

Homecoming: A Rainy Day Victory

The Guilford College Quakers easily defeated the Otterbein College Cardinals, 47-13, at Armfield Athletic Center Saturday. The Cardinals were held scoreless until the second half before a Homecoming crowd of 3,000.

The Quakers took an early and permanent lead in the first quarter after Buddy Smith with a pass from Bill Burchette scored the first touchdown of the game. Bill Burchette made it 7-0 by successfully kicking an extra point. Before the quarter ended Danny Wheeling, running 53 yards, made it 13-0.

In the second quarter, Larry Funkhouser ran for a touchdown and Bill Baird kicked another extra point. Then Henry McKay, with a pass from Bill Burchette, pushed the Quaker lead higher. After another kick by Bill Baird the first half ended with a 27-0 lead for the Quakers.

In the third quarter Danny Wheeling ran for another touchdown, and Bill Baird followed it up with a successful kick. Then Otterbein Fullback Paul Reiner ran for his team's first touchdown. After Guilford successfully blocked the kick, Bill Lackland, with a pass from Mike Boccuzzi, scored the final touchdown of the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter Colon Carter's 70 yard touchdown run and Bill Baird's kick made it 47-6. The Cardinals didn't give up and in the final play, Cardinal Dave Widder passed to teammate Don White for a touchdown. Dave Green kicked an extra point and the game ended with the Quakers victorious 47-13.

Soccer Team Starts Winning Season

The Guilford College Soccer Team enters its second season of existence with what appears to be a fine squad of players. The team is relatively small in size, but very fast.

The Quakers began the season without two of last year's stars, John Trimpi and Chu Kim. John transferred to Georgia and Chu did not return this year. Randy Evans and George Nauman moved in to fill the vacant spot. They were both starters last year and are experienced players. Coach Mel Keiser said that he thought he had a very fine soccer team and expected to have a winning season.

Al Girrard and Jim Grizzard are two other offensive greats for the Quakers. The defense is led by player-coach Tim Tufts who is considered one of the top defensive players in the conference. Joe Spruill is another fine defensive player whose speed helps keep the opposing team off balance and the Quaker team on the attack.

In their last outing the Quakers edged Westlyan College 2-1 for a 1-1 record. With a potential winning season at hand let's support the Quakers in one of the world's most exciting sports.

Pre-Game: Quaker Quakers to Play Bears

After slipping by the co-champ conference team 21-20 last year, the Quakers seek more action Saturday as they clash with the Lenior-Rhyne Bears at 8:00 p.m. at the Greensboro High School Stadium.

The Bears with twenty-two out of thirty-one players being lettermen are currently ranked first in the Carolina Conference in offense and defense.

Running in the single wing offense for Lenior-Rhyne will be Mike McRee, a 175 pound freshman from Maiden, North Carolina, at tailback and a 6' 1" 215 pound senior, Wayne Bell of Raleigh, will be replacing all district and all conference Sammy Holcomb. Bell was a standout for the Bears last year until the Quaker game when he received a knee injury that set him out for the rest of the season. Filling in at blocking back will be 5' 9" 195 pound, junior George Miles. Miles's fine blocking and passing will certainly be a dominating factor in the Bears attack. Toby Morgan, a 5' 10" 167 pound sophomore from Hickory, handles the wingback post with great proficiency. Lenior-Rhyne, holding the number one spot in offense in the Carolina Conference with an average of 460.7 yards, will be a serious threat to the Quakers tight defense.

Some of the Quakers defensive men that will be fighting to stop the Lenior-Rhyne gridiron are: linebacker Dean Johnson (5' 11" 189 pounds), defensive tackle Gil Lindsey (5' 9" 212 pounds), defensive end Fred Gray (5' 1" 178 pounds), and defensive halfback Buddy Smith (5' 8" 175 pounds). These boys along with seven other determined players will try to hold the Bears to a scoreless afternoon.

Wrestlers Form Team October 16

The Guilford College Wrestling Team opens its season December 2 at home against the Tarheels from Carolina. This year's team hopes to bounce back from a losing season last year with the help of some returning stars; Dennis Carroll, Chris Corey, Perry Benbow, Bob Nichols, and Mike Stillwell.

The Quakers begin practice Monday, October 16 and Coach Arthur Bluenthal invites all interested wrestlers to come out for the team. The Quakers have a very ambitious schedule this year beginning with Carolina and ending the season against Davidson and N. C. State.
