

Death of David White Shocks Guilford College

LOSS KEENLY FELT

Secretary Board of Trustees,
Then Chairman of College
Endowment Fund.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE

Prominent Real Estate Man in City of Greensboro for Over Thirty Years.

Another inestimable loss to Guilford College and to Quaker life and activities throughout North Carolina came with the death on Friday, September 15, of David White, member of the college board of trustees and father of Priscilla White, a popular member of the Sophomore class at Guilford. For nearly 30 years Mr. White has been secretary of the board of trustees and has taken an active part in the promotion of the interests of the college during the entire time.

Guilford College set aside its regular chapel schedule last week and devoted the assembly on Monday, September 19, to a memorial service to Mr. White. President Binford summarized the many activities of Mr. White's life and presented an estimate of him as a man and as a leader in the educational, religious, business, and civic life of the community and the state.

Both the father and grandfather of Mr. White served before him as members of the board of trustees of the college. Mr. White himself entered Guilford in 1886 and was graduated in 1890 in the second class to receive bachelor's degrees from Guilford. For a short time after his graduation he was a member of the faculty of the institution, and in 1903 he was elected to the board of trustees. In 1905 he was made secretary of the board and held that position until last spring, when he was released in order that he might devote more time to the endowment fund of the college. He was chairman of the endowment fund committee at the time of his death.

In the business life of Greensboro, where he made his home, David White was recognized as one of the outstanding leaders in the city. For 35 years he was in the real estate business there, and in 1925 he organized the White Realty Company. He was the first president of the North Carolina Real Estate Board and was past president of the Greensboro Real Estate Board. When Greensboro was under the council-managerial form of government he was a member of the city council.

In the Society of Friends Mr. White was an active member all his life. He was a leader in the religious work of the Asheboro Street Friends church in Greensboro and at the time of his death he was clerk of the Greensboro monthly meeting of Friends, a position which he held for a number of years.

In giving an estimate of the character of the man, at the memorial service held Monday, Dr. Binford said, "David White was a man of very deep convictions but also was a man of remarkable human sympathy. These deep convictions and this sympathy combined to make him a man of remarkable judgment, whose opinion was valued by everyone who came into contact with him."

With the death of David White Guilford College has lost three men during the past year whose contributions to the institution can in no way be over-

(Continued on Page Two)

FRESHMAN WEEK AT GUILFORD ENJOYED

Matriculation and Introduction to College Life Is
Theme of Period.

SPEECHES BY FACULTY

Sunday night, September 5, saw the arrival of the first contingent of Freshmen at Guilford College. On Monday morning, however, the largest number descended from various kinds and types of conveyances before the doors of "The Quaker College."

Monday was largely taken up with matriculation, paying of bills, and arranging rooms. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Dr. Binford welcomed these new students to Guilford with a talk in Memorial Hall, and then at night Dean Milner met the boys in Archdale and gave them an idea of what conduct was expected.

Tuesday morning Dean Milner made a talk in Memorial Hall and explained Guilford's educational program. After the English placement tests, the Freshman class of about 70 members was divided alphabetically into four sections for the orientation program. After lunch Dr. Perisho made a talk explaining the campus to the new students.

Wednesday the Freshmen took the intelligence test, and pursued their orientation program. In the evening the new students were divided into small groups under the leadership of some older students, visited the homes of faculty members.

Thursday morning the upperclassmen began to arrive and registrations were begun. Thursday night the various student organizations were presented to the Freshmen and all the new students, who were interested in the various activities were invited to come out and participate.

(Continued on Page Two)

THANKSGIVING DAY SET FOR BIG HOME-COMING

Former Students Have Opportunity of Remembering Acquaintances and Meeting Freshmen.

GRID GAME WITH ELON FEATURE

Home-coming day this year is to be held on Thanksgiving, November 24th. This is the day when all old students and alumni are to be our guests.

A program is planned to occupy the whole day. By far the most important event is the grid contest between Guilford and Elon, the big game of the year for both teams, in the afternoon.

This is a great day at Guilford, one that the students point for to make the year a success.

Home-coming day is the best opportunity for graduates and old students to return and renew old acquaintances, and to meet the newer students of the college. It is the means to tighten the co-operative spirit between the alumni and the student body, something much needed at Guilford.

During the course of the day, grads and students you knew last year and other years will be back. They will visit the fellows and young ladies. The students can do their part in a big way by making them feel "back home" by their welcome.

CLIFFORD FRAZIER SPEAKS AT CHAPEL TUESDAY MORNING

Noted Lawyer of Greensboro
Republican Candidate for Governor.

IS ALUMNUS OF GUILFORD

Speaks on Capital Wealth of North Carolina and on the Increase of the Public Debt.

We consider ourselves fortunate in having as our chapel speaker, Tuesday, September 20, Clifford Frazier, the Republican candidate for Governor of the State. He was graduated from Guilford College 25 years ago—so we have a personal interest in him. Two years later he received his Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of North Carolina. Since that time he has practiced law in Greensboro and has risen to the front ranks of the legal profession. Although his speech to us was non-partisan we know that he stands for sobriety and temperance and a policy of good government. He is a man who is qualified to fill the position of Governor of North Carolina.

Mr. Frazier used his political etiquette and gave us a non-political speech. In former times there has been a distinct line drawn between the two parties, but this line is mostly imaginary, and is growing less distinct. A pessimist is a person who sees a difficulty in every opportunity, an optimist is a person who sees an opportunity in every difficulty, but a normal person sees the difficulty in every opportunity and the opportunity in every difficulty.

