February 14-20 Will Be Religious Emphasis Week

Speakers, Seminars, Bull Sessions and Movies Planned for Week

Highlighting the month of February will be the annual Religious Emphasis Week, to be observed this year February 14-20. A stimulating series of events has been planned by the steering committee for this occasion, which is headed by Miss Carol Smith.

Herschel Folger, prominent pastor of Asheboro Street Friends Meeting and a valued friend of this campus, will officially open the week at the Monday morning chapel period. He will again speak at the same time on Wednesday morning. To complete the first day's events, bull sessions will be held Monday night in all dormitories.

Tuesday afternoon will feature Dr. Gordon W. Lovejoy with a seminar considering what is wrong with our social life at Guilford. Refreshments will be served after the seminar.

As has been previously stated, Mr. Folger will again have the Wednesday morning chapel period. Possibly bull sessions may also be held Wednesday evening.

In view of the fact that the bloodmobile will be on campus Thursday, the main event of that day will be a morning worship service in the dormitories—appropriately on the topics of giving as a part of living.

Climaxing the morning chapel periods will be the Friday morning student worship service in the meeting house. The service will be conducted by the students only. That night at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall, the Presbyterian Choir from the Church of the Covenant in Greensboro will present a program of sacred music. This will be followed by a reception in Founders to which all Guilford students are invited.

Saturday evening at 7:30 the motion picture, "One Foot in Heaven," will be shown in the Auditorium. This will conclude the events, but it is hoped not the effects, of Religious Emphasis Week.

In addition to the aforementioned plans, vespers will be conducted each evening throughout the week. There will also be a display in the library.

The committee has expressed the desire to withhold the theme until the very beginning of the occasion, when it will be announced.

Dr. Lovejoy Becomes Kentucky Colonel

Dr. Gordon W. Lovejoy, visiting Professor of Sociology, received last August from the Governor of Kentucky, a commission as a Kentucky Colonel. It was the first time in twenty-four years that such an honor had been bestowed on an educator, and the third time in the history of the State that a member of the staff of the University of Kentucky had been included. Dr. Lovejoy has, for the past three years, directed a Seminar in Inter-group Relations at Kentucky, and holds the rank of Professor at that university.

The Kentucky Colonelcy is an appointment to the personal staff of the Governor of Kentucky, and as such carries certain privileges. Among these are: the title of Colonel; attendance at a ball for the Kentucky Colonels and their ladies the night before the Kentucky Derby; a special box at the Derby; the right to represent the State at official functions, if the Governor so desires; the right to ride in the Inaugural procession at the inauguration of a Kentucky Governor; and, the right to the "uniform" of the Kentucky Colonels—the black string tie.

Dr. Lovejoy's commission, the twelfth granted by Governor Lawrence Weatherby, was presented by Mr. John Hennessy, Clerk of Court of Jefferson County and outstanding politician of the State. Jefferson County, in which Lexington is located, is one of the largest counties in the State.

With the conferring of the commission, Governor Weatherby expressed gratitude and approval of Dr. Lovejoy's work in the field of human relations in Kentucky, both with adults and students.

"Which would yez rather be in, Casey, an explosion or a collision?"

"In a collision," replied Casey.

"Why?"

"Well because in a collision ther yez are; but in an explosion, where are yez?"

Bloodmobile to be Here February 18

The National Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Guilford College Campus on February 18, in an effort to collect 175 pints of human whole blood. The visit will cater especially to the students and faculty of the college as well as residents of the surrounding community, but will also be open to Greensboro residents as well.

There is a desperate need for blood in the Greensboro-Guilford County area. The Greensboro chapter is running 800 pints behind its designated quota, and at last check nearly all the Greensboro hospitals reported that their reserve supplies of blood were either extremely low or totally non-existent. Many lives depend upon the fact that there be enough blood available when it is needed—there is not enough now. The life or lives of one or more Guilford students could hang one way or the other in the balance of death, depending solely on human blood . . . human blood that is not now available. Every day the Red Cross has to go through its files and call countless emergency donors because there is not enough blood on reserve to fill the need. Victims of industrial accidents, highway accidents, mothers in childbirth and their babies, patients undergoing surgery, and many others all need blood to save their lives and restore them to health. There is no substitute for human blood . . . cow blood or horse blood would be of no avail, although admittedly much easier to collect. Human blood must come from human beings, all human beings . . . not your roommate, nor your next door neighbor, but from YOU. The Korean war is over . . . but people are still dying on highways and in homes, from polio and diseases all over the nation . . . many of these lives can be saved through the use of human whole blood . . . YOUR BLOOD. REMEMBER THIS, THE BLOOD YOU GIVE MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE OR THE LIFE OF A FRIEND, RELATIVE, OR LOVED ONE. THE QUESTION IS NOT "DO I WANT TO GIVE BLOOD?" . . . IT IS, "CAN I AFFORD NOT TO GIVE BLOOD?"

