dent's Office.

CLASSES PRESENT GIFTS

Landscaping of Memorial Circle, Lily
Pond, and Osborne Likeness Undertaken by Graduate Groups.

Dr. Clyde A. Milner, has presented the college with portraits of his three predecessors in office as his contribution to the Centennial Gift list. These pictures, of Dr. Lewis Lyndon Hobbs, Dr. Thomas Newlin, and Dr. Raymond Binford, respectively, were recently hung in the president's Memorial hall office. Hobbs, who was first president of Guilford College, having previously been principal of New Garden Boarding School, served in the former capacity from 1888-1915; Newlin, his successor, filled the post until 1917; and Binford, now President Emeritus, took office in 1918 and served until 1934, when Milner succeeded him.

In addition to Dr. Milner's gift, several gifts from alumni organizations were approved on Homecoming day by the Centennial committee. The most important of these were the landscaping of Memorial circle, which was accepted by the class of '31 in memory of a deceased classmate, a Lily pool and rock garden accepted by the class of '10 and a portrait of Miss Louise Osborne, former matron, which will be presented by the class of '13. The Lily pool and rock garden will be placed between Mary Hobbs and Founders' halls, in the neighborhood of the new Student Affairs hut.

Many other such gifts are anticipated by the Centennial committee as a part of the hundredth year ceremonies.

DR. MILNER DELIVERS KEYNOTE ADDRESS

President Makes Talk at Annual Social Standards Conference of Burlington High School.

IS LEADER OF DISCUSSION GROUP

Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford College, gave the keynote address at the annual Social Standards conference of the Burlington high school on Saturday, November 20.

The theme of the conference was "How to Get the Most Out of Life." Dr. Milner centered his talk around this subject. Following the general assembly the student body was divided into six groups, each with a discussion leader. The topics used were: honesty, being contented, sportsmanship, dependability, ambition and success in a life work. Dr. Milner led the group which discussed ambition.

This conference grew out of the idea recently developed in the state to bring conferences to the high schools instead of trying to get students to go out to conferences.

WORK ON "Y" HUT IS NOW UNDER WAY

Old Powerhouse Is Being Remodeled into An Entirely Modern Building.

MAY BE COMPLETED SOON

The task of remodeling the old powerhouse, built at the turn of the century, into an entirely modern "Student Affairs Building" is now under way and should be completed within the next week or ten days. Work on the building, which is the contribution of Guilford's students toward the Centennial program, has progressed rapidly since it was begun a little over two weeks ago. A new roof with the gable in the center has replaced the old one-sided affair. The front, which has an "old country store" appearance has been changed to be in harmony with the other buildings on the campus. Storm sheeting for a new hardwood floor has been laid. Double windows will be put in each side and one window in each of the back rooms. The chimney will be put in the center of the east side. There will be a kitchenette in the rear, outfitted with facilities for preparing light lunches. Plumbing has already been installed. A cloak closet will be opposite the kitchen and the entire interior will be plastered. A walk to Founders' and one to the Founders-Mary Hobbs walk will be constructed in the near future.

A social calendar for the hut has already been made up, and several interested organizations have reserved dates for future functions.

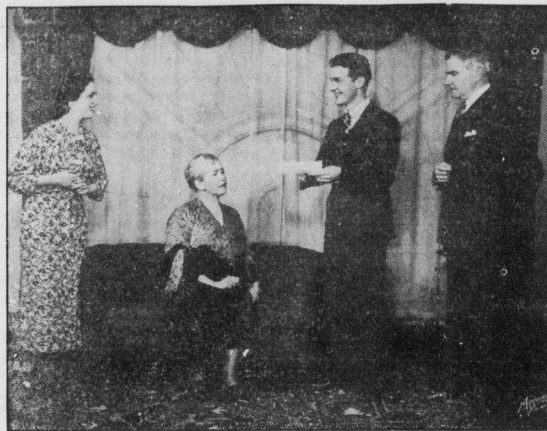

Ed Boring Cheered to Victory In Thrilling Blindfold Battle

"Killer" Boring fought "Wildcat" Woolston to a standstill in a five-round no-decision bout held at the Y. M. C. A. stag last Monday night. Experts attributed his win to the customary facility of the Killer's lightning left, but many spectators felt that the fact that both contestants were blindfolded played a major part in the outcome of the slugfest. In the preliminary event, which featured two flyweights, G. Boles and T. Boles, Boles emerged triumphant.

The fights were only a part of the extensive program provided by the Y for the enthusiastic crowd that turned out for the affair. Another feature that received a stirring round of applause was Center Section's "Adventures of Popeye," starring "Sweetpea" Hepler, while "Bing" Rich created

Rico Lebrun's "Anna" and Raphael Soyer's "Flower Vendor" Take
Second and Third Places.

"High Yaller," by Reginald Marsh, was chosen as their favorite by those students who saw the Living American art exhibit in Founders' hall recently. "Anna," by Rico Lebrun, took second place and Raphael Soyer's, "The Flower Vendor" was the students' third choice. A copy of this last picture has been purchased.

Marsh, painter of the first prize picture, says of it, "I walked up and down in Harlem one day searching for a black beauty . . . A statuesque beauty accompanied by half a dozen smart young negro bucks, sauntered by and disappeared . . . It is she that I have attempted to portray here.
