

Founders Day Set For Tomorrow

Dr. James Read to Give 11th Annual Ward Lecture

Dr. James M. Read, new president of Wilmington College, will deliver the 11th annual Ward Lecture at 8:00 tomorrow night in Memorial Hall. The subject of the lecture will be "The Responsibility of a Quaker College to Train for World Leadership."

Since 1951 Dr. Read has served as United Nations Deputy High Commissioner for Refugees, a post which has taken him to virtually every corner of the world to carry out negotiations in regard to the protection, care and resettlement of homeless people.

Dr. Read was born in Camden, N. J., was graduated from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., in 1929, and continued his college studies on the graduate level in Berlin and Marburg in 1932. He earned a second Ph.D. at the University of Chicago in 1941.

As a teacher, Dr. Read served on the faculty of the University of Louisville, Kentucky, from 1935 to 1943. He became the president of Wilmington College on October 15.

Dr. Read, along with Mr. Charles A. Dana, will be honored at a reception in the College Union Friday afternoon at 4:00 p.m.

Renowned Artist To Lecture Here

Paul Bartlett, renowned throughout the United States and in Europe for his artistic creations, will be the guest speaker at the Friday night lecture on Nov. 4. Mr. Bartlett will give a demonstration of portrait painting. Using a live model to sit for him, he will illustrate the techniques of starting a portrait. "Of course," he said, "I can't cover the subject fully, but will attempt to give a quick survey of how to begin such a painting."

Mr. Bartlett was born in Paunton, Massachusetts; he studied art at the Art Institute of Chicago and at Julian's Academy in Paris. For many years he was a regular exhibitor in the North, especially in New York and Chicago. More recently, he lived and worked in Charlotte for about twelve years, prior to coming to Greensboro in 1959. He also has spent a great deal of time in Florida.

Mr. Bartlett has done outstanding work in portraits, landscapes, and still life. His work has won numerous prizes, mostly in the landscape division. Some of his paintings hang in the American division of the Luxembourg Museum, the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York, and in various other places.

A great deal of the last twenty-eight years has been spent in teaching art. Mr. Bartlett has taught in Florida, Connecticut, and Charlotte, before coming here to Guilford College. He taught a class here on the campus last year. As for the present, he says, "We're trying to get one for this year and will probably start as soon as we can get organized."

Mr. Bartlett and his wife live on King Street here in Guilford College, where Mrs. Bartlett is a faculty member in the natural science department.

Mrs. East Joins Alumni Office Staff

Mr. Gene Key, Guilford Alumni Secretary, has added a new secretary to his department. Mrs. W. J. (Judy) East began work October 1. She has been working mainly with the alumni mailing files and with the current building campaign.

Mrs. East lives on Walnut Circle in Greensboro. She is the mother of two children - Ginger, 7, and Tyrone, 6.

Mrs. East can be found at her desk in the Alumni Office on any weekday.

Guilford Will Celebrate 124th Year of Service

This Friday Guilford College will celebrate its 124th birthday at its annual Founders Day Celebration. The day's activities will begin with a special assembly program at the New Garden Meeting House so that visitors and members of freshman chapel can attend.

Following special music by the college choir under the direction of Mr. Carl Baumbach, Mr. Charles A. Dana will address the group. Mr. Dana has recently promoted and partially financed the construction of the new science wing of the Guilford College Greensboro

Division and awarded scholarships to 10 outstanding students here.

At 4:00 p.m. a reception will be held in the College Union for Mr. Dana and President James M. Read of Wilmington College who will present the annual Ward lecture at 8:00 p.m.

Founders Day was originally known as Charter Day and was celebrated in January. However, because of bad winter weather the time was changed to the early fall.

In 1930, Nathan Hunt, feeling a concern over the state of education before Friends, expressed his views during the Meeting for Worship. Jeremiah Hubbard, a teacher in the little school house at New Garden, agreed with him and proposed the founding of a yearly meeting school. The school later became Guilford College.

During the year 1834 land was bought, buildings planned, bricks were made and the first large gift in the amount of $2,000 was received from English Friends. In August of 1837 the school opened with fifty young North Carolinians enrolling - 25 young men and 25 young women.

Guilford College is now celebrating its one hundred and twenty-fourth year of continuous educational service.

Lyric Soprano to Appear in Recital Here November 8

Natalie Bodanya, lyric soprano, will appear in an 8:00 p.m. performance here on Tuesday, Nov. 8. She will also be featured in chapel on Nov. 9. Her recital will be given in Memorial Hall.

The magic aura of the "golden age" of singing is irrevocably bound up with the career of Natalie Bodanya. Although she is an American product (she reversed the age-old custom and did not even sing in Europe until she had made her Metropolitan debut), Miss Bodanya is one of the last pupils to come under the tutelage of the great Marcella Sembrich, famed coloratura of the period of Caruso, Melba, Fremstad, de Reszke and Emma Eames.

When Edward Johnson, director of the Metropolitan Opera, heard Miss Bodanya he signed her for the leading soprano role of Micaela in "Carmen." The day after her debut she was acclaimed by critics as "the talk of the operatic world." Other leading roles were immediately assigned to her, and she created that of Lizetta in the American premier of "The Clandestine Marriage."

Miss Bodanya has appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, New York Philharmonic, and other leading orchestras in the United States, France, Sweden, Norway, and Denmark. While in Copenhagen, she gave a command performance for the Danish Royal family. She was also a guest artist at the famous Venice Festival in Italy.

This year Miss Bodanya's campus visits are being sponsored by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges.

Department Tutors Selected for Year

Tutors for various departments have now been selected.

Billie Adams will be helping in the Natural Science Department. Tutors in English are Joyce Campbell, Margaret Haworth and Jamie Mathews. Helping in the Math Department will be Richard Paul.

Karen Ljung and Richard Swinell are Spanish tutors. In the Sociology Department is Anne Taylor; in the French Department, Alan Gordon.

All of the Dana Scholars are acting as tutors. They are Miriam Almaguer, Brenda Alexander, Frances Cook, Jimmy Childress, Steen Spove, Dora Smith, Doug Connor, Maurice Raiford, Penny Smith, and Doris Walker.

Anyone desiring assistance in any departmental work should see one of the tutors. Their service is free to the student and willingly given.

Dana Science Hall Dedicated at Greensboro Division

At 4:00 p.m. today the new wing of the Greensboro Division of Guilford College, known as the Charles A. Dana Science Hall, was dedicated during a 30-minute program. This $300,000 structure was financed by Mr. Dana, who paid half the cost, and by a group of Greensboro citizens including industrialists and business men, who matched Mr. Dana's gift of $150,000.

The Dana wing was presented by Mr. Arnold Schiffman, board member of the Greensboro Division, who then recognized Mr. Dana. After a tour of the Division a coffee hour and reception was held in the library.

A dinner honoring Mr. Dana will be held in Founders Dining Room at 7:00 o'clock tonight. At this dinner the ten recently selected Dana scholars will be presented to the approximately 150 guests and will receive certificates of merit.

The three-story addition to the Greensboro Division will provide additional classrooms and laboratories on first floor. There will be a visual and audio-equipped room and a laboratory equipped for research work. On second floor the foreign language rooms are furnished with the most modern equipment and the psychology lab has a one-way window installed expressly for the purpose of observing children in Child Psychology courses. Third floor consists of laboratories for chemistry, biology and natural science.

There are 624 persons enrolled in college credit work at the Division with 124 carrying full schedules (12 hours or more). This means that presently the total enrollment of persons taking college credit work at Guilford (both here and in the Greensboro Division) is approximately 1339.
