

QUAKES

By CARRUTHERS and TAYLOR

Catawba pulled the biggest upset in the recent North State basketball tournament at High Point when it defeated the highly favored High Point Panthers. The Indians played Appalachian in the finals and gave the Mountaineers a great battle before falling before the consistent shooting of Miller and Novotny.

Our freshman basketball team deserves a lot of overdue praise for their past season. The first year men won three games this year and should prove to be a big help to Coach Smith's varsity team next year. Johns and Schoellkopf were outstanding among the frosh cagers.

Highlight of the opening night of the intramural basketball tournament was the "Wrong-Way Corrigan" act pulled by "Mo" McMillan. Upon receiving the ball from a fellow Centerite, Freck galloped to the opposing team's basket amid the wild cheers of everyone, especially Buck and Mackie. With a graceful leap he tossed the ball, but failed to ring the basket. This did not dampen the spirits of Freck a bit and so he made another unsuccessful attempt at the basket.

Some of these big eating athletes around here should find some of the members of the home economics department who baked the cakes for the session at which the junior speeches were given. They were really good cakes and everyone enjoyed them very much.

Don't forget the Monogram club dance next Saturday night in the gym. The dance was previously set for March 22, but it has been moved to the 15th. A good orchestra will furnish music and so it will be the outstanding social event of the spring. Tickets may be secured from any Monogram club member, and so all Guilfordians, buy your tickets early!

All participants in the ping-pong tournament should play their games as soon as possible, because the tournament has to be run off by spring vacation.

Take notice, anti-subsidizationists! A new sport has been uncovered on the campus which should appeal to you. Bring your bag of marbles over to New North any Sunday morning and we will send our boy, Mendinball, the campus champ, into the ring with you. P. S.—He plays for keeps.

Among the more prominent spectators at the opening night of the intramurals were the "Three Stooges," commonly known on the campus as Dr. Ljung, Dr. Purdom, and Dr. Williams. We commend these three for their interest in the intramural program as well as other sports activities. The scores of the games resembled pitchers' battles—6-3, 8-7, 10-9.

What's going on behind closed doors concerning the intercollegiate activities for next year? We read in the Daily News a few weeks ago of the possibility of offering scholarships to athletes. A few days later we read in the Record that Guilford may "throw in the towel" as far as intercollegiate activities are concerned. Which is right? Don't we, as students, deserve to know the truth?

We really think that subsidization would be best, because it would give Coach Smith some good material, which he has deserved, on which to build a winning team.

Campus Polls Cull Opinions On Leadership, Curriculum

for improvement. These questionnaires have been circulated in the dormitories by Edna Earle Edgerton (Mary Hobbs hall), Grace Beittel (Founders), Goldanna Cramer (The Pines), and Roberta Shepherd (The Kent House). Young men filled out the blanks at the Dean's office when they received their grades.

Edna Earle Edgerton's survey project is a part of her senior thesis, the subject of which is, "Distinguishing Characteristics of Leadership: A Study with Selected Students at Guilford College." To Mrs. Milner's Philosophy class, Mr. Fink's Educational Psychology class, and chosen faculty members, Edna Earle has distributed mimeographed sheets containing names of the leaders of ten major campus organizations, ten other members of the senior class (chosen at random) who may possess traits of good leadership, and a list of the 25 qualities possessed by a good leader. Her purpose is to discover whether or not our campus leaders really possess the qualities of leadership or whether they acquired their positions by other means, such as "pull" or popularity.

The anticipated results, although biased in some instances, will be as nearly valid as possible. Then, by working out the correlation between opinions of faculty members and students, Edna Earle, a psychology major, can satisfactorily complete the last half of her thesis, the first part dealing with leaders in general, requirements, training, and hazards.

Miss Gilbert Discusses Dickinson at E. C. T. C.

Miss Dorothy Lloyd Gilbert, of the Guilford faculty, spoke to the English club of Eastern Carolina Teachers' college at Greenville, N. C., last Tuesday evening. Her talk concerned the life and work of Emily Dickinson, American poetess.

