

Counseling Services Expanded:

Psychologist Added

by Kyd Brenner

The Greensboro Tri-College Consortium has announced the appointment of Mr. Bill Spring of Greensboro as clinical psychologist serving Guilford College.

Mr. Spring is in private practice in Greensboro, and also serves a mental health clinic in High Point. Partners in Spring's firm will be serving both Bennett College and Greensboro College in the same capacity.

Spring will be on campus every Wednesday from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m., and Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon. He will operate out of the Counseling and Placement Center in Suite B-21 of 1968 Dormitory.

After taking his undergraduate work at Guilford College, Spring went on to receive a Master's in Clinical Psychology from East Carolina University in Greenville. For four years he was in private practice in Louisville, Ky., and he was Director of the Mental Health Center in Goldsboro, N.C.

The GUILFORDIAN spoke with Mr. Spring about his job at Guilford — what he will do, how he will do it, and why he is doing it.

Spring described his prime objective as being "to help people help themselves in crisis situations." He sees his services as complementing rather than replacing the services already offered by Dick Woodward in the Counseling Center. Spring will be available to students with personal or emotional problems for therapeutic counseling. "Short-term Crisis Intervention" is how Spring described his major function at the college.

Spring will also be available to meet with groups of professors, residence hall personnel, and others interested in talking in small groups about personality problems of students today. (Continued on page 6)

Voter Conference To Set New Strategy

Over one hundred student body presidents from colleges and universities across America joined with the Association of Student Governments this week in calling for an Emergency Conference for New Voters to organize students as voting delegates to the national party nominating conventions in 1972. The Emergency Conference is slated for December 3, 4, and 5 at Loyola University in Chicago.

"The events of the past month clearly indicate that neither of the two major political parties welcome the young, left-leaning voters as fully-enfranchised participants in the parties," said Duane Draper, President of ASG and Chairman of the steering committee for the Emergency Conference. "These events create a crisis situation for the millions of young people who wish to effect constructive change through existing institutions. Unless we begin the task immediately of organizing students within the party processes, we will find ourselves totally excluded from the delegate selections and the Presidential nominating procedures, thus effectively disenfranchised despite the 26th amendment."

The events Draper referred to were the Democratic Committee's selection of Patricia Harris as temporary chairman of the credentials committee over liberal Senator Harold Hughes (D-Iowa), who had been viewed by many as the key to enforcement of the McGovern Commission reforms at the Democratic convention in Miami.

On the Republican side, pressure from higher echelon Republican officials to thwart Congressman Pete McCloskey's (R-Cal.) challenge to President Nixon in the primaries has caused serious financial problems for McCloskey's campaign, and could essentially eliminate him as an alternative Republican candidate.

"It is imperative that the twenty-five million 18-24 year olds in this country are aware of the mockery that both Democratic and Republican party officials are making of the reform movements in the parties," continued Draper.

"Young people must sense the urgency of this meeting of the student community and the absolute necessity of mobilizing very quickly to combat those forces who would seek to isolate us from the regular party process." (Continued on page 6)

Senate Makes Appointments

The Community Senate met on Monday, November 8, wrapping up the faculty committee nominations, and adjourning until after Thanksgiving vacation.

First on the agenda at Monday's meeting was the resubmittal of the constitution of Founder's Hall. The constitution, which has been returned to the dorm because of the lack of election procedures, was reintroduced and passed by the Senate after election methods were inserted.

The following nominations were made to faculty committees; Dana Scholarship Committee, Ronnie Gelman and John Parker, Foreign Students Committee, Ed Diaz and Eutimus Walker, Foreign Study Committee, Bob and Sue Schaffer, Library Committee, Lyn McDaniels, and Publications Board, Jim Shields and Sylvia Harris.

The issues of Security and Transportation for students were also raised, both being carried over until the next meeting. Bob Bussey was appointed a committee of one to investigate transportation, and Dean Gottschall will be invited to discuss Security at the next meeting, scheduled for November 29.

World Affairs Institute

Politics of Human Survival

The eighteenth annual World Affairs Institute will take place at Greensboro College from Friday, Nov. 12 through Sunday, Nov. 14.

The Institute, billed as "a forum on the politics of human survival," will feature keynote speakers Rita Hauser, Norman Cousins and Thomas Broadwater, as well as various other programs.

Attorney Rita Hauser, the U.S. representative to the U.N. Human Rights Commission, will make the opening address Friday night.

Considered by Nixon as a candidate for the Supreme Court, Hauser will speak on "U.S. Politics and Survival."

Rita Hauser is a member of numerous professional organizations and is chairman of the ABA committee on the International Aspects of International Rights and Responsibilities and member of the ABA standing committee on World Order Under Law, the executive committee of the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law and the governing board of the International Institute for Human Rights.

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, will present a keynote address to Institute participants Saturday night. He will talk on "World Politics and Survival."

Cousins is president of the World Association of World Federalists and is chairman of the National Programming Council for Public Television. He is a recipient of the personal medal of Pope John XXIII and in 1963, served as co-chairman of the Citizens' Committee for a Nuclear Test Ban Treaty at the request of President Kennedy.

"Black Politics and Survival" will be the topic of a Sunday afternoon speech by Thomas Broadwater, a black gubernatorial candidate in the last South Carolina election.

Sponsored by the American Freedom Association and the Greensboro Jaycees, the Institute is described as "an invaluable resource for all concerned citizens in our free society to become informed about current world problems, to meet makers and interpreters of history, and to influence their decisions."

A report from students involved in projects in peace-making, ecology, and political and social action is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

Four N.C. lawyers, Robert Frazier, Winifred Blackwell, John Brooks and Charles Lambeth, who were delegates to the Belgrade World Conference on World Peace Through Law held last July, will lead a panel discussion on world politics and world law, Saturday, between 10:30 and noon.

Three concurrent workshops on Vietnam, the environment and the international economic situation as related to human survival will fill Saturday afternoon between 2 and 4 p.m.

Student Personnel:

More Than Just a Dean

by Jim Shields

Cliff Lowery leaned back in his chair and said, "I like the freedom — and the responsibility that goes with it — in my job." Talking to Ken Schwab or Vicky Curby, one can get the same idea in different words.

All three are members of the Student Personnel staff, all were in college not long ago. In their work with students at Guilford, they are acting to embody a concept of education other than the academic.

Schwab is Director of Residential Operations, Curby has a complex of duties under the title of Assistant Dean of Students, and Lowery is Director of Student Activities.

The GUILFORDIAN has published articles on Dick Woodward in Counseling and Placement, and Dr. Harry Johnson in the infirmary, who are also in the Student Personnel office. Don Woodside is another, and Financial Aid will be discussed next week.

Getting away from the high sounding titles of the three people — Curby, Schwab, and Lowery — anybody looking for almost anything in the way of help, encouragement, advice, or whatever, will find genuine in-
