, of Colfax, Lonnie Russell, of Troy, and Paul Swanson, of Wilkesboro, were also contestants in the speaking.

Ernest Cude spoke on "The American Home." Mr. Cude made an impressive speech on this, the most sacred of institutions.

"Peace Through the League" was another appeal for the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. This was delivered effectively by Lonnie Russell.

Paul Swanson delivered a strong oration on "The solution," a discussion of methods whereby world peace might be maintained.

Prof. George P. Wilson, of the English department, Prof. R. L. Newlin, of the Physics department and Prof. Samuel Haworth, of the Religious department, were judges for the contest.

T. J. Harrell, president, and Byron Badgett, secretary were the presiding officers at the contest.
