QUAKER NINE ENTERS LAST TRAINING WEEK FOR INITIAL CONTEST

Will Play Wake Forest Friday
on Baptists' Field and A. C.
C. the Following Day

RABB PROBABLE HEAVER

Student Body Is Watching the Outcome of First Games as an Indication of Strength of 1927 Nine

With the first game less than a week off, Coach Doak's baseball squad is fastly rounding into condition.

Shortstop seems to be the only position in the infield that has not been settled. Layton, Gough, and Marshall have been working at this place during the past week. It looks now that Coach Doak will have to shift Layton to the outfield in an effort to strengthen the team's batting power.

Neese and Melvin are almost assured of doing the catching. Both of the catchers have developed sore arms during the past week because of the cold.

The pitchers' arms are getting limbered up and were told to "cut 'em loose" by Coach Doak at the beginning of the week or the warm days. Rabb and Coltrane give promise of being better than last year and will be ably assisted by Mackie, Gough and Whisenhunt, who will probably get to work some before the season is over. With pretty weather for the next few days, the kinks should be ironed out by next Friday, the date of the opening game. This game will be played at Wake Forest. The following day A. C. C. will be played at Wilson.

Very little is known of the relative strength of the teams to be met, therefore, the outcome will be awaited with interest.

MRS. CANFIELD SPEAKS ON PROMINENT WOMEN

Anne Hutchins First Woman in the Colonies Daring to Openly Criticise Preachers

OTHER WOMEN ARE MENTIONED

Mrs. H. L. Canfield, of Greensboro, spoke on "Eminent Women" in chapel Friday morning.

The first woman in the colonies who dared to criticise a preacher was Anne Hutchins. She organized the first Woman's Club in America and ministered to the sick in the colonies. For these radical ideas she was banished from her colony in mid-winter; yet 300 years later people had become educated enough to appreciate her work and have a handsome monument erected in her memory.

Another famous character is Frances E. Willard, who was born in Vermont and educated at Northwestern University. From 1874 through the remaining years of her life, she spent her time working for temperance in this country.

Other important women of the past mentioned by Mrs. Canfield were Mary A. Livermore, Susan B. Anthony, and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.

Taking up prominent women of today, Mrs. Canfield spoke of Jane Addams as "the woman who has been the most scorned, yet who has done more than anyone else towards furthering the needs of humanity in this age."

Press Association Meets May 5, 6, 7

The 13th Semi-Annual Meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will be held at the North Carolina College for Women on May 5, 6, and 7th, under the direction of the three publications of that institution.

The N. C. C. W. maidens are hard at work and are planning a good time for all those who attend. Speakers for the occasion have not been definitely selected, but the general arrangements are progressing very nicely. If any member of the Association has any suggestions for the convention they will be appreciated and may be sent to either Blanche Armfield or Frances Gibson of N. C. C. W.

NEGRO QUARTET GIVES A CONCERT

Hampton Institute Students
Hold a Large Audience Almost Spellbound

G. F. KETCHUM FIELD SEC.

Hampton Institute Quartet held their audience almost spellbound Friday night with their concert at the college chapel. These negroes were all that could be expected and filled the bill in a polished manner.

George F. Ketchum, field secretary of Hampton Institute, first told of the work of Hampton and the reasons for the support of the school. It is primarily for the teaching and development of negro teachers.

He also said that the quartet was the pick of the students and a program of strictly "hands off" was adhered to.

The quartet had been allowed to work out their own harmonies and those inherent in them naturally. Their voices blended naturally and it was heard to detect the leading voice.

Their concert consisted in the first part of negro spirituals:

1. "Roll, Jordan, Roll."
  2. "My Lord Were A-mournin'."
  4. "I Feel Like a Motherless Child."
- These numbers were remarkable for their variance of tone and keen natural rendition.
5. "Massa, Deah."
  6. "You Gonna Reap Just What You Sow."
  7. "Oh, My Lord, Have Mercy on Me."
  8. "Go Down, Moses."

The last part was of Dvorak's new world symphony.