All men and women between the ages of 18 and 59 are eligible to give blood. However, students between the age of 18 and 21 must either be married or have parental consent before they can give blood. All prospective donors are given a physical check-up before donating to determine whether or not they will be able to give blood without any harm to the individual. The process is a painless one and the actual giving of the blood doesn't take more than ten to fifteen minutes. Those who have not given before will receive a card telling their blood type and RH factor, a valuable thing to have in case of accident or illness.

Donors are asked to eat normally up to four hours before donation time. During the four hour period do not starve yourself. But do not eat any fatty foods such as cream, butter, meats, fried foods, and eggs. Do eat such things as fruit, juices, bread, crackers, vegetables without fat, jelly, skimmed milk, black coffee, tea, and bottled soft drinks.

Pledge cards were distributed in Chapel on January 29, those wishing to donate who did not get

Students Asked for Food Likes

Sometimes it is difficult for a mother to satisfy the different tastes of her family members. Consequently, it must be much more difficult to meet the tastes of 225 students, who come from different homes and from different states.

This school year two students, Janice Corneilson and Les Warrick, have been asked to be the interpreters of the students' likes and dislikes concerning food. Their task is to get the students' comments and suggestions about the food at Founders Hall, and convey this information to the dietitian. However, very few students have used their channels and expressed their preferences.

In order to get a better survey of the students' favorite dishes and the food they do not like, a questionnaire has been worked out by the Boarding Department and will be filled out in every dormitory by the section representatives. These representatives have been asked to co-operate with Janice and Les.

The results of this survey will be worked out and taken into consideration in the future meal planning in the limits of possibilities and facilities.

A card are asked to contact their dorm representative or Miss Reynolds. All who are between the ages of 18 and 21 must have parental permission. These PERMISSIONS FROM HOME SHOULD BE TURNED IN TO THE SECTION REPRESENTATIVE OR DROPPED IN THE BOX IN KING HALL BY FEBRUARY 13.

We went over our quota of 150 pints last year . . . let's beat 175 this year!!!

Student Committee Formed

A student committee, composed of representatives from all the dormitories and sections, has been formed under the leadership of Miss Reynolds. Serving on the committee are: Joyce Fingado, Boo Wooten, Sue Genz, Betsy Wolfe, Margaret Ann White, Ann Timberlake, Marjorie Jenkins, Andy Conner, Roddie Redfern, Ketchel Adams, Henry Mitchell, Tom Burrows, Sam Bani, Reuben Slade, and Bill Gibson.

Odd Assignments Complicated Lines, Characterize Prof

The gray-haired professor with a dignified British appearance circled around his desk for the third time as he gesticulated and performed various dramatizations to illustrate his lecture. Then, in his usual manner he deviated far from the central theme of his subject and became involved in the discussion of a current topic, perhaps about who won the last ball game or why the Republican party is better than that of the Democrats.

On the blackboard behind this classroom actor was drawn a series of complicated lines with segments designated by names of foreign languages and arrows directed to all corners of the board. This maze was a favorite theme of the teacher, and occasionally he returned from the world of sports and politics to delve deep into the realm of word derivations.

With a wicked little grin and a malicious gleam in his eye this professor began his assignments, which were the most unusual of any ever heard before. These tasks varied from measuring the width of a dictionary to finding the percentage of predicate nominatives in a story — from composing a poem to writing a term paper—and from preparing a speech to memorizing an essay.

Each day in this classroom was different, and although one had to glance occasionally at his schedule to recall the subject being taught, much material was learned.

Outside of class this Guilford College teacher retains his friendly personality. At almost any time that he is on campus a group of students can be seen near by—joking, laughing, and in general, enjoying the interesting company of an interesting man.

Brilliant, yet forgetful; fun-loving, yet having high purposes; busy, yet giving his time freely; this teacher has created in himself a personality which influences, interests, and guides his students and acquaintances. He will be always what he is now—unforgettable!

Words are like leaves; and where the most abound, much fruit of sense beneath is seldom found.
