HOST OF NEW MEMBERS JOIN ZATASIAN SOCIETY

On Friday evening, September 25, the Zatasian Literary Society held its second meeting of the session in the Zatasian hall, and an interesting and entertaining miscellaneous program was given.

The piano solo, sistz's "Tarentella," by Mildred Townsend, was enjoyed by the meeting.

Ella Mae Friddle, gave a humorous reading, "Patty the Comforter," taken from "When Patty went to College," by Jean Webster, which kept the listeners in a continuous uproar of laughter.

Catherine Shields read several selections from the works of various poets. Some of the poems were light and humorous; other furnished food for more serious thought.

In the last number on the program, "A Bit of Fluzz," Ruth Stevens entertained all present with her charming gracefulness in presenting her "Fluzzy" dance.

President Allen then defined the Zatasian spirit and extended an invitation to all visitors to join the society. The following new girls were then welcomed into the society: Ida Mae Rowe, Frances Osborne, Collie Hobson, Elizabeth Levering, Marie Barnes, Mattie Been, Ester Reece, Carrie Teague, Mildred Kimrey, Virginia Saunders, Gladys Hadley, Gertrude Masoncup, Claudia Neal, Mary Neal, Delle Shore, Flora Mae McFadyen, Elizabeth Lassiter, Lucille Coletrane, Bernice Mitchell, Carrie Sprinkle, Thelma Pfaff, Alice Hazard, Zelma Holiday, Aleen Gilmore, Bernice Henley and Mable Chappell.

Mary Osborne, a former member, was received again into the society.

The society then adjourned to spend a pleasant social hour with the girls of the Philomathean Society.

WEBSTERIANS DEBATE PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

At the second meeting of the Websterian Literary society the program included a very enthusiastic debate over the question of Philippine Independence. The members of the affirmative team, Charles Weis and Paul Swanson, built their argument around two main contentions; the ability of the Filipinos to govern themselves and the obligation of the United States to grant them their independence. Their argument was of sufficient strength to win the decision of the judges over Walter Robertson and Wilmer Steele who contended that the economic loss to the United States which would follow independence, and the lack of anything like national unity, make Philippine independence an unwise move for the present.

Elton Warrick a member of the senior class, entertained the Society with a discourse on "Philosophies of life."

Three former members of the Society, John Cude, Ernest Cude and Wendel Cude, were present. Many freshmen were present and gave short talks which were well received by the society.

Jack Matlock a member of the class of "1926" was received into membership.

For October 2, the debate was over the justification of the recent anthracite coal strike. Earl Henley and Wilmer Steele were unable to convince the judges that it was justifiable, in the face of the attack of negative speakers, Hugh Copper and Thomas Hadley.

The second feature of the program was a reading from the works of Edgar A. Guest by Otis Burke. Raymond Ebert's original jokes and a banjo duet by John Hughes and Fred Thomas were very entertaining.

Elwood Parker and Roscoe Adams members of the sophomore class and Paul Ireland a member of freshman class were received into membership.

STUDE: Well, Coach, how's your football team coming?
 COACH: Like conterfeit money.
 STUDE: Whaddya' mean?
 COACH: The halves are full of lead and the quarters can't pass.

CLAYS HEAR SPIRITED DEBATES ON COAL STRIKE

The old time Henry Clay spirit pervaded the Clay hall Friday evening and a splendid program was rendered. First upon the program was debate, "Resolved that the anthracite coal miners are justified in striking for a ten per cent increase in salary." With a great deal of warmth and spirit, Waldo Williams and Byron Hayworth, two second year men, upheld the affirmative side of the question but they were unable to put up an argument that would stand before the attack of the mere experienced veterans, Harvey Dinkins and French Smith who in an outburst of oratory presented conclusive proof why the anthracite coal miners are not justified in demanding a ten per cent increase in salary. Following the debate a quartette composed of Paul Reynolds, Paul Holt, Read Barbee and Edwin Brown, sang a few selections.

Marvin Shore, John Webb Cannon, William Blair and John Reynolds, all ex-Clays, were present and addressed the meeting. Four new members were admitted into the society. They were: Edwin White, William Moore Rabb, Ralph Smitherman and W. Hunt.

FRESHMEN INTRODUCED TO THE PHIL. SOCIETY

A miscellaneous program was given by the Philomathean Literary Society last Friday evening. The first number was an explanation of the word Philomatheane by Sallie Pearson. Ruby Hall told in an interesting way, the value of Society to a Freshman. An enjoyable number was, "Introducing a Freshman to Mrs. Philomathean," by Chandos Kimrey and Ethel Pamperin.

Ollie McBane was very entertaining in a reading entitled "School Days." The last number on the program was a vocal solo "Barnagets' Love song," by Louise Frazier.

Maude Simpson then gave a very instructive critic's report after which the society adjourned for a joint reception with the Zatasians, in honor of the new girls.

The Philomatheans were glad to welcome the following new girls into society: Nina Albright, Lois Beachom, Ruth Bundy, Dixie Bryson, Marjorie Cude, Mary Chappell, Lucy Costen, Mary Lois Ellis, Ruth Edwards, Louise Edgerton, Mearle Garret, Gertrude Hire, Rachel Ives, Victoria Johnson, Frances Jackson, Thelma King, Mary Pearson, Josephine Paul, Jeffie Rackley, Nell Stinson, Sarah Southerland, Nellie Thomas, Lydia White, Edith White, Norma Belle Wilson, Blanche Spencer and Kathleen Reynolds.

REV. GEORGE STEVENS LEADS CHAPEL SERVICE

Rev. Mr. George Stevens, the well known Canadian evangelist, who is at present holding a meeting in High Point, conducted the Tuesday chapel exercises aided by practically his entire party. The party consists of Mr. George Stevens, evangelist; Mr. Edward Powell Lee, musical director; Miss Bertie Lowe, pianist; Miss Jean Lamont, social worker; Mrs. Martin, religious and secular press agent; Mr. Will Stevens (the evangelist's brother "Bill"); and Mr. Don Cockran who has charge of the preliminary work.

Mr. Lee led the entire student body in the singing of the "Coronation Hymn." Then Miss Lowe rendered several different versions of the hymn "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Me," which were enthusiastically received by the students. Miss Lowe, Mr. Lee and Mr. Will Stevens sang "That's Why I Love Him So."

Mr. George Stevens in a brief talk told how he became a Christian.

"Not a man who hopes he is a Christian or believes he is a Christian," stated Mr. Stevens, "but a man who has married Jesus Christ and knows he is a Christian is the type of man the world needs."

DEDICATED TO OFFICE BOY. He thought he was a big gun, so they fired him.
