

Founders Day Program Commences Today

Guilford Choir Selected To Sing Christmas Music for Planetarium

Technicians Come Here To Make Recordings

For those who attend the Christmas program at the Planetarium in Chapel Hill, there should be a particular interest in store this year. The Guilford A Cappella Choir has been invited to record the music to be used in connection with this program beginning November 27 and lasting through Christmas. Men from the Morehead Planetarium will come to this campus and make these recordings next Friday.

"The choir and Mr. Charles Underwood, the director, are to be congratulated for this high honor bestowed on them and on the college," an administrative source said.

According to reports, the Planetarium directors looked "all over this state and surrounding ones, and picked the Guilford Choir from among all the others" to do the recordings.

Nine Senior Class Members Named To 'Who's Who'

Nine members of the senior class at Guilford have been named to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Those named are Ab Alexander, Samuel Baker, Jr., Julian Culton, Polly Edgerton, Joyce Fulk, Sally Haire, Lucy Leake, Henry Semmler, and William Topping.

Students whose names appear in the Who's Who list are elected by a vote of the students and faculty. Each group is presented with a list of the Senior Class and asked to vote for not more than five candidates.

The students recently announced were elected last spring during the spring elections.

Apple Grower Boosts World Government

Samuel Levering, of Mt. Airy, chairman of the Peace Board of the Five Years Meeting of Friends, last Friday told the student assembly that we can have peace if we can meet three conditions: brotherhood and good will, self interest on the side of peace, and tolerable conditions for the people of the world.

The first prerequisite to peace is disarmament, with a world FBI to see that it is effective, he said. Other essentials, he continued, are a U. N. able to disarm disputants and take them before a disinterested court for judgment. In order to do this, nations must be willing to disarm and submit to an international court and police force.

"This police force must work against individuals," he said. "It must hit while the trouble is small." To send an army against an aggressor nation after a war has started is self-defeating, Levering continued.

This, he said, is the fundamental fault of the League of Nations and the U. N. They have no police; cannot act until war has struck. This amounts to a collective security agreement, not government, the speaker contended.

Levering believes the U. S. should advocate this before the U. N., and offer to give up a part of its sovereignty if others will do the same. Levering emphasized that he does not advocate a complete delegation of sovereignty, but only in the respect of the settling of disputes by individual armed might. This is only common sense, he said, since no one can win an atomic war.

STOP THE MUSIC!—Dr. Purdom, in sailor uniform above, decided he could do a better job on his solo without the piano. So, he did just that! Dr. Ljung is shown in lower right inset, with an expression of grim determination . . . to hit the right notes? Other members of the faculty composed the chorus in the Parody on Gilbert and Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore."

Graham Say Education Today 'Kicks out God'

Suggests Communism Asks No Less Than Christ

Nationally-known evangelist Billy Graham told an audience of students, faculty, and community people in Memorial Hall, Wednesday, October 31, that education today is "kicking out God" in favor of the pursuit of intellectualism, without regard to God.

Continuing his theme, he stated that not too many years ago, there was only one divorce to every 30 marriages, whereas last year there was one divorce for every four marriages. He continued that this is evidence that the "basic and most important unit of any society, the family, is breaking. Therefore, the nation is."

Graham then explained that Communism is a "religion" that has the mind, body, and even the soul of young people. "Meanwhile, we have departed from our devotion," he said. "We have nothing. We're up against a people out to tear up God. They're out to throw Him completely out. . . . But we have something that they don't have," he continued; "the trouble is, we don't use it."

The noted evangelist then suggested that "Jesus demands no less than Communism; both demand control of the eyes, mind, ears, tongue, hands, our every intellectual process." He concluded, "Jesus' side is going to be the winning side, sooner or later, and it must start with young people."

President Milner introduced Rev. Mr. Graham, stating that his talk was arranged early in the fall.

Faculty Displays Great 'Talent'

Last Saturday, Nov. 3, in Memorial Hall students and college friends saw the faculty display their talents in what turned out to be a very take-off on the students and student life. The event was sponsored by the Student Christian Association in order to raise money for the Campus Chest. It was under the direction of Mrs. Crownfield.

The show consisted of five acts, the last and longest being a parody on songs from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore."

