COLLEGES ORGANIZE FORENSIC LEAGUE IN MEETING HELD HERE

State Institutions Send Representatives at the Invitation of Guilford College

TEN COLLEGES MEMBERS

Guilford Takes the Initiative in Calling the First Meeting of the Kind to Be Held in the State

Gathering at Guilford College Saturday afternoon, representatives of seven colleges and universities in the state of North Carolina met and organized the Intercollegiate Forensic Association, which shall embrace not only debating but oratory and public speaking as well. Practically all the institutions were represented by one faculty member and one student representative. The names of the different institutions with their representatives follow: State College, C. C. Cunningham; Wake Forest, B. W. Walker and Mr. Henderson; Lenoir-Rhyne, Dr. Albert Keiser; Elon College, Dr. N. F. Brannock and Mr. Moore; High Point College, P. S. Kennett; Davidson, D. R. McGrew and Mr. Powell; Guilford College, Dr. Elwood C. Perisho, Dr. Raymond Binford, Prof. George Wilson, Byron Haworth, Professor Tinsley, Theodore Doub, Herman White and D. Riley Haworth. The State University, Atlantic Christian College and Duke University found it impossible to send representatives but expressed a desire to co-operate and to become members of the association.

Mr. Powell, from Davidson College, was elected president of the association, to serve until the next meeting, which will be held some time before November 1, 1927. C. C. Cunningham, of State College, was elected secretary and treasurer. The association shall hold a meeting each fall, at which time a question will be selected for debate and officers elected.

FRIENDLY UNITY SUBJECT PROF. SAMUEL HAWORTH

Head of Religious Education Department States That "Two Can Walk Together if They Are Agreed"

INTOLERANCE CAUSE OF TROUBLE

"Can two walk together except they be agreed?" was the question discussed in chapel Wednesday morning by Prof. Samuel L. Haworth.

This question, stated by an ancient prophet, is one of the most persistent problems of the church today. It has threatened the division of many denominations in the country. There are modernists and fundamentalists who go against each other in any attempt that is made to improve the situation. This controversy is caused by narrow-mindedness and intolerance, for each faction has good intentions. Dwight L. Moody is a good example of what is necessary for the solution of such a problem. He had common sense, broad spirits, and was considerate of others. Mr. Haworth spoke at some length, giving his ideas on the subject of conversion. He believes that a child can be reared to be a Christian.

In his concluding remarks Professor Haworth said: "Can two walk together except they be agreed to walk together? In walking together they may discover that they think together, and then learn to act together. This is exactly in line with the truth, and will perhaps solve the problem that the ancient prophet has put before us."

GUILFORD SENIORS ARE GUESTS AT RECEPTION

Following the suggestion made by the trustees and advisory committee of Guilford College at a recent meeting, the senior class was entertained on November 15 by the college advisory committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hollowell in Greensboro. Featuring the program for the evening were Mr. William Mason, Paul Edgerton, A. K. Moore and James Hollowell, accompanied by Mrs. Moore, who entertained with musical selections. Mr. Milo S. Hinkle, pastor of the Asheboro Street Friends' church, gave a talk telling of a recent visit to a conference in Pittsburgh.

Following the program the evening was spent in joy and merry-making. Refreshments were served and all the guests assembled before the fire for an informal chat before taking leave of the hosts and hostesses.

FIGHTING QUAKERS PRIMING FOR ELON

Guilford Team Will Journey to Alamance Institution For Closing Game

THANKSGIVING EVENT

When Guilford meets Elon on Thanksgiving day, the football season will be over. Guilford expects to make Elon feel that she has had a real game. The Quakers will be forced to put up a good scrap to win as it will be an even break for either team, according to the comparative scores. Both schools are about evenly matched. They have had almost the same scores chalked up against them by the same teams in the conference this year. It is up to Guilford to win this last game for the Crimson and Gray.

In the Thanksgiving day game the team is backed by the entire student body, which is going to Elon in private cars furnished for the occasion. It will be a game well worth seeing, since Guilford will put up a great scrap.

