

Two for Teague

Coach Eddie Teague takes time out from field duties to give a bit of dope to guard John Hanzel and seatback Phil Feeney. Coach Teague is the recipient of The Guilfordians orchids for this week by virtue of his revival of intramural activities that were fast approaching the obituary stage.

Basketball Season Slated For Opening on Tuesday

The Guilford College cagers have been under going serious and strenuous practice drills for the past four weeks in preparation for their opening tilt on December 2 against the Chatham Mills Blanketeers. Under the tutorage of Coach Paul Lentz, the squad is rapidly being whipped into top notch shape, and it should prove to be quite a strong match for the semi-pro outfit when they come to Guilford.

Coach Lentz has been ably assisted this year by Hal Grossman, Greensboro Patriot infielder, and former member of the West Virginia basketball quintet. Among the men whom Lentz apparently seems to be building up for the varsity squad are several former players from the Greensboro Whirlwind's highly successful five of last season. These boys are Rick Ferrell, Horton Highfill, and Tommy Grubb. However Lentz will apparently be depending heavily on lettermen from last year's squad, such as Jace Ralls at guard, Jack Chatham, Jimmy Mann, and Dick Hall, all forwards. Garland Rakestraw has been alternating in the forward spot from time to time. Herb Schoellkopf, Al Poggioli, and Jack Arzonico also are scrapping for guard positions. Joe Coleman and Jack Elkin have been working the center position; Elkin saw quite a bit of action at Greensboro High a few years back, and played a considerable amount of ball in the service. The close of the football season should also bring out such veteran lettermen as Bunk Leonard and Brooks Hansard, as well as several other newcomers.

Conference Games On Tap

Though the final schedule has not yet been made, the Quakers will take on twelve Conference opponents, and other state competition such as the McCrary Eagles and the Chatham Blanketeers. On December 8, the Quakers invade

Coach Teague Plans Intramural Games

One of the latest and valuable additions to the college teaching staff is Coach Eddie Teague. As assistant director of Physical Education he has been ably handling the job as backfield coach of the football team as well as his duties of teaching two physical education courses and a gym class. He has been director of the present tag football intramural league and has planned an ambitious program for the rest of the year. He hopes to include in this: tumbling, boxing, wrestling, and soccer in addition to the regular sports of basketball, volleyball and softball.

Coach Teague's experience and training in Physical Education work has been quite extensive. As a member of the Eastern High football team of Washington, D. C., his home town, he made the all city team at fullback in '39 and '40. Later at Carolina State under Doc Newton, and at Carolina in the Marine V-12 program he played a lot of football and baseball.

After a tour of duty with the Marines as a 2nd Lieutenant, Coach Teague returned to Carolina to get his Master Degree in Physical Education. He was married after his discharge from the service.

He brushed up on his football by playing a season with the champion Charlotte Clippers in '46.

Intramural Games Prove Huge Success

The Yankee Stadium tag football team went into the intramural finals this week with an undefeated record unmatched by any other team. Fighting it out for a crack at the championship was the Westerwood Wildcats and the Old North teams, the winner to play for the crown.

Tag football as played was new to all the students and was introduced to the Intramural program with great skepticism. However, the present tournament, which finishes this week, has been accepted very well by the teams participating as well as by the spectators. Despite the obvious handicap of student referees, and the lack of familiarity with the new type of game, the Tag football activity was given very good cooperation and fine spirit.

There were 12 teams entered in the double-elimination tournament (each team losing 2 games was eliminated). Each of the 12 teams had a player limit of 11 men (official team consisted of 6 men). Out of a possible 132 players, 128 men participated in at least 2 games, which is practically total participation.

Homecoming Game Played

Yankee Stadium, Old North, and Jimmy Mann's Westerwood Wildcats dominated the play throughout with Tommy Bray's Yankee Stadium team going through a tough schedule undefeated. A highlight of the tournament was the Homecoming game between Yankee Stadium and Old North which was replayed after Old North came from behind to score a protested touchdown in the late minutes of the game. In the return game, Yankee Stadium shut out Old North 12-0.

A Volleyball tournament will begin after Thanksgiving with all teams invited to enter.

Charles Big Gun in Bear Win; Final Score Is 14-7

Lenoir-Rhyne, behind the knife-like plunging of little John Charles, shifty tailback, upset expert predictions by turning back the Guilford College Quakers 14-7 in a hard fought battle at Memorial Stadium, Saturday, November 9. Guilford, ruled favorites because of their stunning upset of High Point the week before, tried everything in the books, but never seemed able to shift into high gear and start rolling.

A Quaker shutout was avoided in the third quarter; trailing by two touchdowns, the Quakers alert lineman, John Hanzel, pronounced on a Bear fumble on about the visitor's 28. Four plays later, after a run by Powell, an 18 yard pass from Johns to Nantz, a nine yard jaunt by Gordon, the ball was finally pushed over from the one on a quarterback sneak by Tommy Jones. Except for sterling performances of linemen Hanzel, Lody Glenn, and Harpo Withers, the Quaker tactics were rather ineffectual against the strong Bear ground and air offensive.

Charles Chucks And Churls

Led by John Charles, Lenior-Rhyne gave itself a brief two goal margin in the third quarter. Starting from his own thirty-one, the shifty Freshman pieced the Guilford forward wall time and time again, and finally on a twenty-five yard pass to Little on the 11, the last score for the Bears was set up. Charles went for seven yards on two tries, and Martin made it a first down on the Guilford one foot line. On the next play Charles scored through the center, and Barger again successfully converted.
