

DRAMATIC COUNCIL'S FALL PRESENTATION IS VERY SUCCESSFUL

"Death Takes a Holiday" is a Fitting Climax to Homecoming Day.

BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

Music Furnished by New Guilford College Orchestra Under Direction of Dr. Ezra Weis.

The Guilford College Dramatic Council last Saturday presented a stellar performance of Alberto Casella's fantasy, "Death Takes a Holiday," directed by Philip W. Furnas, professor of English, before one of the largest audiences ever to gather in Guilford's Memorial hall auditorium.

Visiting alumni who returned to the 99-year-old school for the annual homecoming day celebration were given a delightful treat in the best performed play staged at Guilford in recent years. Daryl Kent, a member of the senior class, gave an unusually creditable characterization in the role of "Death." Kent's action won considerable commendation from the homecoming audience. Milton Anderson, as the austere Duke Lambert, proved that he, although a new student at Guilford, is destined to be a leading member of the council. The heroine's role, played very dramatically by Miss Virginia Levering, was another high spot in the evening's performance. As the rejuvenated old love-making bachelor, J. L. Jones again made a hit with the Guilford audience. His role provided the comedy for an otherwise serious and philosophical production. Promising work was done by three newcomers to Guilford: Dorothy Woodward, David Stafford, and Jynette LaRosa. The other members of the council played their parts very well. Frances Alexander, Sybil Barrow, Esther Stilson, Bill Grigg as an aristocratic Englishman, James Parsons, and James Lovings all did Casella's play justice.

Music was furnished by the Guilford College orchestra under the direction of Dr. Ezra H. F. Weis.

MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL ASKS FOR CO-OPERATION

The Men's Student Council is asking all firecracker enthusiasts to refrain from using fireworks until they return home at Christmas. They do not wish to have a month of fireworks on campus before Christmas for the following sensible reason: Fireworks are dangerous in the college buildings, and spoil people's rest at night.

These students are asked to cooperate in this matter as much as possible by considering others who have a right to rest and quiet.

The council hopes that no drastic measures will have to be taken in this matter.

FINE ARTS CLUB MEETS SEVERAL PEOPLE SING

COLLEGE CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY OF ANDREW CARNEGIE

All America to Commemorate Hundredth Birthday of This Great Philanthropist.

HIS PICTURE IS UNVEILED

The Andrew W. Carnegie Trust Fund Has Greatly Helped the Guilford College Library.

On November 25th America will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of the great philanthropist and steel magnate, Andrew Carnegie, who has probably contributed more toward the upkeep of charitable foundations and the formation of trust funds than any other single man in the history of the world. In celebrating his birthday Guilford College will unveil a picture of Carnegie. The unveiling ceremony will be under the direction of Miss Katherine C. Ricks, the Guilford librarian.

The college library, completed in October, 1909, was built from funds amounting to $9,000 raised by trustees and friends of the college, and an equal amount contributed from the Andrew Carnegie trust fund. From 1930 to 1934 these trust funds contributed $8,000 to the Guilford Library for the purchase of books.

Carnegie's theory of wealth, out of which evolved his enormous project of endowments for colleges and public libraries, was in effect as follows: The man of wealth, after providing moderately for his own wants, and the wants of his dependents, should consider all surplus revenues coming to him simply as trust funds which he is called upon to administer to his less fortunate neighbors. To this end Andrew Carnegie devoutly apply himself, with the result that he is known as the greatest benefactor of the human race in modern times.

Some of the more important Carnegie trusts in the United States are the $135,000,000 Carnegie Corporation in New York, the $32,000,000 Carnegie Institute of Washington, and the $10,540,000 Hero Commission of Pittsburgh.

It has been said that if it had not been for the aid which the Guilford library received from Carnegie funds, the library would be only a room in Founders Hall.

RABBI F. L. RYPINS MAKES TALK MONDAY

The 17th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice was celebrated in the Guilford College chapel by two peace programs. The first of these was held Friday morning, November 8, as a part of the nation-wide student mobilization for peace, and included, in addition to a two-minute period of silence, talks by students who have been prominently allied with the peace sentiment at Guilford. The second took the form of a speech on "Means Toward Peace," by Rabbi F. L. Rypins, of Greensboro's Temple Emanuel.

Other chapel offerings for the two-week period just past include the presentation of a scene from the Dramatic Council's fall play, "Death Takes a Holiday," and a musical program. Talks by Dean Purdom and the Rev. Mr. Hurlburt, one of Vermont's better known Congregationalist divines, were given.

DR. MILNER'S BOOK ON COLLEGE LIFE IS SOON TO APPEAR

Dr. Robert L. Kelly, Secretary of Association of Colleges, Presents Introduction.

TREATISE ON EDUCATION

President Calls Book "Dean of a Small College"; Emphasizes Christian Philosophy of Education.

Dr. Clyde A. Milner will shortly publish his book, "Dean of a Small College," which is a philosophy of education for the small liberal arts college and the interpretation of the duties and opportunities of it.

Two aims of the book are: to survey the office of dean as it is now administered in a small liberal arts college, and to see more clearly what the office should be in the light of a Christian philosophy of education.

Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, presents the introduction. Dr. Kelly states in the introduction, "It (the book) should serve as a tonic to those colleges which have not definitely defined their objectives, or coordinated those objectives with the instructional procedure, or indeed their on-going life."

"The book should stimulate a more discriminating understanding and assist in the development of a guild spirit which will elevate the deans' task to the level of a profession.

"Dr. Milner holds frankly to the conviction that the small American college is incomplete if it does not base its educational theory and practice on the central teachings of the Great Teacher."

This book could also be called a philosophy of education and will appeal to all those interested in educational problems.

FACULTY MEMBERS PICK FRESHMAN DEBATERS

Four Men Chosen to Represent Class of '39 in Debate With Upper-class Team.

TO MEET JUNIORS THIS MONTH

David Stafford, John Hallowell, Alvin Meibohm, and Tyree Gilliam have been tentatively chosen to represent the class of '39 in a forthcoming forensic struggle with the juniors. The selection was made by Professors Algie Newlin, William Suiter, and Dorothy Gilbert, who sat as a committee of three at the request of the freshmen interested in the matter. Their decision ranked Stafford and Hallowell definitely as members of the team, and split third place between Meibohm and Gilliam, pending further selection to determine to which the berth will go.

The debate, which will take place in the latter part of November, is the result of a challenge issued by the juniors and taken up by Stafford in his capacity as president of the younger class. Whatever the outcome of the contest, it is expected to serve as a proving ground for the talents of the newcomers.

Dr. Milner Speaks Over Radio

Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of the college, spoke Tuesday, November 12, over radio station WBIG on the "Contribution of the Individual to Peace." Thursday, November 14, he spoke on "The School and Social Change."
