

SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN JUNE 9 WITH PROF. COLE HEADING STRONG FACULTY

Many Extra-Curricula Activities And Entertainments Are Being Planned

Professor Cole, who will be the director of the summer school here spoke in chapel Thursday morning concerning summer session that will be held from June 9 to July 21.

This is the third session and is expected to be better than the two previous summer terms. There is no better way to advertise it than for the students to let people know about it during the Easter vacation.

The summer school is intended for high school students who desire to make up work and the college students who desire to take work to lighten their program next year. Mr. Cole stated that the summer school in the future should cater to another class, the older who desire to attend for the cultural benefits of it.

The curriculum will consist of good study, good play, and weekly events on the campus.

The summer school is no longer an experiment in our colleges. Educational authorities believe in it and a number of American colleges now enroll more students in their summer sessions than in the regular college year. The results at Guilford have been so satisfactory that each year there has been a demand for a larger extension of its work. Last year the enrollment was double that of the previous year.

With a carefully selected group of teachers and well arranged courses the Administration is attempting to meet the needs of students who attend the summer session. Beginning June the 9th and running through to July the 31st, there will be forty-six days of class work. When one remembers that last semester there were just under seventeen weeks, of college, it will be seen that a class meeting an hour a day, six days a week, in the summer school will be able to cover practically the same amount of work as a class meeting three times a week in the

MISS SALLIE BENBOW IN VERY SERIOUS CONDITION

Miss Benbow, who has for many years served as matron of Guilford College, was recently brought back from Long's Hospital in a very serious condition. A trained nurse has been secured and the best attention is being given her. Several doctors have attended Miss Benbow, but they give no hope of her recovery.

PROF. J. FRANKLIN DAVIS DISCUSSES INTERPOLATION

Professor Franklin Davis continued his critical talks on certain passages of the Bible in his talk March 26. This time he illustrated the practice of interpolation.

Some of the old versions of various parts of the Bible do not exactly harmonize with those of the new versions. This is due to the fact that often the copyists, and put into these the personal comments of the former copyists, and put into the original document. The process of redaction began early. For example, in the Sermon on the Mount the 30 words in Luke expanded to over 100 words in Matthew. The Beatitudes also differ in Matthew and Luke. Matthew is more free in expanding the sayings of Jesus. Current traditions also crept into the texts in the same way.

"And yet," concluded Professor Davis, "Some good, pious Christians still believe that God breathed every word in the Bible."

Glee Club Returns After Making a Long Tour Touching Two Coast Towns and Middle State Schools

Chorus Work Is Good

Warrick As Comedian Takes Well. Whole Program is Well Received

BY PAUL REYNOLDS

The Guilford Glee Club returned Saturday night, the 27th, from a most successful tour through the eastern part of Carolina.

It retained all reputation which it enjoyed in the towns that the club visited before and according to news reports in the new territory in which it played, there will be no difficulty in arranging engagements for another season.

The towns which the Quaker Songsters visited were: Spring Hope, Hertford, Edenton, Roanoke Rapids, Woodland, and Star.

SPRING HOPE

On Monday night, the 22nd, the Gleemen opened their week at Spring Hope High School. A large and appreciative audience witnessed the season production of the club, and with much applause called for several encores in both solo and ensemble work. The outstanding feature of this performance was probably the comic numbers, done by Mr. Warrick. The American Legion Auxiliary entertained the men with a dinner in the home economics department of the school.

HERTFORD

On Tuesday afternoon, after a long drive through partly rainy weather the club found an enthusiastic town, Hertford, ready to greet it. Here the members were entertained in private homes, everyone trying his best to show his guests the best time! At eight o'clock in the High School auditorium the concert was given before a second audience that responded as if they were hearing something worth while. The part that the Hertford folk seemed to like best was the campus life that was so well represented in the informal section of the program. The members of the

Here is one of the press comments about the Glee Club made by the Hertford News in the writeup of the performance there.

A widely varying program of classical and jazz music delighted a fairly large house at the Perquimans County High School Tuesday night.

It would be useless to pick the high spots and the low in the Guilford College program of Tuesday night. Let it suffice to say that the entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed, thoroughly appreciated and was exactly what the audience wanted.

