

Eleven Students Chosen Who's Who

A student's scholarship, his participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, his citizenship and service to the school, and his promise of future usefulness are the bases for selection to the Who's Who column, the highest honor a senior at Guilford College may receive. There are eleven seniors recognized this year at Guilford to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

EDWARD VINCENT BANNIGAN

Ed Bannigan is from Johnstown, New York, and is a history major. Ed is on the Honor Roll and is the vice-president of the Men's Student Government and a member of the Quaker staff.

KAYE BURTON

Kaye Burton comes from Madison, N. C., and is majoring in elementary education. She is president of the Women's Athletic Association, Chairman of the Social Committee, and a member of the Student Affairs Board. Kaye can also be seen leading the cheers at the ball games, as chief cheerleader, and works on the Quaker staff.

CHARLES LUNDY CHASE

Charlie Chase is a math ma-

Reveler's Club To Present 'The Wayward Saint' Tonight

CURTAIN TIME SET FOR 8:00 P. M.

Tonight and tomorrow night, the Reveler's Club, under the direction of Donald D. Deagon, will present "The Wayward Saint." Since the show was cast six weeks ago, the club has been rehearsing with unceasing effort. This production is supposed to be one of the best that the Reveler's Club has ever produced.

The plot involves a parish priest, Canon Daniel McCooney, played by Bill Bloom, who has a reputation for being a saint. Recently he has been appointed to a new parish by His Lordship, the Bishop of Oriel, played by John Hewlett, because of his insistence of performing miracles instead of attending to his parish duties.

Included in the new household is an old maid housekeeper, Miss Killicat, played by Cathy Coble. Miss Killicat believes the only way to keep the priest busy is to teach him to knit. Peadar the

Continued On Page Two

In an early rehearsal of "The Wayward Saint", Cathy Coble, Bill Bloom, and Mai Lüs Luide take time off from classes to run over a quick scene.

REVELER'S USE 'ELBOW GREASE' IN BACKSTAGE PLAY PREPARATIONS

BY ANDREA ROGIN

Wondering what all the hammering and shouting was about in the auditorium of Mem Hall, we wandered up there one afternoon last week. There we discovered that there is more to putting on a play than the rehearsals that take place every evening for weeks before the performances.

In those afternoons, another group takes over the stage. The sight that meets the eye seems to be one of general confusion and chaos. People yell to make themselves heard above the noise of hammers and saws; they dash about for paste, razors, nails and rulers. However, there is order to all this—even though it takes a while to find it.

The first step is to interpret what people are saying. Perfectly average Guilford students develop the most unusual and professional vocabulary when they start to work backstage. They talk about flats, dutchman, teasers, braces, batons, and a dozen other things that seem completely unpronounceable. At one end of the stage a wooden frame is being hammered together, while at the other side a similar frame is being covered with canvas. But by the night of the first performance, these will have been put up and painted and the impression of a room will have been created. Technical problems are also discussed—how to create snow, thunder and lightning, or any other effect that the play happens to call for. Make-up artists have the task of making students look middle-aged, and thin people look fat.

Somehow, though, all the problems are solved, and probably as you are reading this article this afternoon, the last paint brush is being cleaned and put away, and the last nail is being driven into the last prop. At any rate, when the lights dim and the curtain rises tonight, everything will be in perfect order and in efficient form ready to produce a realistic effect—despite all the seemingly confused mess that has gone before.

Members of the 1959-1960 Who's Who are, seated left to right, Janice Cornell, Margie Haworth, Julie Trinkle, and Baldeia Lineberger. Standing are Ed Bannigan, Howard Hinshaw, Groome Fulton, Tom O'Briant, and Charlie Chase. Absent from picture are Kaye Benton and Lester Parker.

Major from Monroe, Wisconsin. He is president of the Student Affairs Board, in addition to being president of the Choir and a member of the Honor Board.

JANICE LILLIAN CORNELL

Jane Cornell comes from Warwick, Rhode Island. She is a member of the Student Affairs Board, and is the president of the Women's Student Government this year.

WESLEY GROOME FULTON

Groome Fulton is an economics major from High Point, N. C., and is president of the Men's Student Government. He is a member of the Student Affairs Board, and works on both the Guilfordian and the Quaker staff.

MAJORIE NELL HAWORTH

Margie Haworth is also from High Point, and she is a sociology major. Margie is vice-president of the Women's Student Government, and is a cheerleader.

HOWARD THOMAS HINSHAW

Howard Hinshaw comes from Guilford College, and is major-

Continued on Page Two

NEWS BRIEFS

Remember that the three days before Thanksgiving, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 23, 24, and 25, as well as Friday, Saturday and Monday November 27, 28, and 30, the three days following Thanksgiving, are nin-cut days.

Gaye Burton, QUAKER editor, reminds everyone who had his picture taken for the yearbook to return the proofs as quickly as possible.

The Quaker's last football game of the season will be played on Hobbs Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 P. M. They will meet the Western Carolina team.

The International Relations Club is sponsoring a city-wide book drive for the purpose of collecting books to send abroad. If you care to contribute to this cause, please leave your books in the College Union, or bring

Continued on Page Four

Chapel Calendar

NOVEMBER 23-27

Tuesday, November 24 — The Student Christian Association presents Dr. Claude Bowen.

Wednesday, November 25 — the Student Christian Association presents Dr. Claude Bowen.

Thursday, November 26 — Thanksgiving holiday.

Friday, November 27—to be scheduled.

NOVEMBER 30—DECEMBER 4

Tuesday, December 1—A conference on alcohol—Herbert H. Parrish.

Thursday, December 3—to be scheduled.

Friday, December 4—Scholarship and scholarships—Mrs. Milner—and the Scholarship Society.

National Teacher Examinations To Be Held In February

PRINCETON, N. J.—The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 160 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 13, 1960.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non Verbal Reasoning, and one or two of twelve Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the National Teacher Examinations and which of the Optional Examinations to select.

A Bulletin of Information (in which an application is inserted) describing registration procedures may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the ETS office during November and December, and early in January so long as they are received before January 15, 1960.

THE GUILFORDIAN
Would like to take this space to thank and to congratulate Dr. Curt J. Victorius for the excellent job he has done as general chairman of the Campus Chest Drive this year
(Complete Report On Page 2)

Guilford's Royal Beauties

Dr. E. Daeyl Kent, crowns the 1959 Homecoming Queen, Miriam Almager, during the halftime ceremonies of the Appalachian game. At right is Betsy Winesett, Maid of Honor.