

Elon Christians Whomp Quaker Gridmen

Entire Elon Backfield Takes Advantage Of Quaker Errors for 33-0 Landslide

Greensboro High School Stadium, November 24.—The Guilford College Quakers dropped a heartbreaker to the Elon Christians today, 33-0. The goose egg hung high over 3,000 football fans in the new Greensboro High School Stadium.

The Quakers never seemed to be able to get started. Line-play and backfield strength wasn't up to the standard set by Eddie Teague's team in the Appalachian game. Fumbles, fumbles, and yards lost rushing told the story of the traditional Turkey Day classic.

The Christians got off to an early lead in the ball game when Bill Barger took Wally Maultsby's kick on Guilford's 45, reversed the field from left to right and scored for Elon. Elon's second touchdown in the first quarter came when Yarborough's lateral to Bill Teague was fumbled and recovered behind the Guilford goal line by Joe Erickson. Breedon blocked Reid's try for the extra point. The score: 12-0.

Elon's third score was a pass-play. Pete Marshall to Bill Johnson for 17 yards and a TD. Reid made his first extra point and the Maroon and Gold led, 19-0.

Late in the first half, Marshall cut over his own right tackle for another Elon touchdown. Reid's kick was good.

The final tally was scored in the third quarter by Frank Tingley who took a handoff from R. K. Grayson and skirted left end for 16 yards. Reid's point was good and the score was 33-0.

In keeping Guilford scoreless in this final game, Elon took the North State Conference defensive honors. They held Guilford to a 16-yard rushing mark by throwing the Quaker backs for a total of 82 yards lost rushing.

Special recognition goes to "Chief" Spencer and Bowman Small. Spencer fought ferociously and cut off dangerous running plays on several occasions. "Bo," who has seen little action this season, broke into the lineup and played bang-up ball throughout the last half.

Seniors Tuttle Sherrill, Reginald Roberts, Bill McCormick, and Wallace Maultsby played their last game for Guilford.

Plans for Christmas Dance And Queen Announced

The Guilford College Monogram Club announced that plans for their annual Christmas dance and the Christmas Queen have been completed.

The dance, which will be held in the gym on Saturday night, December 10, will feature Harold Gale and his orchestra. It has been rumored that Santa Claus himself will be there to announce and crown the Queen of the Christmas season. Admission will be $1.50, stag or drag, if you purchase your ticket before the dance from a club member. It will be $1.75 at the door. Flowers are optional.

Nominations for the Queen this year will be opened to any campus organization, club, or other group, such as dorms, social clubs, or two or more people. The organization sponsoring a candidate will be required to pay a $1.00 nomination fee. The deadline for nominations will be Saturday, December 3. Voting will take place from December 5 until 10 p.m. December 9, in the Soda Shop. A fee of five cents will be charged for each vote, the proceeds going to the club to help pay for the dance. Voting is open to all students. The Queen will be announced and crowned, and all other nominees and sponsors will be honored at the dance.

Annual Thanksgiving Dance To Be Staged Tomorrow Night

Reg Marshall To Play For Veterans' Event

The return of an event which has come to be one of the most popular annual social events at Guilford College—namely, the Thanksgiving dance—is slated for tomorrow night at the gym.

The Veterans' Club, one of the most active organizations on campus in recent years, has announced final plans for the event, which includes music by "Reg" Marshall and the Wiley Kiser orchestra from Winston-Salem.

In using terminology which dance fans can easily understand, the band features a bop pianist and a drummer who has something like ten arms—or at least observers believe he has. With his style of music the "bounce," and "bop" variety, Marshall and the Kiser orchestra are very popular among college groups.

Tickets are in the hands of Veterans' Club members, and plans are for a large crowd. Bowman Small and A. D. Garrison, in announcing final arrangements, stated that flowers are ruled out for the occasion. Tickets are $1.00 "stag" and $1.50 "drag." Hours are from 8 to 11:30.