Gwyn Paces Battlers In Ping-Pong Ladder As Favorites Loaf

Dark-horse Bill Gwyn got a head start on the rest of the ping-pong field by battling his way into the semi-finals this week with a rubber-game victory over Robert Register, his opponent in the quarter-finals of the upper bracket.

Meanwhile the favorites won but lagged behind in their schedule. "Zero" Davis went into the quarter-final round in the lower bracket as did highly rated Martin Lebenstein. Don McAuslan faces Charlie Hill in the upper division in the round of 16.

The winner of the McAuslan-Hill go will take on the Carter-Nolan victor in the quarter-finals, the survivor of the four to meet Gwyn in the semi-finals. Lebenstein must defeat the winner of the Shell-Stephenson match to get to the round of four. Sleepy Walters will face the winner of the Tilley-Mendinball set-to, the winner meeting Davis for the fourth semi-final post. Davis, Lebenstein and McAuslan are heavy favorites to join Gwyn in the crucial round. Play ends before spring vacation.

BOB SMITH, senior, and veteran middle-distance runner, will captain the Quaker track team in defense of its North State conference championship this year. The harriers got their outfits Thursday and set about the business of preparing for the season.

Parkers Top Scoring For Bad Cage Season

Guilford closed a fairly bad basketball season, winding up on the bottom of a fast North State conference. Two of the higher teams in the conference defeated Duke's Southern conference champions by impressive scores.

Jesse Parker was the high scorer for the Quakers, but he was closely followed by James Parker. The next high scorers were Shell, Menghetti, and Hartley.

Although Jack Hartley did not appear on the team until the season was about over, he livened up the game a great deal with his brilliant floor play.

Guilford won two games this year and came within three points of beating Catawba and High Point. The Quakers defeated Farmers' Dairy 33-27, and Siler City by the impressive score of 48-28.

ATHLETES

By PETE and WEEZ

The basketball tournament ended a week ago last Friday when Margaret Jones' team beat Dot Edgerton's sextet. The final score was 7-1. Good guarding on both sides accounted for the low score, we were told. We also heard that this game was more or less an up-set.

With the inter-dormitory tournament out of the way, the athletes are getting down to business with class games. Each class will get a chance to play each team. This should make basketball more exciting, since there will be more games than last year.

The badminton tournament will start next week, with both singles and doubles play. All entrants were required to sign up by yesterday afternoon—we hope no one forgot. This tournament should rouse as much interest as did basketball.

The modern dance group attended the dance symposium at Woman's college last Saturday. This was the first symposium held in the south. The girls learned techniques (dance techniques) and composition. Later Katherine Littlefield spoke. The group attended the Katherine Littlefield ballet in the evening.

Hines, Nace Captain Little 6 Contenders; Strong Veterans Back

Baseball uniforms were issued Monday to the upper classmen for practice which started this week. Practically all of last year's squad, which captured third place in the conference, have returned. Those missing from the lineup this year are last year's captain, Rom Graves, Paul Lentz, George Summey, and Bill Ware. The loss of these four boys will be felt greatly, but it is hoped that new prospects will be found to take their places.

Co-captains Hines and Nace will lead the Quakers into a tough schedule of 19 games. Other returning veterans include Stewart Maynard, Mackie Frye, Bill Grice, Deaver Shell, Bill Denham, and James and Jesse Parker.

The Quakers open their schedule during spring vacation when they travel to Newbury for a two-game series, and then they travel to Clinton to meet Presbyterian in another two-game series.

The schedule for this year is as follows:

- March 31—Newbury there.
- April 1—Newbury there.
- April 2—Presbyterian there.
- April 3—Presbyterian there.
- April 9—A. C. C. here.
- April 14—High Point here.
- April 14—Elon at Greensboro.
- April 15—Catawba there.
- April 17—Lenoir Rhyne there.
- April 19—High Point there.
- April 22—Elon here.
- April 24—Catawba here.
- April 26—A. C. C. there.
- April 28—Elon there.
- May 3—Lenoir Rhyne there.
- May 7, 8—Hampden-Sidney there.
- May 9, 10—Roanoke there.
