CLAY-ZAY RECEPTION FIRST SOCIAL EVENT ON SPRING CALENDAR

Clays Entertain With a Parody on Compromise and Peace by Clay and Perisho

PROPHECY AND MUSIC

Reception is Socially Like its Predecessors For Decades Back and Everyone Enjoys the Event

Friday evening, April 22, was the event of a reception tendered the members of the Zatasian Literary Society by the men of the Henry Clay Literary Society. At 7:30 the marshal of the Henry Clay Society conducted the Zatasians to Memorial Hall, where they and the members of the faculty were guests at the regular business meeting and were entertained by an exceptionally fine program. The first number was Henry Clay's "Monsieur" Compromise, a mock senate, with Scott Parker as Vice-President Dawes, presiding, and Raymond Thomas acting as Secretary of the Senate. Notable senators of American History were present: Webster, personified by Sidney Winslow; Borals impersonated by Edwin Rozell, and Henry Clay acted by Byron Haworth. The question under debate was the declaration of a war on China or Mexico. The Republican senators advocated war with China. The Democratic senators maintained that war with Mexico would be more satisfactory. Worth Mackie, giving an excellent and highly entertaining impersonation of Senator Perisho of South Dakota, advocated peace, and

Good-Will the Magician Presented By 65 Children Directed by Alice Hazard

W. STEELE THE CHIEF CHARACTER

A pageant, "Good-Will the Magician" was presented by sixty-five children of the primary and junior department of the New Garden Sunday school, in Memorial Hall Saturday night. The play was directed by Miss Alice Hazard, superintendent of the Junior Department.

"Good-Will," the leading character of the play, was played by Wilmer Steele, a magic balloon man beloved of all children. "Good-Will," was the character about whom the play centered and impressively presented that idea of feeling between the nations. To make this idea more outstanding children from foreign countries, Japan, China, Russia, Italy, Germany, England and America in costume emphasized the fact that all the children from each land were brothers and sisters. To make the world safe and free from the misunderstandings which leads to war the children said they must love each other.

The costumes for the different countries were striking and authentic and represented the true spirit of each country. Each group played games and sang songs characteristic of their country, and in the final scene all the children of the nations gathered about "Good-Will" and joined in singing a good-will song.

The staging and costuming of the play were colorful and attractive and the delightfully spontaneous dancing, singing and acting of the children attested the excellent direction and management of Miss Hazard and her assistants.

Quaker to Be Ready for Circulation on May 10, About Ten Days Earlier Than Contract Specifies

After much ardent labor on the part of the Quaker Staff and students, the Wrigley Engraving Company of Atlanta, and the Queen City Printing Company of Charlotte, it has been discovered the annual will be ready for circulation about May 10. According to contract, the publication date was set for May 20. Much credit is due the two above mentioned companies for their rapid and efficient work.

It goes without saying "The Quaker" may not be up to the expectations in every respect of each student; it can hardly be expected to be perfect as to

ANNUAL SPRING PLAY IS TO BE PRESENTED ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Dramatic Council Presents "Grumpy," a Mystery Play, as Spring Production

DR. RUSACK COACHING

Olin Sink is in Title Role Supported by Strong Cast of Stan Moore, Charles Coble and Others

The Dramatic Council presents the regular spring play entitled "Grumpy" in Memorial Hall, Saturday evening, April 30, at 8 o'clock. The play is one of mystery, and having back of it a reputation of securing popularity while in the best theatres of New York and other large cities.

"Grumpy," alias Olin Sink is the outstanding character due to his ever quarreling disposition. Members of the household are nothing less than profound nuisances to him.

According to those connected with the direction of the coming production, the entire cast is strong. It was chosen after much deliberation on the part of the council, and since it was selected there have been steady practices. Even a part of Easter vacation was taken up with practices. Much credit is due the coach, Dr. Rusack, for her constant effort toward a successful performance.

The following students, including Grumpy, make up the cast: Lena Farlowe, Charles Coble, Stanley Moore, Ira Newlin, Arthur Mackie, Howard Cannon, Hannah Griffin, Sallie Wilkins, Elizabeth Braswell, Charles Robertson, and Raymond Coltrane.

