

Lady Quakers Start Big

The Guilford College Volleyball team chalked up two victories in the first outing of the season, Tuesday at Catawba. Throughout the tri-match the Quakers dominated the offense, taking Catawba 15-10, 15-8, and UNC-Charlotte 15-12, 15-5. Reserves gained valuable experience, as everyone played. Starting this year for the Quakers are: senior captain Wanda Barker; co-captain Emorie Colby; freshman Leslie Bowerman; and 5'11" Lynn Zahurak, and All-State selection. Rounding out the starting six are: junior, Edie Bailey; and setter Cintonya Allison. Both are transfer students.

Those able to attend the home tri-match against N.C. State and Appalachian State were treated to a great example of power volleyball. The Lady Apps defeated the Quakers in two close games, 17-15, 16-14. The Quakers typically aggressive style was missing as they failed to convert six attempts at game point. Appalachian came back to take both games. The Quakers seemingly recovered from the loss as they took the first game from State 15-6. Unfortunately, poor service reception, and ineffective blocking, against a determined offense proved Guilford's undoing as the Wolfpack women took the match 15-2, 15-8.

Friday the Quakers traveled to UNC-Wilmington, returning with a win. Guilford took the first game easily 15-2, and the second game 15-8. The Seahawks, however, came back to take the third game 8-15. The Quakers recovered in the fourth game, winning 15-11, and taking their third match of the season.

Tennis Ladders Beginning

The first Guilford College tennis ladder tournaments will begin competition this week. The turnout of interested people has been tremendous. We look forward to some great competition.

The beginning ranks were established by a random drawing. Positions are shown on the bulletin board in Founders Lobby along with a copy of the rules and an envelope to receive the results of the matches. Please do not tamper with the rankings board. Someone from the Intramural Committee will keep the rankings up to date.

All the people who signed up should soon receive a list of the rules and procedures which will be put in the mailboxes. Challenge matches will begin as soon as the players desire. We are still accepting people who wish to enter the ladder. So, if you take advantage of this excellent chance to meet people with a similar interest and play some great tennis, contact Mrs. Clark in the gym before Oct. 31.

Friends Meeting at Keiser Home

Friendship Friends Meeting invites Guilford students who are interested in Quakerism to be their guests for a potluck supper this Sunday, October 1, 5:30 p.m., at Beth and Mel Keiser's home on campus.

Supper will be furnished by members of the meeting. After dinner, Cyril and Judy Harvey will show slides of England where they spent last year. There will also be a brief presentation of the meeting's social concerns.

The Keisers' home may be reached by walking up into the woods behind the football field or by driving straight down the dirt road at the end of Dolley Madison just off Friendly Avenue.

Announcements

To: Department Chairpersons, Clubs, Organizations, etc.,

Our Alumni Association Board of Directors has suggested that each issue of the Guilford College Bulletin include a calendar of events to acquaint readers with upcoming campus activities which they might like to take part in. We would appreciate your assistance. Please sent me brief facts about any public events your department, club or organization has planned for the current academic year — lectures, art exhibits, seminars, open houses, etc. — so that we may publicize them and perhaps increase participation by our alumni and friends. We realize that you are busy, but please take a few minutes — now! — to drop me a note in New Garden Hall or to call me on Extension 167.

Many thanks!
Jo Anne Jennings

The Senate meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Gallery. Agenda:

1. Dr. Burrows will speak on Quaker Consensus.
