Ward Plan Supporters Organize

A meeting was held Thursday at the home of Donald Darnell to outline plans for the campaign in favor of the ward system in Greensboro.

Mr. Darnell said that the value of student power could not be overstated. He stressed a need for students to help in canvassing or working at campaign headquarters at 1407 W. Friendly Ave.

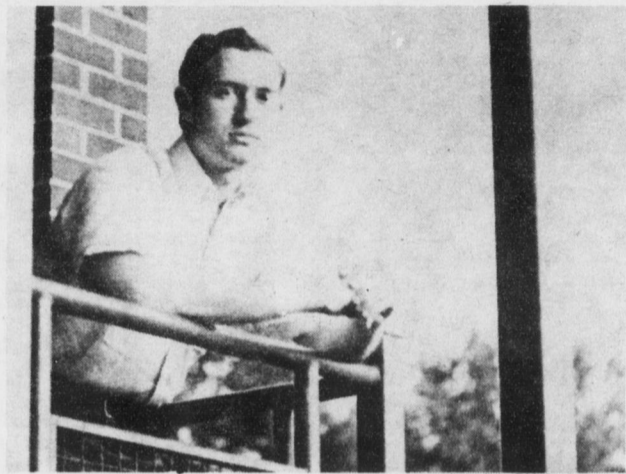

Darnell, an English professor at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, called the meeting to solicit faculty and student support to work for the proposal's passage in the November 4 election.

Under the present system of city government, the mayor is elected by the city council. Supporters of the ward system say this can be done in secret session and influenced by three or four councilmen, pointing out that in 1967 the man elected mayor by the council had run third in the actual voting.

They also argue that a system dating from 1911 when Greensboro had a population of only 16,000 cannot suit the needs of a city of 145,000 people.

A member of the group said that opposition to the plan stems from quarrels over the number of wards, and supposedly not to the plan itself. The city manager would be retained under the new system.

Drink Bill Vetoed By SAC

David Mahaney -- President of MIG

The Student Affairs Committee at a recent meeting refused to endorse House Council Resolution No. 1, a recommendation that the possession and usage of alcoholic beverages on campus be made permissible. The SAC, before further consideration, sent the resolution back to its writers for revision.

Frederick W. Parkhurst, Chairman of the Student Affairs Committee, explained that the resolution was "returned to its writers for them to give specific reasons for disagreement with present policy. These reasons for disagreement and proposals for a new policy should be stated."

The resolution said it is "un-Quakerly" to restrict the use of alcoholic beverages. Parkhurst takes issue with this statement, saying he knows of "no Quaker practice anywhere which favors the use of alcoholic beverages."

David Mahaney, President of Men's Interdomitory Government, and a member of SAC, presented the unsuccessful resolution to the committee. Further explaining reasons for SAC's failure to endorse it, Mahaney states that "SAC thought it was too abrasive. . . that is was construed to mean that the school has no right to dictate to students laws it feels necessary."

Asked if the resolution would be rewritten in an attempt to secure SAC's endorsement before presenting it to the Board of Trustees, Mahaney said, "considering the time factor, I don't see how it could be."

House Council Resolution No. 1 originated in the House Councils of Milner and 1968 Dorms, and has been endorsed by the councils, MIG, WSC, and the Student Legislature.

The resolution, which is to be presented to the Board of Trustees, states that present college policies forbidding alcohol on campus, "constitute an infringement upon the rights of others."

Leg. To Formulate Drink Rules

Monday night the Student Legislature held its regular weekly meeting.

An open committee was formed to study the drinking problem at Guilford and formulate new guidelines to be presented to the Student Affairs Committee and the Board of Trustees. The students who volunteered to serve on the drinking rules committee are Paul Bryant, Bob Wolinsky, Craig Chapman and Carol Wieman.

A provision for study rooms was reported on by Dan Hurlburt. Rooms in Dana will now be open until one o'clock Sunday through Friday nights for the convenience of late studiers.

Other new business included the passage of the International Relations Club's Constitution and the selection of Mary Lollis as the legislature's candidate for Homecoming Queen.

In addition, the legislature named Linda Rodgers and Steve Wessells to the Curriculum Committee and formed a committee to begin work on a teacher and course evaluation survey.

In response to the questions raised on campus about the group called "Catalyst", Rusty Davenport, Catalyst member, explained the group to the legislature members.

According to Davenport, Catalyst is not a special interest group, but a group of concerned students who would like to see constructive change at Guilford. He also said that the group has not yet resolved the question of whether to become an action oriented group or a stimulus and awareness group which involves others and inspires thought. Davenport added that he hoped the group could do both at once.

Catalyst hopes also to become the push behind the action of other groups. Catalyst plans to push for changes in the drinking policy, scholarship allocations, and women's hours, among other things. In addition, it hopes to initiate dialogue groups and sensitivity sessions.

Microfilm

The library now has a microfilm-reader printer available for student use in the reserve room. For ten cents the printer makes a copy, similar to a Xerox copy, of anything on the microfilm reel.

Reels are complete on The Greensboro Daily News from Jan. 1945 through Aug., 1969, The New York Times from Jan., 1950 through Sept., 1969, and The Wall Street Journal from Jan., 1960 through Aug., 1969. There are also several journals and magazines available on micro film reels.

THE MARLBOROS--Appearing at Guilford Friday night, October 31, for a dance in the cafeteria.

Soul Sounds Provide Homecoming Music

The Guilford College Union will present The Marlboros for a dance and show on Friday, Oct. 31.

Sometimes referred to as Jokers Six and The Marlboros, they have a rare combination of rhythm and harmony that has made them one of the most sought after and busiest groups in the Southeast. Their musical talent can be seen and heard when they perform a medley of Motown hits showing their vocal repe-toire and frenetic dancing ability.

They are currently recording for Ando records and will soon release for a major recording firm.

The Marlboros have toured with some of the country's greatest acts, such as The Tams, Billy Stewart, Peaches & Herb, and The Temptations, appearing on TV and at theatres, clubs, auditoriums and colleges throughout the South.