At first politics held no interest for Mr. Frazier, usually people's convictions follow their own personal advantages—there is always present that desire for political office. But there are a few people who work for the best of the state. A person must talk with considerable care when making political speeches for the newspapers take what they like of one's speech, "play up" that part and leave out the rest.

(Continued on Page Two)

MR. TAMBLYN GIVES INTERESTING TALK

Theme of Message Was Influence of Christ in the Present
State of Conditions.

INDEPENDENT ATTITUDE

Mr. Tamblyn, who is giving up his place as pastor of Grace Methodist church in Greensboro, spoke in chapel on Friday, September 16th.

Mr. Tamblyn took his text from the epistles to the Philippians and the Corinthians. The theme of his message was the influence of Christ in the present state of conditions, and he opened with the query, "Will changes lead us away from or toward Christ?"

In the last decade emphasis has been put on the tangible and material side of religious institutions. Now these attitudes must be changed by Christians who are living examples of Christ's teachings. These Christians must have Christ-like minds which include independent attitudes enabling them to rise above the ruling ideas of the day, and which will give them moral insight, ethical discrimination and deep and sincere ability.

Student Forum for Men in Thursday Morning Chapel

JOINT RECEPTION BY LITERARY SOCIETIES

Phils and Zays Give Program
Featured by Numerous
Reading Selections.

GIRLS ALLOWED TO DANCE

On Friday night, September 23rd, the annual Zatasian-Philomathean reception for the new girls on the campus was held. Each society met at 7 o'clock for the regular meeting in its respective society hall.

The Philomatheans' program was opened with a solo "Deep River," by Dr. Eva Campbell. Esther Lee Cox then read an original poem of "Welcome" for the Freshmen women.

As a novelty Rose Askew gave an impersonation of a girl reading a letter.

Gertrude Mears gave the reading "In the Morn'" which depicted an old negro mammy calling her lazy, good fo' nothin' son to breakfast.

In conclusion Dr. Campbell sang another selection, "Sweet As Any White Child." This number was sung for both society programs.

The Zatasians had as subject for their program negro poets. Martha Taylor gave a few of the outstanding facts concerning Paul Laurence Dunbar, and read two of his poems—"After the Quarrel," and "Death Song."

Priscilla White gave the life of Comtee Cullen and also read a few of his outstanding poems; among these were "I Have a Rendezvous With Life" and "Four Epitaphs."

As the third number on the program Ava Roberts read several selected poems written in negro dialect.

Following the regular meetings both societies went to Men's Center where

(Continued on Page Four)

OPENING RECEPTION IS HELD SEPTEMBER 10

Library Is Scene of Reception Under Auspices of Christian Associations.

MANY ALUMNI WERE PRESENT

A reception for new students, held in the library Saturday evening under the auspices of the joint Christian Associations, was the brilliant climax of the activities of Freshman week.

The reception line consisted of the faculty and the two Y presidents. The new students were each accompanied by an upper classman, who led them down the line and introduced them. The procession began in front of Founders Hall.

At the end of the line each student was given a booklet, to obtain the signatures of new and old friends. During the whole evening, "Won't you write in my book?" was the stock excuse for opening a conversation.

In the course of the evening punch was served in front of the library.

Upperclassmen were pleased to see a number of alumni present. Ed Blair, Paul Tew, Glenn Robertson, Marshall Barney, Paul Reynolds, Mary Reynolds, Lottie Stafford, and Gladys McBane were among the old students at the reception.

The library had been cleared of tables, and was beautifully decorated with potted plants and wild flowers.

(Continued on Page Two)

JAMIESON LEADS

Cheating, Stealing, Smoking and Other Topics Are Discussed by Group.

HONOR SYSTEM IGNORED

Deplored Appearance and Conduct in Dining Room and "Lack of Co-operation."

Last Thursday saw the first men's chapel for the year, and many current problems were brought up. Robert Jamieson, the Men's Student Council President had charge of the discussion and brought up the points to be considered. The meeting was a brief survey of the principles enforced at Guilford which all loyal students should follow.

The president's first topic was the honor system. This responsibility, first placed on the students two years ago, is not being taken seriously enough. The Freshmen are the chief abusers because the purpose and intent of the system are not fully grasped. The honor system applies not only to conduct during examinations but is in effect throughout the school year over the entire campus. Cheating, or failure to report someone seen cheating, is the most important issue of the system and in both cases it has become lax amongst the entire student body. Evidences were not few in the final exams of last semester. Papers with the same mistakes which could leave no doubt that dishonest methods were used, had been brought before the council. Students do not realize that even though they do get away with things of this sort, they are also being disloyal to the school and unworthy of the trust bestowed on them.

Another matter that was investigated by the council last year was stealing. Anyone who is old enough to come to college and has enough intelligence to stay there should know better than ever to think of taking something that is not theirs. This is not only a criminal offense but it tends to undermine the character. One offense will be sufficient reason for expulsion from school.

Smoking on the campus was also brought up at the meeting. Little glowing lights have been seen going about the eastern part of the campus after dark, and as lightning bugs are out of season the faculty are led to believe that students are not observing the established custom of not smoking on the campus. It is understood that some of the students have acquired the tobacco habit. These should control themselves sufficiently to refrain from smoking on the campus.

Something which rests not so much with the group as with the individual, is conduct and appearance in the dining room. A decided change would be appreciated by the women students and the faculty, and the men should give them a little consideration.

There is a definite lack of co-operation among the students which should be remedied. This can easily be illustrated. Members of athletic teams who hold jobs need someone to work for them when they go away on trips. In former years it was easy enough to get someone to do their work. Now they not only have trouble in finding someone to work but also have to pay them. The fellows who hold jobs cannot afford to pay for substitution and shouldn't have to. It should be looked