Charles Underwood started the show off in grand style with his various selections on the bagpipes. The next act was entitled "A Piano Lesson," and it starred Carl Baumbach and Dorothy Ann Ware, both of the music department. Mr. Baumbach played the music professor and Miss Ware did a wonderful job as a gum-chewing, sloppy freshman.

"Pete" Moore then gave a few dramatic speeches from "Macbeth" and further immortalized William Shakespeare's glorious name.

"Section A Recites" starred Dr. Philip Furnas, Dr. Purdom, Miss Marlette, and E. Daryl Kent. Miss Marlette and Dean Kent seemed very realistic as the typical Guilford students. Dr. Furnas asked the questions as the "innocent" Prof. and Dr. Purdom, in between his witty remarks, seemed to be getting more fun than anyone out of the act.

(Continued on Page Six)

Students, Faculty and Board Members Participate; Brinton To Speak

By Josh Crane

The Founders Day program began today, Friday, November 9, at 11:10 a.m. with the Student Chapel. Two other sessions have been scheduled for this afternoon and this evening.

A very stimulating discussion was to be held in this morning's chapel concerning "Guilford College: Her Vision and Program in the World Today." The three speakers were to be representatives, one each, of the students, the faculty, and the Board of Trustees of the college.

Julian Culton was the speaker for the students. He is an active Senior from Charlotte, who is well known among the students, especially because of his positions as president of the Student Affairs Board and of the Senior Class.

Sen. Taft To Speak Here November 29

The Young Republicans Club has announced that Senator Robert Taft, presidential aspirant for 1952, will speak at Guilford on Tuesday morning, November 29.

Senator Taft will also speak at several other colleges in the state during his stay, with talks at the University of North Carolina scheduled for each night.

Hugh Moore Given Trustee Position

Hugh W. Moore, of Philadelphia, financial secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, has been named to the Guilford Board of Trustees, is was announced recently by Robert W. Frazier, chairman of the board.

A native North Carolinian, Mr. Moore will fill the vacancy created by the death of Richard L. Hollowell of Greensboro.

Moore was born in Dudley, N. C., the son of a Wayne County Friends minister. He graduated from this institution in 1920, and received his master's degree from Vanderbilt University.

From 1921 to 1930, he served as pastor of the Friends Meeting in Winston-Salem. At this time, he accepted a position as financial secretary of the Service Committee, and since then has traveled widely both in Europe and America heading the Committee's fund-raising activities.

Correspondent Finds Germans Depressed About Future

By UDO GENGENBACH
Guilfordian European Correspondent

WESTERN GERMANY, Nov. 7. —German problems are many in this crucial period, more than enough, I should say. I always think of the saying, "The situation is serious, but not hopeless." That was during the war. Today, many people are saying, "The situation is hopeless, but not serious!" But on the other hand, it would be actually preposterous to say that the condition is not serious. On the contrary, it is so serious that I am afraid sometimes that we shall have to go through the whole darned mess again. And we have had so much of it, most of us Germans! I said in an article last year that Germany is sick of war. I know now, more than ever, that I was right. All we want is peace to do our work, and nothing else. That is the opinion of most Germans, so you know now why so many say, "Without me!" when they start talking about remilitarization.

That's one of the big problems, by the way, and it isn't an easy one as you can easily see. Another one is the reuniting of Eastern and Western Germany. As you know, our country is still divided in two parts by the Iron Curtain, and the longer we have this separation, the longer the Communists have a chance to keep up their propaganda in Eastern Germany. Of course, a ballot by the people would bring an overwhelming victory in favor of reuniting, but the leaders of the two divisions just can't agree on when and how to do it.

This is not all the fault of the East German government, either. Adenauer, our chancellor, has a good deal to do with it too. His conditions are just unacceptable and neither one will give way.

Open Secret

Of course, it is an open secret that Adenauer is more or less only a mouthpiece for McCloy, and the "American policy" made by him through orders from Washington. Sometimes I really think, "Why don't they leave us alone,—all of them?" But one the other hand there is still the menace of a Russian attack. What to do? I don't know what to think, and I don't wonder that many people gave up thinking, and are just living without bothering about what's coming up tomorrow. It is too much for our brains to see a clear picture.—I am

(Continued on Page Six)