Development Plans For Guilford College

Pictured above is the incompleting structure of the Student Union building. The inclement weather conditions have slowed up the work on the building considerably, but now that pleasant weather is approaching, the job should move at a rapid pace. For those of you who have been wondering how soon the building would be completed, the approximate date is May the fifteenth.

Men's Lounge To Be Completed Within The Next Week

Charlie Strider

Within the next week, the basement of Center Section will have been converted into a lounge for the men. It will consist of a maroon and grey room with a tile floor and celotex ceiling. There will be included in the room, a television set, a soft drink machine, and nab machine. This is being done as a cooperative project by the Men's Student Government and the Student Christian Association. Anyone else who is interested is welcome to come down and help also.

For the past several years there has been nothing for the boys to do unless they could get into town or were members of the Monogram Club. With this addition there will at least be a television set for any of the boys who are lucky enough to be free from work for a while. This type of entertainment will not only be enjoyable but relaxing as well. This type of break is very good for anyone who has been putting a lot of work on his books or any other form of labor which tends to dull the senses.

In doing this work the boys have put a lot of time and energy into getting it done right. When it is finally finished, it will be something to take pride in and also to take care of. If everyone will do his part and take an active interest in keeping it looking good, it will give good entertainment for a lot of people, over a long period of time.

If we can show the administration that we are willing and able to take care of the things which they fix up for us, then they will give us more and more things with which to improve our facilities.

Men's Dormitory, Auditorium-Chapel Head Future Plans

In talking with Dr. Milner about the promotion and development plans for Guilford College, he also pointed out the part we must play in furthering higher education, and the distinct advantages Guilford College will derive from the Greater Greensboro development program.

"Colleges are and should be different, and they should always strive for standards of excellence. Colleges should understand and clearly state their purpose and program. Many types of institutions of higher education are needed and should be provided. Each institution should offer distinctive opportunities and assume definite responsibilities for selecting, enrolling and training those students for whom its program is best suited.

"The distinctive liberal arts college is not a vocational school, a technical or mechanical school, nor is it a community Junior College. However, all who are engaged in higher education are in the true professional sense Partners in Education.

"The trustees and administration have restudied the place of Guilford College in relation to the present educational situation and have decided to maintain the unit at Guilford College as a small college with emphasis on the liberal arts. It is planned to have a sustained enrollment of 550 students pursuing a degree course at Guilford.

"With adequate equipment in Greensboro, Guilford College can take its share of the responsibility in meeting new educational demands. This will strengthen the liberal arts unit at Guilford. Through wise and careful selection of students, only those vitally interested in a degree course will be enrolled in the Guilford College unit; other students will be as carefully counseled to select vocations, special or terminal courses, especially suited to their interests and needs and will be enrolled in the Greensboro Division."

In connection with the promotion and development of Guilford

College itself, the erection of the following buildings is being planned:

A—Erecting an Auditorium-Chapel-Religious Education Building

This will provide a room to seat 1,000-1,200 to serve the double purpose of chapel and auditorium. It would also be equipped for drama, music and religious programs and would have facilities for voice recording and instruction, live broadcasting, and projection of 35mm. as well as 16mm. films. The plans include provision for the work of religious education, with a large classroom, a small seminar-type classroom, office, and a small Friends Meeting Room. It will also provide the necessary classrooms and studies for the Department of Music.

B—Men's Dormitories

1. A New Men's Dormitory—to provide housing for 50 men and a faculty apartment for a resident Dean of Men and his family. A lounge room, a recreation room, a conference room, and an office will also be included.
2. Remodeling of Cox Hall—adding 8 additional rooms and providing an apartment for a faculty student counselor.
