Penguin Club Formal Will Be Held Tonight

Dick Levin and His Orchestra To Play For Second Annual Formal Dance

Entertainment

After spring holidays there's good entertainment in store for Guilford Students.

The Social Committee is making big plans for a barbecue on April the sixteenth, and the Monogram Club will hold its annual Klub Kampus Kutie "girlie" show on the twenty third of April.

Here are two affairs you can't afford to miss, so start thinking about who you are going to take. We'll see you there!

It's tonight, Folks! Yes, tonight, it's the Penguin club with their second annual "strictly formal" dance. Dancing will be in the college gymnasium from 8:30 until 11:45 to the music of Dick Levin and his orchestra, from Raleigh.

Last year a group of enterprising students, realizing that Guilford had never enjoyed an all formal dance on the campus, organized a club for the sole purpose of sponsoring such a dance. Featuring Maurice Purtil and his orchestra, it was easily the best and most memorable dance in the history of the college. Again this year, the club would like to have as many students on the campus present at the dance.

Tickets are $1.50 drag and $1.00 stag for all those who are not members of the Penguin Club. Students may invite any outside guests to accompany them to the affair. Please remember, however, that all guests must be registered with the Dean of Women before noon, tomorrow.

Although Dick Levin and his orchestra have never played on the Guilford campus before, the reputation of the band has reached the ears of many Guilfordians. The band has played for the Governors Ball in Raleigh, the Engineers Ritual Dance at State College, and dances at such colleges as Peace and Pfeiffer, and many other schools and clubs. Playing all the latest tunes, the band features Cliff Eiler and Betty Brown as their vocalists.

Students are reminded that no flowers are allowed, and that no girl will be admitted to the dance wearing a corsage.

Fellowships Offered To Guilford Students

The American Friends Service Committee has announced two Fellowships that are being offered to college students who are graduating this year.

The Mary Campbell Memorial Fellowship is a stipend of $1200 offered for studies "in preparation for work as emissaries of international or inter-racial peace and good will." Preference is given to persons interested in the Society of Friends. It is desirable that applicants should have had some graduate work. Knowledge of a foreign language is desirable for fellows matriculating in a University abroad.

The Mary R. G. Williams Fellowship is a stipend of $1200 offered for teaching at the Friends Schools in Ram Allah, Palestine. Supplementary to the above is board and lodging at the school for the duration of the academic year. The fellow must be a college graduate and preference is usually given to those applicants who have had some teaching experience.

Applications must be received on or before April first. Blanks and other information may be obtained from the Committee of Awards of the American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Relief Opportunities Offered by Friends Service Committee

Work camps, seminars, and institutes, internships in industry and cooperatives, and work in mental and correctional institutions will be among the service opportunities offered to college students this summer by the American Friends Service Committee. It was announced today by Stephen G. Cary, Director of the American Section of the Quaker organization.

Work camps and community service units will be held in the United States, Mexico, and Europe. In the United States, the camps will help build recreational and community facilities in such parts of the country as the slum area of North Richmond, California; the cotton lands of Southeast Missouri; among the Indian tribes of Wisconsin; or in an interracial area of Corpus Christi, Texas.

In Mexico, Service Committee volunteers will work in half a dozen villages, conducting handicraft programs, working in medical clinics, and helping build schools and provide sanitary facilities for villages. It is also hoped that the Service Committee volunteers will be able to take part in a project planned by the Mexican Government along lines laid down by UNESCO. The first step of this project is to move a village from low, swampy ground to a higher, more healthy place.

The Service Committee will send approximately 60 young Americans to participate in work camps in 11 countries of Europe. There the campers will help people in war-devastated villages and cities rebuild homes, schools, community centers, and playgrounds.

Other young men and women will study problems of international co-operation and peace in seven-week International Service Seminars and in ten-day Institutes of International Relations. In both projects, well-known authorities on international affairs are available as faculty members, discussion leaders, and advisers. Seminars and Institutes will be located in New England, the Middle West, and the West.