The usual admission charge is $1.00 and 50 cents, respectively.

MAX REICH VISITS GUILFORD CAMPUS

Max Reich, a prominent minister of Philadelphia, spoke very fluently in the Y. M. C. A. meeting Thursday evening on the subject of "Prayer."

Mr. Reich read several portions of scripture bearing on this subject and bringing out the absolute necessity of prayer. Each person should consider it his individual duty to find some place that he may be along with God each day and there talk with Him as friend with friend. It is only through prayer that we can ever accomplish the best things of life. As we search the scriptures we can find place after place where people have relied absolutely upon God through prayer. In the life of Christ we can find a perfect example of this because he never lost sight of God. Today we can always have God with us if it is our earnest desire, but we must humble ourselves before Him in prayer and there ask Him for this helping hand that we need so badly.

Quakers Win Four Out of Five After Defeating Elon

Rain Interferes With Carolina Game. Doak Says "No More Moral Victories" and Team Starts Winning

Guilford seems to have hit her stride now in baseball. Since the Quakers hit the ball for a win over Elon college on April 13 and knocked Briggs out of the box in the fifth they have been playing great baseball. Briggs was relieved by Fowler who held the Quakers to two hits and one strike out but no runs. Coltrane pitched great ball all the way through, got himself out of the pinches admirably with the Quakers winning 4-3. Coltrane had the edge on Briggs and Fowler from the start and won the approval of the crowd gathered to witness the fray.

The next day Guilford journeyed to High Point and played the High Point Piedmont Leaguers at their home grounds. Rabb and Whisenhunt pitching for Guilford but losing 8-4. The game was not without thrills though, for Hendrickson stole home in the eighth inning and Taylor exhibited some great fielding once catching an almost impossible drive down the foul line.

Emory and Henry invaded Guilford and lost the game on April 16, 6-2. Rain caused the game to be called in the last half of the eighth with Layton scoring, one out and Parrish parked on third base after a three bagger to right field. This game was Guilford's first diamond encounter in the Memorial Stadium in Greensboro. Coltrane pitched stellar ball as usual. The Emory and Henry hurler was a little wild, hitting four batters and presenting five bases on balls.

Neece, Guilford's stocky catcher raised the ball for a three bagger in the second inning and scored Gough. It was

GIRLS' CHORUS STAGES A COLORFUL OPERETTA

"Feast of the Little Lanterns," Under Direction of Dr. J. W. White, is Very Entertaining

MISS JO PAUL PLAYS THE LEAD

The Guilford College Choral Society appeared for its first performance this year Wednesday evening in Memorial Hall, presenting an operetta, "The Feast of the Little Lanterns."

The operetta was of Japanese character. This character was well carried out through the entire production in setting, costumes and action. The stage was dressed in wistaria blossoms and lighted lanterns artistically hung in an arch effect.

The Chorus was balanced for the two part arrangement of the operetta for sopranos and contraltos. It well contrasted the soloists, who were Chandos Kimrey and Josephine Paul, sopranos, and Isabella Jinnette and Espie Neece, contraltos.

Josephine Paul and Isabella Jinnette should receive special honors for their splendid acting as well as singing. Miss Paul beautifully interpreted the part of jugglar and Miss Jinnette appeared best in her solo with chorus "Tis a Ghost."

The production was directed by James Westley White and artistically accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Binford.

LIBRARIAN TELLS OF CHOSEN PROFESSION

Miss Tommie Dora Barker, a representative from the Library School connected with Emory and Henry, spoke in chapel Friday morning in regard to what library work offers as a profession to the college boy and girl.

"The profession of librarianship," said Miss Barker, "offers all of those characteristics that a college graduate desires." Library work has a distinct social value in that it contributes to the stimulation of intellectual interest in any community and offers means of wholesome recreation.

A librarian must know the material in the library, and organize it for those who are seeking information, thus he is constantly increasing his own knowledge.
