

Bloodmobile Visits Guilford Campus

The fifth annual visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the Guilford campus on March 5 was not as successful as in previous years. In fact this year's participants numbered only 107, 25% less than last year's total of 142.

This year 86 Guilford College students gave blood; in comparison 99 Guilford College students gave blood in 1956. Three faculty members gave blood this year; there were three faculty blood donors last year. Ten residents of the Guilford College community gave blood this year, as compared with forty last year. Ironically five students from High Point College gave blood here.

Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, Director of the American Red Cross Blood Program of Guilford County was in charge. Bob Johnson, John Juchter, and Anabelle Elias formed the campus canvassing committee. Dr. Norman Fox, Guilford College's newest physician was doctor in charge.

S. A. M. Activities

During the past two months the Guilford College Society for Advancement of Management continued to have several interesting speakers. In the coming months more speakers are scheduled to appear. By having outside speakers, the economics majors can hear topics discussed on a variety of subjects that cannot be covered in the classroom or can not be gone into in any great detail.

In January Mr. R. W. Grupenhof from the Western Electric Company spoke on job evaluation. February was an extremely active month for the S.A.M. Talks were given by Mr. John Tate and Mr.

Miss and Mr. Future Teacher Selected

The F.T.A. Chapter of Guilford was happy to present a buffet supper in honor of Merle Shelton and Jake McKeown, who were chosen Miss and Mr. Representative Future Teachers from Guilford College, on February 22. The first-semester student teachers participated in a very interesting panel discussion which was led by Merle Shelton. This was followed by an informal supper.

Each year Guilford College selects the Miss and Mr. Representative Future Teacher to be presented at the Annual Convention of the North Carolina Education Association. They are chosen on the basis of such qualities as intelligence, enthusiasm, integrity, leadership, emotional stability and general understanding in the field. This year the convention will be held at Wilmington, North Carolina from March 21-23.

Guilford Choir Plans Annual Spring Tour

Under the able direction of Mr. Baumbach the choir has been preparing its program of music for their annual spring tour. The choir is singing a wide variety of religious music dating from the 16th century works of Palestrina to the present day works of Christiansen.

This year the choir is touring the Southeastern seaboard from Murfreesboro, N. C. to St. Petersburg, Florida. The first concert will be held Saturday night, March 30 at Chowan College as part of their concert series program. Sunday morning the choir will participate in the 11:00 worship service at Up River Friends Meeting in Belvidere, and from there to the Goldsboro Friends Meeting for an evening concert. April 1, they will travel to Charleston, S. C. where the program will be sponsored by the Charleston College Glee Club. Tuesday night finds the choir in Titusville, Florida singing for the Parents-Teachers Association. The next day a trip across state will take them to St. Petersburg for concerts on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, sponsored by the First Methodist and First Congregationalist Churches. Friday night will be spent in Frostproof where the choir will be singing for the First Methodist Church. Saturday begins the long grind home to the "Old Alma Mater."

Summer Jobs Open In Park Service

Applications for summer jobs are now being accepted by the National Park Service.

Del Smith, Young Republican Executive Secretary, points out that thousands of students deluge the Park Service each year with applications. Persons are hired on a first come, first served basis, he reports, so it's important to apply immediately.

Men 21 and older are eligible for positions as trail crewman, fire control aides and seasonal rangers. To apply, complete a Form 57

The Quaker Goes To Press Today

This year's Quaker went to press today, and will be out approximately the twentieth of this month. The dedication will be made early in May during chapel.

The annual will have the traditional sections for the faculty, each class, sports, student activities and May Court. There will be pictures in color for the second time. The special features of the book are being kept secret. The staff of the yearbook is sponsoring the annual Signing Party for seniors, probably in the Student Union. The seniors will get their books at the party, a day before the rest of the students receive theirs.

"Compiling the necessary materials for the annual has been a long process, which could not have been done without the help of the entire staff. We hope, however, that the

Summer Session Plans Announced; Start June 6

The fortieth annual summer session of Guilford College will be held, June 6 to August 5, with a larger offering of courses than ever before in its history, according to Dr. Milner.

So far 31 courses are scheduled in the 15 areas of study which include business, economics, education, English, French, history, mathematics, natural science, philosophy, physical education, political science, psychology, religion, sociology, and Spanish.

Additional courses will be offered as sufficient demand arises. Some courses will be given in the evening in co-operation with Greensboro Division of the College, whose director is Grady E. Love. In addition, the Division, located at 519 West Washington Street in Greensboro, will offer its usual separate schedule of courses in the fields of high school, business education, and college credit.

The nine-week summer session is designed primarily for college students who wish to continue their studies during the summer, for teachers doing further work in their special fields, and for high school graduates who wish to start their freshman year in college during the summer. Credits up to ten hours may be earned during the summer session. As usual, students may arrange for board and room. Women will live in Founders Hall, and men in Cox Hall. Registration will take place on June 6.

The summer classes at Guilford are taught by members of the regular teaching faculty and visiting teachers. Included on this summer's faculty will be Doctors Algie I. Newlin, Philip W. Furnas, E. Garness Purdom, J. Curt Victorius, E. Daryl Kent, David B. Stafford, and Carroll S. Feagins; and Professors Grady E. Love, Ernestine Cookson Milner, Stuart T. Maynard, and Ligia D. Hunt.

Guilford is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the National Association of American Colleges and is on the approved list of the American Medical Association and the North Carolina State Department of Education.

final product will have made it worth our while," said Eller Butner, editor of the Quaker. Others on the editorial staff are: Jim Shelton, associate editor; Jake Jacobson, sports editor; Claudette Belton, business manager; Mary Kay Hilton, advertising editor and Bob Johnson, photographer. A staff of about eleven work with them.

Coming Elections Plans Announced

Plans are under way for the spring elections. The deadline for submitting candidates was March 11. The deadline for petitioning candidates will be March 18. Campaign speeches will be given in Freshman Chapel on Monday, March 25, and in upperclassman chapel on Tuesday, March 26.

The election itself will be held on Wednesday, March 27. Balloting will be at the usual place, the biology lab to the right when entering King Hall. Balloting will begin at 8:00 a.m. and will continue until 4:00 p.m. Everyone is asked and encouraged to vote.

Those to be elected are class officers, club officers, and those to be honored in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." A list of candidates will be posted before the election for the consideration of the voters.

Those serving on the elections committee are Carolyn Newlin, Bill Jarvis, and Roger Redman.

Sam Donahue at G.C.; Stags Invited

Sam Donahue, former leader of the successful Billy May Orchestra and now leader of his own sixteen-piece orchestra featuring many of the Billy May instrumentalists, will present a concert in Odell Auditorium, Greensboro College, March 22 at 4:30 p.m. and will play for a mixer dance that evening from 8:30 to 11:30 at the college.

The afternoon concert, with auditorium doors opening at 4:00, will be open to the public. Tickets will be $1.00 and can be secured at the Dean of Students office, Greensboro College, before the concert and can be purchased at the door that day.

Male stags from Guilford, High Point, Elon, Carolina, State, and Davidson are being invited to the informal mixer dance to be held in Main Building. Single bids, available also through the GC Dean of Students office, are $2.75. Close of the sale of bids is tentatively set for 5:00 p.m. March 20.

Sam Donahue, considered as one of the greatest tenor saxophonists in the country, has a musical background highlighted by performances with Tommy Dorsey, Gene Krupa, and Harry James before joining the Billy May group to make a name for himself. Also an arranger, he is billed as the leader who knows what the public wants to dance to and how to play it.
