Quakers Seek Their Second Win; Team Set for T-Formation

Home town fans get their first taste of college football tonight, and also their first look at Guilford's rejuvenated grid team. Emory-Henry college furnishes the opposition, Greensboro's Memorial Stadium is the setting, and 8:00 game time.
Annually the Wasps turn out teams that rank with the best of their neighbors in the North State conference. That fact the Quakers can verify, for in the last meeting of the clubs, 1942, Guilford came away second best on a 33-0 score.

Under the tutelage of Coach Jack Young, the Bristol, Va.-Tenn. team employs a combination T formation and Notre Dame shift that features a hard driving ground game that clicks for yardage and still more yardage.

Milligan, Guilford's own Homecoming Day opponent October 26, out-manned the Wasps last week to take the opener for both schools by 20-0, but that initial loss should serve only to sharpen the Young-men's game for tonight's contest.

Young's starting backfield combination of G. W. Stewart, Ed Goode, Frenchy LaVanche, and A. P. Steele boasts power and speed, while up front, two rugged tackles, Captain "French" Kreger and Charlie Harman; guard Charlie Curcio, and end Mike Toth should be able to prevent them to stir up trouble aplenty.

In the Quaker camp, Art Faircloth, ace tailback, is a question mark. Still suffering from a leg muscle pulled in Guilford's opening 7-0 win over Naval Apprentice, the husky triple-threatener may or may not be ready to go.

Curley Dickerson and Joe Winner, both Greensboro boys are currently alternating at the tailback slot, Dickerson having been shifted by Newton when it became doubtful that Faircloth would play.

Into Dickerson's number one quarterback role, Bob Kerr, the Bloomfield, N. J. boy who played a bang-up game against Apprentice, has been moved. He will figure heavily in the Quaker offense.

Lody Glenn's recovery from an injury sustained in the Apprentice tilt is good news for Newton, who has further strengthened his club this week by the addition of Harpo Withers, like Glenn a home-town Greensboro-lad, and former star center for Greensboro high and later Elon.

Monogram Club Plans Activities

At two meetings already held on campus the active Monogram Club has enthusiastically begun its business and plans in preparation for an eventful year. Composed of men who have been awarded varsity letters, the club anticipates its largest enrollment since the war with the initiation of new members next week. Besides the lettermen of last year's baseball season there are several "old timers" who received varsity letters before the war but were taken into the armed forces before a chance was offered to join the club. Next week the sharp crack of wood on the after end of "assumed positions" will ring painfully over the campus.

One of the main issues of the recent meetings was the appointment of Bill Byatt and Herb Schoelkopf by President Dave Solotoff as co-chairman of the Dance Committee as the club started its preparations for the seasonal Monogram Dance. The date announced was Saturday, November 30, and with elaborate plans under way, it is expected to be one of the largest social affairs of the fall season.

Another of the items of business was the decision as to the location of the "G" or monogram on the letter sweaters. It was decided that it would be over the left hand pocket on both the white sweaters given seniors and red sweaters given all other members.

Other activities discussed were the selling of football programs at the games and pre-game sales for students at school. Bring two bits to the pep rally Friday night and be sure to get one. And, once again, hopes were boosted with the information that the Monogram room in the gym will be finished by November.

Last on the agenda was the election of Brad Sulpes as treasurer to replace Carl Cochrane, who left for the Army this fall.

mother of the Pines, women's dormitory.

Also appointed to the faculty staff is Carroll Feagins as assistant professor of Philosophy. Audrey Richards of Ontario has been appointed professor of Mathematics.

Recipient of degrees from the University of Nebraska and Columbia University, Ada Charlotte Miller comes to Guilford as instructor in Instruments and Music Education.

Joseph M. Allred, formerly rental manager of a Greensboro concern, has been appointed assistant business manager. Named to the Men's Athletic Department is Page Graham, Cleveland, who will assist Doc Newton as line coach.

Eleanor Durham Tells About Student Relief

"My job with World Student Relief is to go into the colleges and universities of the South and tell the students what the needs are of other students in the many war-torn countries. I must tell them what we, as citizens of the future and of the world, owe to them and can contribute materially for all that they have lost in lives, health, schools, and homes."

Such was the earnest statement that Miss Eleanor Durham, representative of World Student Relief, gave as to what she intends to do for the next three months.

Ellie, who spoke to the students in a recent Chapel program, stated that the goal for this year is $1,000,000, and that only $480,000 was raised from about a million students last year. That amount was only about 50 cents per student, or two chocolate sundaes. She stressed the point that all must give according to their own integrity if peace and understanding are ever to be created among students throughout the world.

A graduate from Northwestern University in June, Ellie completed a training course two weeks in New York. The course consisted mainly in the exchange of ideas among five American students and six European students. She said that most of the European students became members of World Student Relief by working with resistance movements in Italy, Holland, Poland, France, and Denmark. According to reports of European students that attended the conference, the general attitude European students had toward American students was one of bitterness.

The money collected will go for new books, as the students consider them the most important of all their needs; food will be sent to Eastern countries of Europe; clothes will be purchased for the students and used on a rental basis; and rest homes for those in poor health as a result of the war will be equipped.

Enrollment Reaches 554; Campus Expands Housing Facilities

With student registration well over the half thousand mark, 554 to be explicit, Guilford College inaugurates the 1946-1947 academic year with the largest enrollment in its 110 years of continuous operation.

Utilizing all available housing facilities in campus dormitories and by accepting an abnormal number of day students from adjacent territory, College officials may well be proud of their efforts to help alleviate the seriousness of the educational program throughout the United States caused by the back-to-school movement of returning veterans.

The "Operation Textbooks" program has expanded to the extent that 20 pre-fabricated houses have been built behind Founders Hall for veterans and their families.

Of the 400 men enrolled at Guilford College, 304 have seen service in the Army, Navy or Air Corps. This marks an increase of 184 over last year's registration, when of the 215 men registered, 120 were veterans.

Guilford's fairer sex are at last cognizant of the fact that the war is indeed over; for they are now outnumbered by a ratio of almost 3 to 1. Of the 154 women students now attending the College, two are veterans of World War II.

The total number of women students for this semester is a decrease of 26 over the previous Winter term. In all probability this may be attributed to the "eviction notice" given to girls who, last year, resided in Archdale Hall, which has since been allocated for the use of the school's male population.

A complete breakdown of College registration has not yet been completed, Miss Era Lasley, College registrar, announced this week. When completed, this additional information will be assimilated for GUILFORDIAN readers.