Elon was defeated by A. C. C. by the same score chalked up against the Quakers. The Quakers played their second string men about half of the time against Wake Forest last Saturday and lost 60-0 while Elon varsity was defeated 53-0 by Wake Forest.

It may be seen from these scores that Guilford stands a good chance against Elon.

The team needs backing and she will get all that the students have. Let's whip Elon and make it a real day of Thanksgiving for Guilford!

WAKE FOREST WINS OVER GUILFORD IN A ONE-SIDED CONTEST

Quakers Hold Deacons Scoreless For First Quarter But Team Weakens Later

USE SECOND - STRINGERS

Baptists Alternate Their First and Second Squads While Quakers Reserve Strength For Elon Game.

WAKE FOREST DEFEATS aqi. Wake Forest ran wild with Guilford last Saturday. The final score was 60-0. Coach Doak did not use all of his first team at any time, nor did he even keep in the game all the men who started. The game for the first quarter was rather interesting. Captain Rackley of Wake Forest could not get his big team going, and Guilford held them scoreless. In the second quarter Wake Forest substituted a new team. The new team got going and scored three touchdowns in this period. In the third quarter the Wake Forest varsity again was sent in and this time they got going and the score began to pile up.

In the meantime Coach Doak was making numerous substitutions. Guilford could make very few gains through the line and did not resort to the aerial attack.

Wake Forest used their aerial attack to good advantage, scoring two touchdowns directly by this method.

It would be hard to pick the stars for Wake Forest.

Hoyle, Hughes, Ebert and Trivette probably played best for Guilford.

THE FALL PLAY WILL BE A HAIR-RAISING PRODUCTION

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" Promises to Be Most Thrilling Effort of Dramatic Council in Years

DECEMBER ELEVENTH IS DATE

"Seven Keys to Baldpate"—and there was supposed to be only one—is a real play full of thrills, midnight murders, and hair-raising adventures that will make one feel joy, sorrow, and heartache. Such is the result to be found in the fall play, to be given on December 11.

Mrs. Binford, the coach, is exceedingly pleased with the hard work that the cast is doing. When the curtain goes up for the play the audience will witness a production worthy of commendation. A production that will compel one to hold one's breath at the suspense.

OLD NEW GARDEN IS INTERESTING THEME

Byron Haworth Discusses the Early History of Friends in North Carolina and Founding of New Garden Boarding School, the Predecessor of Guilford

The Yearly Meeting of Friends in North Carolina was organized in 1698. At that time and at the present the Friends are probably the most democratic people in our great democracy. The right and practice of every individual to participate in all meetings for business and for worship made it desirable that all should be well informed.

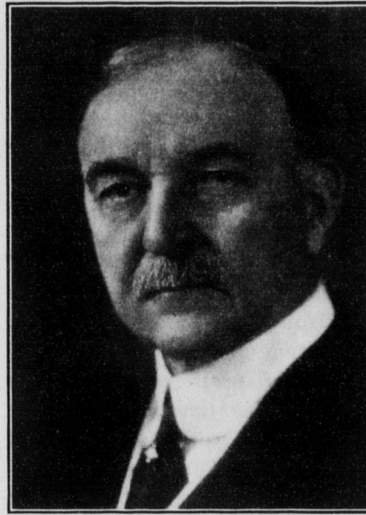

George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends, was always an ardent advocate of education, encouraging the establishment of schools in which the young might be instructed "in all things useful in creation."

There is evidence that North Carolina Yearly Meeting was established as early as 1674. As early as 1666 Fox established Monthly Meetings in England. In the fall of 1671 he crossed the Dismal Swamp in North Carolina, finding "the way plashy, often covered with great bogs and himself wet to the knees."