Those who are interested in industrial relations and the problems of labor may participate in the Internship-in-Industry projects which will be sponsored by the Committee in Philadelphia, Chicago, and Kansas City. In this project, interns get their own jobs on the competitive labor market, work the same hours as their fellow factory workers, and receive the same pay. A program of discussions and field trips rounds out their industrial experience.

In Institutional Service Units, another group of young people will work in mental hospitals, homes for the mentally retarded, homes for juvenile delinquents, women's reformatories, and in a county jail.

Details about these projects may be obtained from the American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania, or from Greensboro, North Carolina, Box 27, Woman's College.

Gene Key Is Editor of 'The Guilfordian'; Jase Ralls-Dan Warren Ticket Wins

Barter Theatre Gives 'Hamlet'; Lead Role Is Taken by Cronyn

The Barter Theatre of Virginia presented "Hamlet," for its 200th production, here at Guilford College on Saturday, March 5, in Memorial Hall.

The audience was fortunate indeed to have the pleasure of seeing Hume Cronyn, well-known stage and screen actor, in the title role.

Though one would commonly think of Hamlet as someone quite tall in stature, Hume's brilliant acting and portrayal of the role overcame his size. He was disappointing in only one place. That was the first soliloquy, "To be or not to be." It seemed to fall flat; however, the second soliloquy was marvelous.

Gerry Jedd as Ophelia certainly ranked next to Hume in her beauty of the sensitiveness of the role. Her mad scenes were positively scintillating.

In Leo Chalzel's portrayal of Polonius, he withdrew for each of his lines all the intensity Shakespeare had written therein, and definitely ranks on an equal level with Hume and Gerry.

Frederic Warriner was very successful in rendering Claudius, the pseudo-king of Denmark, into the distasteful character which Shakespeare had drawn; and with him, Josephine Parker, as Gertrude, the Queen of Denmark, whose heart played havoc with her head, should be mentioned.

Mell Turner was perhaps the most versatile member among the assisting cast, serving as Osric, a fantastic fop, as effectively as he did as Rosencrantz, the former fellow-student of Hamlet.

Ray Boyle as Horatio, James Andrews as Laertes, and Ernest Borgnine as Guildenstern were so excellent in their parts as to make Guilfordians wish to see more of these very promising young players.

The dance sequence rendered by Robert Pastene, Katherine Green and James Andrews, highlighted the play in moments when it had begun to drag and captured new interest

Spring Holidays

Annual spring holidays begin at 4:40 o'clock March 25 and are over at 8:30 the morning of April 5.

Students are allowed to leave on Friday the 25th, as soon as their last class is over and they are expected to be present in their first class Tuesday morning, the 5th.

Robert K. Marshall Speaks to Students

Robert K. Marshall, author, former student ('25) and instructor at Guilford, presented an entertaining review of his new book "Little Squire Jim" in chapel, Friday, March 11.

Mr. Marshall, in a personable approach to the student body, told about the setting and characters of his book, and the incentive and motive which led him to write this legendary novel about North Carolina. He also explained how he went about writing and then selling and publishing "Little Squire Jim," the book that has aroused considerable interest.

Introduced by Dr. Milner, who along with Dr. Campbell, is mentioned in the book, Mr. Marshall opened his informal talk with humorous references to the College, before going to consider the novel that he wrote about the legendary "Little Squire Jim."

Mr. Marshall was born in Mount Airy, educated at Guilford College, where he took his A.B. degree, and at Haverford College, where he received an M.A. in 1926. His graduate work was done at Harvard, University of North Carolina, Ohio Wesleyan University, Iowa State University and Northwestern University. His major studies were in English literature, drama and philosophy.

He returned to Guilford for a short time to teach dramatics and literature, and taught at many other colleges, too. He is now on the faculty of the English Department of Ohio Wesleyan. "Little Squire Jim" is his first published work, and it is the first part of a trilogy of novels laid in North Carolina.