The intermission was again taken up by Mr. Ketchum, who told of the similarity between the negro folk

DOCTOR PERISHO TO DELIVER ADDRESSES

Speaks at Deep River Last Sunday and Will Fill Engagements at Star and Saxapahaw Schools

Last Sunday morning Dr. Elwood C. Perisho spoke at the Deep River Church, one of the oldest churches in the state.

Monday he went to Stokes county to make an address at a group commencement of the various schools of the county, held at Sandy Ridge. He is also scheduled to make the commencement address at County Life School, Star, N. C., of which French Smith, who graduated from here last year, is principal.

Friday he is to speak at the Eli Whitney High School at Saxapahaw. His address will be one of the regular numbers of the school's lecture course.

YOUNG FRIENDS TO MEET AT GUILFORD

Third Conference Will Have as Theme Quaker Youth and Problems of today

MEETING AUGUST 8 TO 15

Publicity work on the Third Friend's Eastern Conference is under the direction of Leslie Frazer, of Ivor, Va. The GUILFORDIAN recently received the following announcement from Mr. Frazer, who states that he is sending a copy to all the major Friends publications and college papers as an official announcement of the meeting to be held at Guilford this coming summer:

"'Quaker Youth and Problems of Today' will be the theme of the Third Young Friends' Eastern Conference, which is to be held this year at Guilford College, North Carolina, August 8-15. The following suggest some of the problems to be considered: The Relationship of Religion and Science, Race Relations, Peace Problems, Industrial Problems, and the Mission of Quakerism and its relationships with other religious bodies.

"The first Young Friends' Conference was held four years ago at West-town School and the second Conference two years ago at George School—both places near Philadelphia. It is intended that this conference, which grew out of a concern four years ago that young Friends of the Atlantic seaboard states have opportunity to get acquainted with one another and consider together common problems and challenges, be continued biennially. However, instead of continuing to hold it near Philadelphia, which is a central place, it was thought best to take it occasionally toward the extremities of the territory so that a greater number of young Friends might find it possible to attend. This year, therefore, it is going south to Guilford College—with the hope that at some later year it may be taken north, perhaps to New England.

"The Young Friends' Eastern Conference is in no way a competitor of the General Conference sponsored by the Five Years Meeting of Young

MEXICAN OIL SITUATION MAY AFFECT THE WORLD

Says Doctor Perisho in Chapel Talk Discussing the Political Economical Background of Mexican Oil Fight

SINCLAIR-DOHENY ARE SCORED

Dr. Elwood C. Perisho spoke in chapel Tuesday morning, March 22, on the magic mystery and importance of oil. He began by referring to the oil situation in Mexico. Many Americans now own oil wells in Mexico. Most of these owners have made satisfactory arrangements with the Mexican government, but a few are not complying with the regulations and rights of Mexico and trouble is likely to result.

"The manner in which this situation terminates means much to the economic condition of the world," said Dr. Perisho. "Because oil is one of the world's most vital products." The United States produces twenty-three billions of gallons of oil per year, and consumes twenty-four billions of gallons per year. The production and consumption of oil in the world per year amounts to eight hundred million barrels.

Dr. Perisho then gave the recent history of oil in the United States. "Know the facts," he concluded, "then draw your conclusions."

Student Government and "Y" Officers Are Elected

Amateur Firemen Show Quick Work

A small fire at the home of Dr. L. L. Hobbs, at 6:45 o'clock Saturday morning, caused a great deal of excitement on the campus. The fire was discovered by one of the students, who evidently was not giving strict attention to class discussion. However, in this case the lack of interest in class was well repaid.

Some of the boys, in leaving King Hall, were thoughtful enough to take along a couple of fire-extinguishers. By the aid of these scientific devices Wilson Farlow, George Hendrickson and Worth Mackie were able to crush the flame before any serious damage was done. The result was only a small hole in the roof. The origin of the flame is unknown. Mrs. Hobbs thinks that it probably caught from burning soot that lodged on the roof.

