Dr. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, Chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh and graduate of Guilford College, will give the main baccalaureate address to his alma mater on May 27, Guilford officials announced.

Also highlighting an intensive weekend graduation program will be a special reunion for the class of 1911, of which Dr. Fitzgerald is a member. The proceedings will be under the leadership of C. C. Smithdeal of Winston-Salem.

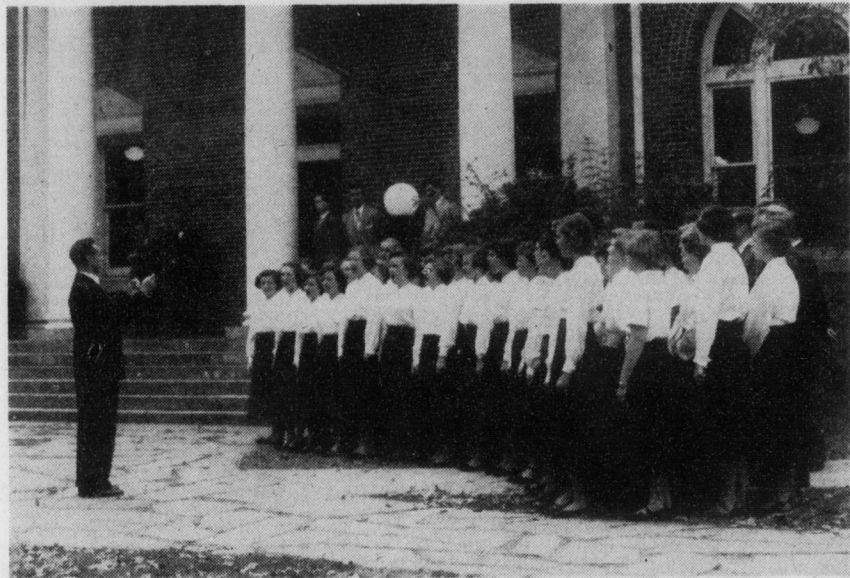

The main speaker for the commencement day program on May 28 will not be announced for a few days, Dr. Milner, Guilford president, said this morning.

Dr. Fitzgerald, who has been chancellor at Pittsburgh since 1945, received his A.B. from Guilford and Master of Arts from the University of Tennessee in 1919.

Choir To Tour Georgia and Florida During Annual Spring Concert Trip

The Guilford College A Capella Choir, one of the leading choral organizations of the South, is now embarking on its twenty-third season, with its annual spring tour scheduled to begin Saturday, March 17. This year, the tour will take the choir to Atlanta, Jacksonville, Sarasota, and most of the rest of the Florida peninsula.

The Guilford Choir has travelled over seventeen states in past years. It has given concerts in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Washington, St. Petersburg, New Orleans, Detroit, and other leading cities of the eastern half of the nation. It has also appeared at the White House, has given two programs for the "Wheel Chair" audience at Warm Springs, Georgia, and radio programs over the national networks. The choir's appearance was featured at the National Convention of Federated Music Clubs which met in Dallas two years ago. The choir received a five minute standing ovation for its appearance there.

The director, Charles Coll Underwood, received his musical training at L'Ecole Normale de Paris, taught voice in Paris, coached the Sorbonne Glee Club, and was soloist with the Comedie Francaise, the Paris Symphony, The French State Radio, and the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The Choir's repertoire includes music of the Early Church and through the centuries, works by Bach, Scarlatti, Pergolesi, Mozart, contemporary choral music, and Negro Spirituals.

Each spring, the choir makes a tour of ten days to New York, Detroit or Chicago, New Orleans, or Florida. This year's tour will begin Saturday, March 17, and will end Wednesday, March 28.

NEXT ISSUE

This is the last issue of the Guilfordian for the present staff. The exact date of the next issue is not known.

Klub Kampus Kuties Returns to Guilford

The Monogram Club of Guilford College will bring back this year, by popular demand, their show, the Klub Kampus Kuties on Saturday, April 14.

The show, which could not be brought to the campus last year due to previous commitments, will be revived this year in the Marine Room (better known as the basement of the gym), two weeks after the spring holidays. All tables will be reserved with only a limited number of reservations (about 200) going on sale April 1st. Reservations are $1.00 per couple.

Still with the show are such favorites that some of us enjoyed two years ago as that famous bar room duet, the Red Heads, featuring Muscles Moon and Bashful Ben. Also back with the troupe will be those beautiful chorus girls, the "Gridettes." They will thrill you with their graceful dance routines. And to top the show off it will have a guest M.C. who formerly went here to school and produced one of the great K.K.K. shows of the past.

Coach Cheek Takes Maryland Position

Coach Emmett Cheek, head baseball mentor and line coach of the grid squad, has resigned to take a position at the University of Maryland.

Cheek, who gained popularity on the Quaker staff, accepted an offer from the Southern Conference school to join the physical education department and become an assistant to Jim Tatum, head football coach of the Terrapins. He left for his new job February 22nd.

Veteran's Wives Lead Dual Lives; Many Play Role of Breadwinners

Recently, after passing through Guilford College's "Veteran Village," a traveling salesman became puzzled.

"How," he inquired of a local groceryman, "do married veterans go to college and make ends meet without outside help?"

"I don't know how they do it," answered the groceryman, "but I sell them groceries and they pay their bills."

Two hours before the salesman and groceryman could have solved the problem by walking one-half block from the scene of their conversation to the Guilford College Post Office. Here, between 7:30 and 8 a.m. each day, many collegiate husbands' wives pick up their mail and congregate in waiting for transportation to their jobs in nearby localities.

Woman the Breadwinner

Here the role of breadwinner is shifted to the female head of the family, and she cheerfully adds her earnings to the subsistence allowance paid the veteran by Uncle Sam. Combining the two, they are able to pay the many bills common to the American family.

Daily Schedules Listed

Just take a look at the daily schedule of two of the academic widows; that of Dorothy (Mrs. William) Brittain, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., and Polly (Mrs. Gene Key, formerly of White Plains.

Mrs. Brittain arises at an early hour and prepares breakfast for her husband and three-year-old Barbara. Then she prepares Barbara for a day at the nursery before proceeding to her job in the business office of a Greensboro newspaper.

The Busy Bee

Mrs. Key does not have the extra responsibility of a daughter, but she nevertheless must play the proverbial role of the busy bee. She also arises at an early hour, prepares breakfast, and prepares herself for a busy day as a private secretary at the Pilot Life Insurance Company near Sedgewick.

The other nights she spends helping her husband run a little soda shop on the college campus until 10 p.m. As she does her own laundry and housecleaning also, these tasks are often done between the hours of 10 p.m. and 12:30 a.m. after a night of either basketball or soda-jerking.

Do the girls mind? "No," they will tell you quickly, "we expect a return for our toils someday. And we enjoy the atmosphere of college and the people that go with it."

Perkins' Orchestra To Be Feature of Saturday's Jr. Ball

Final plans have been completed for the second annual Junior Class Ball to be held tomorrow, Saturday, at 8 p.m. in the college gymnasium. Dancing will be from 8 till 10:30 P.M.

A large number of students are expected to attend the popular event. Tickets went on sale last week. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Jimmy Perkins and his orchestra.

Decorations for the dance will be highlighted by a Spring theme, Julian Culton, Junior class president announced.

Tickets are being sold by the following members of the dance committee: Bill Topping, Polly Edgerton, Joyce Fulk, Sally Haire, Sam Lynch, Jane Hockett, Harry Johnson, Jeane Walton, Thelma Clodfelter, Ann Reece, and Mary Alice Briggs.