The Veterans' Club is now discussing plans for possible continuance of the organization and its work after the inevitable declining of veteran enrollment.

Dr. Marshall Warns Audience of Plight

Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of Mophead Planetarium, pleased the Founders Day audience at Guilford with a discussion on stars and atoms.

Dr. Marshall's talk centered about the scientific developments of the past twenty years, mentioning the giant Hale telescope as one great development, and the atom bomb as another. He observed that these two significant inventions were, oddly enough, headed in the opposite directions.

His train of thought followed religious lines as he emphasized the fact that man is a part of the universe as well as the stars; and that they are composed of the same chemical elements. "Maybe some day man will realize this," said Dr. Marshall, as he stated that unless man woke up to that truth he will cause his own destruction.

Concerned Group Helps Organize 'Dialectic Senate'

A nucleus of political-conscious students at Guilford College, with the assistance of one of their professors, have formed a new organization, "The Dialectic Senate," on the campus. The new organization stemmed out of the observation of these students that colleges today are not adequately encouraging collective informal and formal discussions on problems of the day; either through curricular or extra-curricular activities. Another conviction of the group which helped lead to the forming of the senate was that parliamentary law and procedure would not be learned adequately through textbooks without parallel practical experience.

Dr. Algie I. Newlin, professor of history and political science, advised and assisted the group in planning for the organization of the senate, and at the first formal meeting of the group he was appointed critic.

John Clark, senior from Griffin, was one of the student leaders in the group who first felt the need of such an organization and has been at work on the project for some time. Clark has represented Guilford College at the North Carolina Student Legislature for two

Minority Groups Are Powerful

The Student Christian Association was privileged to have as its speaker for Vespers in the Hut on Sunday evening, November 13, Dr. Hershel Folger, pastor of Ashboro Street Friends Meeting and friend of the college. Dr. Folger's talk was preceded by games and refreshments around an open fire, and the singing of hymns created an atmosphere quite fitting for his talk on "Minorities."

Dr. Folger stated that we are a minority group just because we are a member of the white race, because we are attending college, and narrowing it still further, because we are members of the S.C.A. Minority groups are always powerful, and many people consider it a privilege to be among the few. He challenged his listeners to be among the smaller group if it means standing by one's convictions, and filling needs of others wherever we find them.

Being a member of the student body of a church-related college means following some religious traditions of that college. The Student Christian Association sought to understand Jesus' teachings on "Religious Tradition-Doctrine, and the Sabbath" on Sunday evening, November 20, with Hardy Carroll as moderator and Hiram Hilly as resource leader. A lively discussion ensued.

Compliment?

Members of the audience at the Dramatic Council's staging of "The Happiest Years" who didn't know the personalities of the actors and actresses were discussing the fine job of acting done in the roles of the "visitors from Georgia," played by "Butch" Hayworth and Bob Wall. A student who overheard the conversation said, "Gosh, they weren't acting at all. They behave that way all the time!"

Christmas Holidays!

Annual Christmas holidays begin this year on Saturday, December 17, at 1 p.m.
The holidays end on Tuesday, January 3, at 8:30 p.m.
And on January 13, at 9 a.m. (oh, happy day!), first semester exams begin.

Speaker Observes That Aid to Others May Later Save Us

Miss Sonia Grodka, representative of the World Student Service Fund, spoke to the student body about conditions in overseas institutions last Friday.

Miss Grodka pointed out that there are students all over the world who still need our help—for the things they cannot create with their own two hands, for the medicines that do not exist in their own countries, for books containing the knowledge from which they were cut off for so long, for the foods and vitamins that will help them fight tuberculosis—the heir of war and hunger.

Miss Grodka summed the situation up something like this: "They still need us, but you—all of us—need them too. Need them to insure a common ground, a common hope, a common striving in every nation. Knowledge is the most international of commodities—but also the most perishable. You can keep it alive today—it may help to keep you alive tomorrow."