THE NEW GRAND PIANO FOR MEM HAS ARRIVED

Guilford at last has a good piano for concert use. Last week the Mason and Hamlin grand arrived and was gladly and appreciatively received by all those who had any dealings with its predecessor. We can now feel proud of this instrument as it is one of the best that could be bought in this locality.

For a good many years we have gotten along with the smaller grand that is now used as a studio piano for Miss Huth. Accompanists, budding soloists and jazz pounders have struggled with it and it succumbed to these many years ago. Guilford does not buy pianos very often so rather strict care and attention will be given to this new instrument.

BASEBALL TEAM TO TAKE TRIP IN EASTER VACATION

Will Play A. C. C., Wake Forest Winston "Twins" and Lenoir

The Quaker Swatsmiths leave Thursday for a group of intra-state games.

On Thursday they will meet the Atlantic Christian College at Wilson.

Friday the Quakers will meet Wake Forest at Wake Forest Saturday they will encounter the Winston-Salem "Twins" of the Piedmont League.

The prospects are good for a clean sweep of the series, certainly the first two games. The Atlantic Christians have a fair team this year, but they will hardly be able to withstand the Quaker onslaught. Guilford's lineup will probably be the same as in the Quantico game except that either Rabb or Coltrane will pitch instead of Smith.

Wake Forest has a team not to be sneered at. The Deacons copped the state title last year without much argument in collegiate circles. However, they seem to have a somewhat weaker team this year, judging from the result of their tilt with the Quantico Marines, to whom they lost by a decisive count. It will be remembered that the Quaker team defeated Quantico last Monday week in Greensboro. Thus the odds are that Guilford will come out with long end of the score Friday. Smith will probably be seen in action again for this game.

The game with the Piedmont league in Winston-Salem promises to be most interesting. The Twin-City team is an unknown quantity so far this season, but the "Camel-town" team is generally far above the average. Last year the Twins were runnersup in the league race, losing out in the post season series to Durham. Either Rabb or Coltrane will pitch the game.

Easter Monday the Guilfordians will play Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory. This game will be as hard as any the Quakers will play this season. The Lutherans have a strong team this year. Smith will probably pitch the game for Guilford with Moose hurling for Lenoir.

Wednesday, April 7, Wake Forest will play a return game with the Quakers at Guilford on Hobbs Field. Smith will probably pitch.

APPRECIATION OF SYKES CONFERENCE IS Y TOPIC

Under the leadership of President Reed Barbee, Thursday night the members of the Y. M. C. A. discussed the good effects of the talks and discussion which Tom Sykes held. There were two dominant aids that came from our contact with Mr. Sykes. He brought about a closer relationship between students and faculty and he bound the ties of fellowship among the men. "The hardest thing in life is to get on with other people," said President Binford. "In the discussion groups, Tom Sykes showed how by a practical application of the Christian principles we can live harmoniously with others." Several of the men made a plea for a continuation of the spirit of fellowship Mr. Sykes brought to the students.

There was a strong sentiment manifested for the continuation of the nightly prayer meetings and the arrangement of this was left in the hands of Nereus English.

The attendance was the best of the year, there being about 65 men present.

True wit must rest on a solid foundation of intelligence.

PRESIDENT BINFORD GOES TO CUBA TO INVESTIGATE FRIENDS MISSION THERE

Will Also Visit Alumni In Florida

Dr. Binford starts on his trip to Cuba Saturday, March 27. He plans to stop two days on the east coast of Florida, and reach Havana, Cuba, April 1. He will be met there by Sylvester Jones, a former missionary to Cuba in Friends' work, but now in the interdenominational work. President Binford will visit the Friends mission at Jaruco where Arthur Payne and his wife are located; then he will go to eastern Cuba at Hoquin.

There is a Friends school at this place and a number of mission stations located in the region round about. In the school at Hoquin Friends have about $80,000 worth of property. The proposition has been made to give this to some other church, or to withdraw and leave it to the Cuban to take care of.

It is to investigate the situation and see what ought to be done with the property there that Doctor Binford and B. Willis Beedes are making this trip.

On his return, Dr. Binford will stop on the west coast of Florida and visit some old Guilfordians in that part of the country, returning to Guilford College the middle part of April.

