Take Time Out-Read a New Book

The observance of National Library Week, April 8-14, is jointly sponsored by the National Book Committee and the American Library Association. National Library Week was first observed in 1958. It has as its purposes three principal objectives: (1) more understanding and support of libraries; (2) a heightened sense of the importance of reading in national life; and (3) a more active enjoyment by everyone of the rich rewards of reading.

The slogan which has been adopted for 1932 is "The community that reads—leads." For a campus situation, we may adopt this to read "The campus that readsleads," or "The student who reads —leads." The student who reads up and Read" is still applicable to many persons, particularly in the light of the results of a recent questionnaire which reveals that 15% of American college students never check a book out of their college library, and that only 6% of he total circulation in academic libraries is for non-course reading. Why not take some time during National Library Week to discover among the 50,000 books in your library some on the subject in which you have an interest? Read something just for fun!

Allan Nevins, the noted Ameri-can historian, lists the following five history books as "musts" for every American:

1. Carl van Doren's Life of Benjamin Franklin.

2. Paul Leicester Ford's The Many-Sided George Washington. 3. Gilbert Chinard's one-volume

Life of Thomas Jefferson. 4. Ben Thomas' one-volume Life of Lincoln

5. Autobiography of Theodore Roosevelt.

How many of these have you read?

Art Exhibition

Eugenia Eckford Rhoads, mother of Guilfordian Bill Rhoads, is presenting an exhibition of oils water colors from April 2-22, 1962. Sponsored by Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Mrs. Rhoads' exhibition will be open to the public daily from 9:00 a.m.-10:00 p.m. and Sundays from 2:00-10:00 p.m. at Elliott Hall Gallery, Woman's College, Greensboro.

Stanley Kunitz, Pulitzer Prize Poet, Lecturer, Here Tonight

Stanley Kunitz, a distinguished poet who received a Pulitzer Prize in 1959, spoke in chapel this morning on "Some Poems in the Making." He will present a lecture this evening on "Order and Disorder in the Arts" at 8 p.m. in the Dana Auditorium.

The same year Mr. Kunitz received the Pulitzer accolade for his 'Selected Poems, 1928-1958," he was selected by the Ford Foundation to receive a two-year grant for creative work. Other honors he has received have been the Oscar Blumenthal Prize, a Guggenheim Fellowship, the Amy Lowell Poetry Travelling Fellowship, and a National Institute of Arts and Letters grant.

Mr. Kunitz has been recognized by leading critics as a first-rate American poet. His poetry is con-Dr. Lloyd Thayer cerned with such elemental themes as love and art, life and war and death, the passing seasons, and the tyranny of time.

Born in Worcester, Massachusetts, Stanley Kunitz was gradu-ated summa cum laude from Harv-ard University. He has taught at Bennington College in Vermont, the Potsdam, N. Y. State Teachers College, and at the New School in New York City. Currently, he teaches the art of Poetry at New York's famous Poetry Center.

Mr. Kunitz' visit to our campus is made possible by a project spon-sored jointly by the Danforth Foundation and the Association of American Colleges.
