"FRIENDSHIP," TOPIC OF
Y. W. C. A. DISCUSSION

The Young Women's Christian Association met last Thursday evening with a good attendance.

The speaker of the evening, Margaret Townsend, selected as her topic "New Friends". She began her talk by reading several verses from the Bible. "Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel." She told what true friendship was and cited, as an illustration, the friendship of David and Jonathan. "A friend is one who knows all about us and still likes us. Here in college we are meeting people new to us and choosing new friends, some of whom may probably play a major part in our future lives. We should therefore, select our friends carefully and not too quickly. There is nothing better than a good spiritual religious friend."

We should choose some of our friends from older, and more experienced persons than ourselves, persons who are more apt to understand us and give us needed advice. "It is well," said Miss Townsend, "to choose friends with opinions that differ from ours. Intelligent argument is wholesome for the mind."

A person who professes to be our friend should love us for what we are, and not for some quality that may fade away with the passing of time. Many are the heartaches caused by negligent "friends."

"A false friend," concluded Miss Townsend, "is worse than an open enemy."

S. GLADSTONE HODGIN GOES TO HARVARD

ments made under his direction are the new heating system for Cox and Archdale Halls which was installed a year ago, the tiled floors and walls in the bathrooms at Cox Hall, which work is now nearing completion, and the improvement of the trees on the campus by having them gone over by an expert tree surgeon.

Perhaps the most outstanding piece of work done by Gladstone Hodgkin as business manager, was the money which he saved the college, due to his efficient buying of supplies for farm, dormitories and dining halls.

In addition to his work as business manager, during 1924-1925 Mr. Hodgkin taught a class in Economics and directed the dramatic productions. Under his tireless and efficient coaching, the Dramatic Council staged one of its greatest productions last April, "Smilin' Through." He also took an active interest in the work of the Men's Athletic Association at the College.

The College is fortunate in having been able to secure Mr. Henry Crutchfield who will succeed Mr. Hodgkin as buyer and general overseer of the college plant while Thomas Hadley will have charge of the janitor work and small repairs.

GRIN DUMB BELL

Early to bed,
And early to rise,
And your girl goes out
With other guys.

Those eyes! Those eyes,
My glances always catch.
They fill me with exquisite pain,
For the glass one doesn't match!

FARMER: Car take much gas?
TOURIST: Does it? Why every time a cylinder misses, I have save half a gallon.

TOURIST (in village notion store):
"Whaddya' got in the shape of automobile tires?"

SALES LADY: "Funeral wreaths, life preservers, and doughnuts."

JACQUELINE: What did you say your age was?
CHOLLY: I've just reached twenty-one.
JACQUELINE: Is that so? What detained you?

RUTH: Why do you call your flivver
"Pyorrhoea?"

MARVIN: Because four out of five have one.

A Guilfordian sheik met two girls this summer who had reputations for being the dumbest girls in town.

One of them was so dumb that the doctors were afraid to give her ether for fear of not knowing when she became unconscious.

The other wanted, one day, to borrow a corkscrew to unlock a revolving door.

SOPH: What are you writing?
FROSH: A joke.
SOPH: Well, give her my best regards.

DAD: Well, my boy any college debts?
COLLEGE STUDE: Nothing, sir, but what with diligence, economy, and stern self-denial you will be able to pay.

BO: See that guy up there?
ZO: Well, I won't say he's egotistical, but if he wasn't so large he'd have a whole lot less to think about.

"Look mama, the circus is in town!"
"Hush, darling, it's only one of those college boys."