MISS M'COLLUM A BIOLOGY ASSISTANT

Guilford Graduate and Winner of Scholarship to Bryn
Mawr Is Honored

DOING GRADUATE WORK

Miss Ruth McCollum, graduate of Guilford and winner of the Bryn Mawr scholarship last year, has been recently honored by Bryn Mawr College. Miss McCollum has been appointed assistant in Minor Biology at this institution. This is quite an achievement, as the Guilford department in Biology is rather limited. Since last fall, Miss McCollum has been taking undergraduate work in mathematics and a graduate course in Biology at Bryn Mawr College, and is doing excellent work.

Miss McCollum's promotion came as a recognition of the diligent and efficient work done by her during her short stay at Bryn Mawr.

MR. G. H. COLE SPEAKS ON CHINESE SITUATION

Says the Cantonese Are Basing Their Fighting on Principle That China
Have Republic

FOREIGNERS TO BE CONSIDERED

Prof. G. H. Cole spoke in chapel last Thursday morning on the present situation in China, or what's what in China.

Mr. Cole began his talk by giving some facts about the Chinese. "What you want to know is what it is all about," said he. China has just begun to move and wake up. She realized that China and her people are looked down on by the people of the other nations; and the Chinese are trying to get out of it. They detest the ideas of other nations, and have a burning desire to have a country of their own.

China is not without some very interesting as well as able men and leaders. Among these of the foremost importance are: Chang Tso Loin, war lord of Manchuria in Northern China, and a former bandit chief; Chiang Kai Shek, leader of the Cantonese of Southern China; Mu Pei Fu, marshal, defeated by Chang, and who is now "resting" in Central China; Feng Yu Haiang, a Christian general, marshal,

SERVE NEXT YEAR

Sallie Wilkins Chosen to Head
Women's Student Government in Election Saturday

COMPETENCY REALIZED

Alma Hassell Will Head Y. W. C. A. For Next Year—Minor Officers of Both Organizations Are Elected

A meeting of the girl's student body was called in Memorial Hall Tuesday, March 22, to vote for nominees for the executive positions of the Girls' Student Government organization. In another meeting held during chapel period Saturday, March 26, the final vote on the nominations was cast.

Miss Sallie Wilkins was elected by the girls' student body to act as president of their organization for the school year 1927-1928. Miss Annie Wagoner and Miss Ruby Hall were also nominees for this office, and Miss Wagoner was elected vice-president. By the elections Miss Berta Holliday was chosen to serve as secretary, and Miss Mary Ellen Lassiter as treasurer.

Miss Wilkins has previously served her classmates and the student body in the capacities of sophomore debater, member of the Guilfordian board, member of the Dramatic council, and chairman of the social committee in the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. She is the popular choice of the Girls' Student Body, and the election is a vote of confidence in her. The new executives will begin their active term of service in the fall and their appointment is the first step in the development of the student body organization of next year.

At the same meeting Saturday morning the officers for the Young Woman's Christian Association were elected. The elections were: President, Alma Hassell; vice-president, Doris Joyner; treasurer, Ruth Lane; secretary, Mary Neal; undergraduate representative, Frances Osborne. They also will go into office in September.

Owing apparently to the lassitude of the girls in regard to attending such student body meetings there was not a quorum and the pending amendment, "Resolved, That with the approval of the dean, Guilford men shall be given the same social privileges now accorded to visiting men," was not brought up. Another attempt to have this voted upon will be made next week.

JUNIOR-SENIOR GIRLS' S. S. CLASS RECREATES

The Junior and Senior Sunday school class held its annual picnic Saturday afternoon on the riverside near the old Ballinger place. The picturesqueness of the scene was necessary to such an outing as each member had been given the privilege of inviting a guest, preferably a gentleman.

After a period of time spent in exploring the nearby fields and catching cray-fish all were called to the campfire where weiners were wasted, and all the other numerous things partaken of that go to make up the menu of a picnic.

After supper a general good time was held around the campfire until the dreaded time of returning home. A casual observer would have been justified in thinking it was a swimming party, due to the fact that adults sometime like to return to their boyhood prank of throwing rocks into the river.
