

Students Canvass For Ward System

As the November 4 election approaches the Citizens for Representative Government are working on various means to gain support for the modified ward system.

Canvassing for the ward system Sat. morning, Guilford College and UNC-G students passed out pamphlets in Greensboro shopping centers. Drs. Lincoln Ladd and Donald Darnell, professors of English at UNC-G working with the drive, expressed enthusiasm at the morning turn out of students.

Monday at 4 p.m. in the Moon Room there was a meeting of Guilford faculty members interested in working for the ward plan. Mrs. Beth Keiser, head of the group, asked for suggestions for soliciting student help at Guilford.

It was decided to set up a table outside the cafeteria on Thursday and present the need for faculty and student assistance. Dr. Darnell, who was present at the Guilford meeting, outlined door to door solicitation routes for Sat. and Sun. Mrs. Keiser and others will take Guilford students to work in various districts Saturday. Darnell also explained plans for an ad in the Greensboro Daily News to list ward system supporters.

The League of Women Voters, the Greensboro Chapter of the NAACP, and other civic organizations have endorsed the modified ward plan.

(Photo courtesy of Greensboro News-Record)

Car in which Margaret Elizabeth Thompson of Gaffney, S.C., was killed Oct. 24 on W. Market Street near Holden Road.

Republicans Relate Views of Party

The Guilford College Young Republicans will hold their first meeting November 5 at 8 p.m. Business will include the election of officers and the presentation of a speaker.

Karen Reeling, acting president of the group, stated that the aim of the first semester will be defining and understanding Republicanism, explaining that "We want to directly relate to our party, and we must be able to see how we can take our views, such as the participation in the moratorium, to our party." Second semester the group will emphasize the primary elections.

In addition to old members, Miss Reeling stated that the club is looking forward to the membership of "some of the vital and stimulating freshmen and transfer students,

Auto Crash Kills 1, Injures 3

One Greensboro College student was killed and three Guilford College students were injured in a wreck on Friday last week. The wreck occurred shortly before midnight on West Market Street.

Killed was Margaret Elizabeth Thompson of Gaffney, S. C. Thomas Hagan, a Guilford student and driver of the car, was admitted with a fractured left leg and multiple bruises to the intensive care unit of Wesley Long Hospital. His condition is now very satisfactory.

Guilford students taken to Moses Cone Hospital and released with minor injuries were Evelyn Wood of Abington, Pa., and Peter Fay, of Swampscott, Mass.

Police said the car, eastbound on West Market Street, went out of control on a curve just east of Holden Road. The car then struck a sign post, hit a tree, and went down an embankment. Police filed no charges.

Nick Marshall and Nan Mengebier, rehearsing for "The Boor" to be presented in Dana Auditorium on Friday night.

Revelers To Act November 6-8

The Guilford College Revelers will present three one-act plays in Dana Auditorium on November 6, 7 and 8. There is no admission charge.

The first play will be "The Boor," by Chekov. Nick Marshall, Nan Mengebier, and Steve Wessells will headline this play which is about a wealthy widow and impoverished Russian general.

Saturday's play will be Shaw's "Dark Lady of the Sonnets." The story is about an evening when Queen Elizabeth and William Shakespeare meet. The starring roles will be handled by Sally Peterson, Hank Hackett, Eddy Simpson and Sandra Shansky.

The last play, Edward Albee's "The Death of Bessie Smith," will be presented on Sunday, Nov. 8. Aaron Graham, Sherry Malone, David Sheppard, Steve Elrod, Ruth Reid, Clarence Yokley, and Rich Aldrin will star in this play about the death of a famous blues singer in Memphis, Tenn.

The three plays are directed by Sandy Forman and technical work is handled by Donald Deagon and David Glenn.

Leg. Drink Committee To Consider Policies

Monday night the Student Legislature organized a committee to work on presentation of new drinking policies for the Student Affairs Committee and the Board of Trustees. Craig Chapman was appointed chairman. Other committee assignments included the designation of Susan Hester as chairman of the teacher evaluation committee.

David Mahaney, president of MIG, reported on a meeting held concerning the recent SAC veto of House Council Resolution 1, concerning drinking rules at Guilford. Mahaney said letters are being sent to many colleges and universities to obtain copies of their rules pertaining to drinking on campus. These letters cover a wide variety of institutions, including some of Quaker background. Mahaney stated that inquiries were being made into state alcohol regulations.

SOCIAL HOURS

Other new business entailed presentation of the idea of doing away with the "related function" clause of the dorm social hours. It was pointed out that bands for social hours cost $300 or more.

Sara Cox, president of WSC, announced that an extensive survey on open hours for women would be made soon. It will be in the form of a specific questionnaire, including an information sheet explaining various types of open hour plans. Some disappointment was expressed from the floor that men will not be polled at this time. Further new business was a presentation of the need for fire alarms and proper student respect for them.

Catalyst Meets

Students continued work on a structure within which campus issues can be supported at the Catalyst meeting last Monday night.

Members expressed the need for pressure on the diversified social action committees now on campus.

Other issues discussed at the meeting include the committee on drinking rules, P.E. facilities and finances, women's hours, the ward system, foreign studies program, efficiency of medical facilities, homecoming activities, and Vietnam Moratorium developments.

Catalyst has established an opinion board in Founders to give all students an opportunity to express opinions concerning issues at Guilford.

Students who need I.D. cards are requested to have their photos made on Wednesday, November 5, from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. in the Registrar's Office.

William Buckley, Jr., newly elected president of the freshman class. Other officers elected in Monday's run-off election include John Crescenzo, vice-president; Martha Pickett, secretary; Bob Lowdermilk, treasurer; and Randy Moore and Douglas Scott, Student Legislature representatives.

Washington Moratorium

The Guilford College Union is sponsoring a trip to Washington for "March Against Death-A Vietnam Memorial."

The group will leave on chartered buses on Friday, November 14, returning on Sunday. Total cost is $11.

This Washington march represents a culmination of anti-war events throughout the country.

The March Against Death will be a single file procession of persons moving past the White House.