Note was made of the way Guilford students have failed to realize their needs. Only $175 of the $550 student goal has been raised. Of the total $1,000 student-faculty goal, the World Student Service Fund would receive approximately $250.

'Witches' Pitch Party; Talent Show Success

During the month of October the Women's Student Government Association put aside their more intellectual thoughts to give attention to a Halloween party for the girls and a talent show.

The Halloween party was given in Founders parlor one Monday evening with Hobbs, Founders and the Day Hops in attendance. To get the guests in a Halloween mood, Sally Goodrich, Char Flanders and Ely Cornellson came running down the stairs dressed in black, with brooms swinging in the air and screams resounding everywhere. They presented a satire from one score of the three witches from Macbeth.

Refreshments, singing and dancing followed.

The W. S. G. Talent Show was presented Wednesday, November 9, in Mem Hall. Carolyn Lee was master of ceremonies. Several specialty acts were done, plus a skit based on one of the faculty meetings, with the girls imitating the various professors. Bettie Brockman's representation of Mrs. Milner was the highlight of the program.

To the more serious side, fire drill rules have been set up in both dormitories. Plans have been made for an announced drill this week, followed by several surprise drills.

The W. S. G. Council has requested the young women to refrain from thumbing for rides at the corner—just to stand and appear eager instead of making motions to the drivers. Also the women are not to wear gym suits to the corner stores.

The Founders Day dedication of the new science building addition signified only a beginning of the improvements in the college plant that are slated for Guilford College. After the dedication of the modern $150,000 structure, which was financed by some 2,500 contributors, college officials disclosed that a campaign is now in progress for completion of the campus development program. It was stated that plans are for completion of the campaign by January 1.

The original campaign was begun in 1945, and a goal of $761,000 was set for completion of five major projects. Of that amount, to be raised by January 1, $147,839 is lacking.

Of the five projects, the new King Hall addition is now finished, and the library is in the construction stage. The other three projects are a new girls' dormitory, a new chapel and religious education building, and renovation of Duke Memorial Hall.

The new chapel, termed by Dr. Milner for some time as a pressing need, is to contain an auditorium, a better equipped stage for plays, and will afford better selections of speaking events and programs of musical nature for students and the community, as well as further the religious education of Guilford students. Since the auditorium or chapel is expected to add to the life of the community, as well as college personnel, a special campaign inviting community participation in the campaign has been set up.

The other two projects which are to be given immediate attention on completion of the campaign are much needed facilities also. The new girls' dormitory, a dream for many years, will be erected between the Hut and Mary Hobbs Hall with the building line on the north corner of the gymnasium and Founders Hall. The renovation of Memorial Hall will consist of converting the present auditorium to classroom and faculty offices. The ceiling will be lowered, and of course, the floor will be leveled.

Dr. Milner, college president, in discussing plans for the final stages of the campaign, said that the nature of the campaign was one that encouraged small gifts. Special Gift prospects are being invited to contribute, but special emphasis is being placed on giving opportunities to present and post-graduate students, and friends of the college, to participate; since this group is the greatest benefactor of the improvements. Dr. Milner observed that some of the most impressive gifts in the campaign so far were small ones, and added that so far gifts have ranged from fifty cents to fifty dollars—both types of which have helped to bring the campaign to its present level.

Pacifism Holds Greater Hopes Than Other Means

Following a short business meeting of the I. R. C. on Thursday evening, Mr. Feagins led a discussion on the topic, "Can We Apply Pacifism on an International Basis?" Seventeen persons were present and participation was active.

Mr. Feagins described the means of pacifism as contrasted to the non-pacific means. He placed emphasis on the means such as love, non-violence, the essential place of suffering, and the place of police in positive international pacific policy.

An essential conclusion stated was that for every problem of the pacifist, there is a corresponding problem in any other approach to internationalism, and that in the total analysis, pacifism holds greater hope than present means used in international relations.