GUILFORD TENNIS MEN HAVE HARD SCHEDULE

Captain Burkes' Tennis men are daily going through strenuous practice in preparation for the hard season which confronts the Guilford racquet men. The courts are in good shape and the past week of warm weather has brought the squad nearly to midseason form.

The lineup will be practically the same as the one used last fall with the exception of Bob Griffin who is holding down a berth on the varsity nine. Morris Trotter who is the possessor of a blithe stroke and a quick eye will again head the list in the singles. Trotter was only defeated a few times last fall and with spring training should battle any opponent whom he meets this season.

Captain Burke, the wicked left hander, towers up above his team-mates in height and will be able to smash the apple from almost any position. His backhand lawford strokes are becoming so effective that even Trotter finds it difficult to handle them.

Ed Brown who for four years has played on the crimson and Gray team will still occupy his positions. Brown is steady in all phases of the game and always shows up in the double matches.

The other two men who will probably go with the net men are Elwood Parker known on the courts as the "steady old horse" and Stanley Moore. These two men are hard fighters and show excellent training.

The Quaker team will meet nearly all of the North Carolina teams and several out of state seekers including Mercer University and others.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Due to the Spring Vacation which begins April 1 and ends April 7, the next issue of the Guilfordian will not appear until April 15.

45% of the Honor Students graduating from the under-graduate schools of Yale University last June were students who worked their way through college.

There are 174,347 one-teacher schools in the United States.

Hail storms in India frequently are so severe as to kill people.

JEREMIAH COX A STAUNCH GUILFORD SUPPORTER DIES AT HIS GREENSBORO HOME

Had Been a Trustee of Guilford For Almost Fifty Years

BUILT COX HALL

Was Active In Work Of The North Carolina Yearly Meeting

Jeremiah S. Cox, a devoted friend of Guilford College, died at his home on West Lee Street, Greensboro, N. C. Monday morning March 22. The funeral service held in New Garden Friends Church, was attended by a large number of relatives and friends, including the Guilford student body, who went in a group. The burial took place in the New Garden Cemetery.

The following is a tribute of Dr. Lyndon Hobbs:

On account of his long life, constantly devoted to what he conceived to be right, and because of his singular adherence to the path of duty in the affairs of the church to which he belonged, Jeremiah S. Cox occupied a place of very high esteem in the hearts of all who intimately knew him. His unwavering interest in Guilford College and the school out of which it grew was a source of strength and encouragement for nearly fifty years to those who wrought by his side.

He was chosen one of the Trustees of New Garden Boarding school in 1877, and continued through the remaining years of the school, that is, till the end of the school year 1887; and continued as a Trustee of the College until his death, an unbroken period of service of forty-nine years.

In all these years no event that marked a forward step in education in North Carolina Yearly Meeting, ever failed to bring him a sense of gratitude and deep satisfaction.

He believed, with all his mind and heart in the high aim of Guilford College and in the paramount importance of education in general as the only means of preventing deterioration of civilization and the loss thereby of power in the church and the state. So keenly did he feel an abiding religious interest in Guilford College that in the time of sore need—times of crises which brought to the surface his

GUILFORD'S STAR BATTERY RECOMMENDED TO BOSTON RED SOX BY SCOUT KEADY

Smith And Ferrell Are Spotted By Big League Team

After the Quantico baseball game last Monday one of the Boston Red Sox scouts wired his manager about "Shirt" Smith. The following is a clipping from the Greensboro Daily News showing that Guilford is about to produce some more big leaguers in the near future that can carry on the work of Tom Zachary, Earnest Shore and the rest.

Tom Keady, coach of the Quantico Marines team and scout for the Boston Red Sox, told a Daily News reporter last evening that he had wired the major league club in regard to "Shirt" Smith and his battery mate, "Ric" Ferrell.

Mr. Keady, who eight years played with the Worcester team in the eastern league, was impressed very favorably with the work of the two Guilford college boys and lost little time in informing the Red Sox of their ability.

The Boston club is now undergoing a general reorganization and is being rebuilt with youngsters. Every new man will be given a thorough trail.

Smith and Ferrell still have a couple of years of college baseball coming to them and it is not known how they would entertain a proposal to try for major league berths.
