KESTER SPEAKS ON WORLD FELLOWSHIP

States That America Does Not Have the Great Respect of Nations as Formerly

RENAISSANCE IS NEEDED

Nov. 11—A fitting commemoration of Armistice Day was the chapel talk Friday morning given by Howard Kester. Mr. Kester is executive secretary of the youth section of the Fellowship of Reconciliation. We are met on the battlefield of humanity to celebrate the signing of the Armistice, the end of the war, which was to end all war and institute international democracy and good-will. That war, instead, created more hate and strife and made enemies out of friends. And now we must turn and confront the world with love and brotherhood. Civilization is committing suicide and the masses are in despair. Some are rushing on in a wild, gay life, full of personality because of Western civilization. The one group which has lived up to its religion is the Society of Friends. America is not the promising nation it was in the time of Washington or Lincoln. The American Eagle does not fly so high now, for its talons are filled with gold. We have forsaken the principles and precepts with which we started and for this reason we have lost our reputation. China once looked up to us as the hope of the world.

War is the result of economic forces. A few are greedy for power and gold. Cuba has iron and sugar that we want. Also her position is good as a naval base. Consequently the United States went to war to get Cuba and the Philippines, and she won them. War is competition to secure natural resources. We are drifting into another war. Military training, getting more and more influence in schools and colleges, tends to engender hate and strife. Shall we return to savagery or resist the would-be rulers by international democracy? Let us use the youth of today to bring about a 20th century Renaissance.

The Russian youth are already looked up to, but the American youth need to be imbued with the spirit of the Renaissance four or five centuries ago. We may follow the trail of strife blazed for us or a new trail of love and joy and life. To be sure we must pay a great price for freedom, but Christ and Joan of Arc and others have set us examples. Shall we follow the beaten track of strife and hatred or shall we blaze a new trail with a 20th century Renaissance?

Thomas Matthews, a student at Guilford college from 1888 to 1892, called to see friends at the college recently. He was returning to his home in Charlotte from Roaring Gap Hotel. "Uncle Tom," as he was fondly called while at Guilford, has been a hotel man for a number of years, and knows the traveler from Murphy to Manteo.

CAST WORKING HARD ON FALL PRODUCTION

All the Characters for the Fall Play, Entitled "The Importance of Being Ernest" Have Been Selected and Are Proceeding With Rapidity and Are Approaching Perfection Under Direction of Professor Furnas

Shades of Edwin Booth, John Barrymore and Sarah Bernhardt! A marvelous array of local talent such as man has never seen before and may never see again! And Oscar Wilde's, "The Importance of Being Ernest," is the vehicle for these Guilford satellites.

Mind you, this "Ernest" is not an adjective, but a proper name for two proper men, (sometimes improper). Wit and cleverness are the two outstanding qualities upon which the play hinges; it is light but extremely interesting.

Jo Paul takes the part of Cecily Cardew, an intelligent but unsophisticated country girl of good family. Hannah Griffin has a parallel role in Gwendolyn Fairfax, who is a city girl and ultra-sophisticated. Opposite these are the leading men, Ernest Scarboro and Robert Biles, who take the parts of John Worthing and Algernon Moncrief. John Worthing, more familiarly known as "Jack," is a rather serious-minded chap; he has high ideals but still does not lack a plentiful supply of humor in his make-up. "Algy" is more on the type of the blase, good-natured Englishman, who takes everything as it comes and is not exceedingly bothered as to whether school keeps or not.

Sarah Edgerton is the up-to-date aunt, Lady Bracknell, always on the qui vive and quite capable of taking care of anything or anybody. Miss Prism, strait-laced and the exactly correct and proper governess of Cecily, is portrayed by Deborah Harvey, and we'll give you a tip right now that she and one, Dr. Chasuble, eminent and respected curate, played by Bunyan Andrew, make things interesting, to say the least. What is a play without a butler? Well, there are two here, and they give double the entertainment that just one would furnish. Ira Newlin and Harris Moore satisfy the proprieties to the peak of perfection, in the parts of Lane and Merriman.

