Musical Comedy To Be Stage Here In March; First In History of Guilford College

Charles Chase, Evelyn Copeland, Kay Smith and Bill Bloom work on scene from the coming production.

"Annie Get Your Gun" Is Combination Of Drama And Music

"Annie Get Your Gun," the Rodgers' and Hammerstein musical comedy, will be presented by the Guilford College drama club March 10, 11, and 12 in the college auditorium in Memorial Hall.

The presentation is the first musical ever attempted by the Guilford students and is under the direction of Jerry Smyre, music professor at the college, and Donald Deagon, head of the dramatic productions of the college, and professor of English. Choreographer is Mrs. Billie Phipps, a resident now in the Guilford community. Bill Bloom has the job of student assistant director for the production.

"Annie Get Your Gun" is based on the well-known story of Annie Oakley, a country girl who achieves fame because of her expert marksmanship in Buffalo Bill's wild west shows. The story attains added interest when Annie falls in love with Frank Butler, champion marksman in the show. After a period of fighting and separation, during which there is much singing, dancing, and rollicking by the remainder of the cast, Frank and Annie finally become united.

The show will begin at 8:00 P. M. all three night. Tickets for adults are $1.00 and for students and children $.50. Guilford students will be admitted free of charge.

April 23 Is Date Set For Junior-Senior Banquet And Dance

The Junior Class has begun work on the Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance, which will be held on April 23. The time for the Banquet has been set at 6:30-8:30 in the cafeteria at Founders Hall, and all juniors and seniors and their husbands and wives are to be invited. The Dance will follow the Banquet at 9:00 in the College Union and will last until 11:45. Dress for the Dance is "formal" — evening dresses for girls and dark suits for boys; flowers are optional.

Committees for the decorations of the affair have already been appointed, headed by Sue Drake and Wilma Lou Washburn to decorate for the Banquet, and Helen Brown and Betty Lou McFarland to decorate for the Dance. The program for the banquet will be handled by Margaret Haworth and A. T. Barbee, and the invitations by Jane Carroll. The refreshments for the dance come under the charge of Lillian O'Brian.

There will be another class meeting this coming Monday at 10:20 in the auditorium in Memorial Hall, and all juniors are urged to be present. Definite plans will be discussed at this time concerning the annual affair, and the Nominations Committee will present their slate for Senior Class officers to the class.

1960-61 BUDGET VOTED ON TODAY BY STUDENT BODY; CALLS FOR $2.00 INCREASE

The suggested Budget for student activities for the coming school year was drawn up by the Budget Committee last week and approved in a unanimous vote by the Student Affairs Board at their February meeting.

Each of the organizations listed in the Budget was requested to turn in to the Committee an allocation by February 4 as to what cation request for the coming year. This, then, was pitted against the amount they were granted in this year's Budget, and the funds were spread out accordingly.

In order to meet the increased costs and the year to year increased allocations of most of the organizations, the proposed budget must be based on $24.00 per student rather than the usual $22.00 of the past years. This means an increase in the Student Activity Fee of $2.00 per year, or $1.00 per semester. Basing this fee on 620 students, the average amount for the year, the total would be $14,880, which will be distributed as indicated in the detailed budget plan below.

The Budget Committee put this proposed budget before the Student Affairs Board, and recommended the increase in order to meet the increased current expenditures and to have a balanced budget. The student body voted on the proposed budget in freshman chapel yesterday, and in upper-classman chapel today. If the budget passes, it will mark the first increase in the Student Activity Fee in over a decade.

A seventy-five per cent majority of the student body is needed to pass the Budget, according to the College voting regulations.

IRC Delegates Attend Mock U. N.. Assembly At University Of North Carolina

Five members of the International Relations Club of Guilford College left yesterday for a statewide United Nations Mock Assembly at Chapel Hill. Miriam Almaguer, Lucy Garcia, Penny Smith, Patty Gibbs, and Carolyn Nimitz will represent the college in the three-day affairs at the University of North Carolina.

Each college present at the Assembly will represent one country in the world, and will vote on the side of that country in the same manner as that country would vote if their delegate were attending a real conference of the United Nations. Several major issues of the day will be brought up in the meetings, concerning disarmament, German reunification, South African discrimination and so forth. The Guilford delegates will be representing South Africa.

Registration for the conference took place yesterday afternoon between one and four in Memorial Hall on the University campus, and several speakers will be heard today. The Assembly will come to a close Saturday afternoon.