Very gradually the society made its way westward and there was a Yearly Meeting (Continued on Page Three)

J. Elwood Cox

Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Guilford College

J. ELWOOD COX GIVEN IMPORTANT OFFICE BY DUKE FOUNDATION

His Appointment Completes Board to Handle Large Endowment Left By Duke

A TRUSTEE OF GUILFORD

Is Chairman of Board of Trustees and One of Guilford's Most Illustrious Alumni and Patrons

Mr. J. Elwood Cox, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Guilford College, a most successful and esteemed alumnus and patron, received recently an outstanding honor in his appointment to serve on the Duke Foundation.

The Duke Foundation is a board appointed to administer the various endowment funds left by Benjamin N. Duke. This board, however, has no connection with the administration of Duke University and should not be confused with the Board of Trustees of Duke University. Mr. Cox, president of the Commercial National Bank of High Point, is one of the state's leading bankers. He also has held high offices in the American Bankers Association. As State Highway Commissioner from the fifth district, Mr. Cox has done all in his power to develop the present extensive system of highways in North Carolina.

We read in the Charlotte Observer for October 27 the following:

"Selection of Mr. J. Elwood Cox, of High Point, in completion of the board of trustees of the Duke Endowment, rounds out that organization in manner of the substantial kind that would have most pleased Mr. Duke, for Mr. Cox's mental and business equipment is in line with that which characterizes the personnel of this trusteeship, his acquirement acting in the nature of a solidification of an already strong force. It is a great mission the trustees of this endowment have been performing, and a mission that becomes greater as time passes and the endowment gains in volume. Its operations so far have served to give the public a growing idea of the vastness of its possibilities for good to the wide scope of humanity encompassed in church and school and hospital. Under the generalship selected by Mr. Duke there had been the minimum of chance for any miscarriage of the benevolent plans he had established; the drafting of Mr. Cox is a circumstance that will militate to even greater public confidence in the well-going of the great endowment."

The following is written by Dr. Lyndon L. Hobbs, who was at Guilford in the time of Benjamin N. Duke and J. Elwood Cox:

THE FACULTY IS ON TIME FOR A CHANGE

Indeed the day of miracles is not past! Only this quarter the faculty handed in their grade lists in time for reports to come out on Saturday after the quarter ended on Tuesday. This is the first time such a daring feat has been accomplished since the present registrar has been making out reports. The 20th century, with its automobiles, aeroplanes, radios, and numerous electrical machines, is considered a fast age. The swiftness shown in turning in grades this quarter indicates that the Guilford College faculty has at last caught this 20th century spirit. Hats off to the faculty!

FREDERIC SAINTY TELLS OF STRIKE

English Friend Tells of Work Done by English Quakers for Strikers

ARE TRUSTED BY MEN

In his chapel lecture on November 16, Frederic Sainty, of London, England, talked of the general strike situation in England, and more especially of the recent coal strike which is at this time just being settled.

"For the first time since England entered the Great War the pound reached its per-war value at the end of the great strike," stated the speaker. He continued to say that this was due to the fact that the American financiers seeing that England was stable enough to stand such a difficult period as the strike period had been, decided her pound was worth its full value.

Before the war, England was the most moneyed country in the world, and never before had she been a debtor country. For three reasons she became a debtor country: first, because during the war she could not keep up her trade; second, coal was a great export and during the war nothing was exported; third, she had to borrow money for her allies. It was due to these reasons and due to the fact that many men were thrown out of work that there was a coal strike.

The mines in England being much deeper and more dangerous, and the fact that the coal had to be hauled a greater distance than in America makes the process of coal mining much more expensive. Miners could not stand the hard work.

Friends played a very important part in helping feed and clothe the miners and their families. Churches and homes were opened up to house people and were given as headquarters for the meetings. It was finally a statement drawn up by some prominent Friends that quieted the strike.

Mr. Sainty assured the audience that the miners and the mine owners were on the best of terms and that everything was being peacefully settled.

Miss Dixon Pays Visit

The daughter of Joseph M. Dixon, Miss Dorothy Dixon, was a visitor on the campus one day during the past week. She especially wished to visit the Henry Clay Society hall, where her father made his beginning as an orator and speaker. Joseph Dixon is the ex-Governor of Montana and a former student of Guilford College.