In this play we have action, heart-throbs, repartee, and humor which cannot fail to satisfy the most exacting and discriminating taste. Young and old, single and married, infirm and able-bodied, all can come to this play and see it with thorough enjoyment and satisfaction. The cast is proceeding with rapidity and acceleration and is fast approaching the point of perfection. We promise and assure you of a noteworthy performance.

FACULTY ENJOY PARTY AT ODELL CLUB HOUSE

Three-Deep, Charades, and Expert Clogging of Purdom and Williams Feature Evening

Nov. 9—On Wednesday the Faculty turned out for a general good time at the Odell Club House. Since the new members of the Faculty were entertaining the old, Professor Furnas officiated as master of ceremonies. For the entertainment of the ladies the men pitched horseshoes until dark, when the large room of the club house became the center of attraction. Supper was served when everybody had gathered around the two open fireplaces at each end of the room. After supper, stories were told by several gifted members while others listened and popped corn. Three-deep and snake and charades next claimed their attention. To

FALL BAZAAR OF Y. W. HELD AT NEW GARDEN

Novelties, Features, and Good Eats Draw Large Crowd of Students to Enjoy Evening of Fun

HOME EC. COOKING EXCELLENT

Nov. 12.—The Y. W. C. A. Bazaar was held Saturday night in New Garden Hall. The dining room was decked out beyond possible recognition with leafy branches and bright crepe paper streamers. At one side of the room was a cake and candy booth which couldn't be seen, for the crowd around it, till after the supply gave out. On the other side was the novelty counter which offered anything from squealing cats to powder filled dolls and miniature baby coaches. The Fishing Pond was the center of interest for the curious who for a consideration were allowed to try their luck. Tables were placed at becoming and convenient intervals over the remaining floor space for the benefit of those desiring cocoa, pie, ice cream and cake or sandwiches as their circumstances demanded.

After the interests in the dining room had been exhausted, general sociability was in order until nine forty-five.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE DOWNS QUAKERS IN ARMISTICE DAY TILT

Quakers Carry Ball to the Ten-Yard Line in First Quarter But Are Unable to Score

ROBERTSON IS INJURED

Most Spectacular Play Was a Pass From Parrish to Wildman Who Carried the Ball 62 Yards

November 11.—Playing a clean-cut brand of football, that at times smacked of brilliance, High Point College defeated Guilford 27-0 in the annual Armistice day game played in the world war memorial stadium in Greensboro Friday afternoon, before the championship of the "little five" to the Purple Panthers.

The entire first quarter was played in High Point territory. The Quakers received the kick-off and together with a couple of first downs found them on the Panthers' 10-yard line. The Panthers then punted to safety but were soon confronted with the Quakers on their 10-yard line again. High Point was able to resist these scoring threats and the quarter ended scoreless.

The Panthers crossed the line for 13 points in the second quarter. High Point recovered a fumble in mid-field and by the aid of a few passes were able to score the first goal. With about three minutes of the half's play left, Heath passed to Purdue who made a run of 30 yards for their second score.

Another touchdown was scored early in the third quarter. This brought the score to 20 to 0. The Quakers seemed to come to life again and put out some opposition until nearly the end of the third quarter when High Point scored their final touchdown.

In the fourth quarter the Quakers were full of pep. In this quarter the Quakers put up their most scrappy play. It was spotted with long passes and end runs for the Quakers. The most spectacular play was a pass from Parrish to Wildman.

GUILFORD FRESHMEN WIN RAMSEUR GAME

A Close Game Throughout, Both Teams Displaying Good Passing But Off In Shooting

VISITORS GET ALUMNI SUPPORT

Nov. 11.—The Guilford Freshmen defeated Ramsey High 18-17 in a close game of basketball at the college gym, Friday night. The game was very close throughout, both teams displaying good passing but being off in shooting.
