Students Evicted

By John K. Cox

Fourteen students were notified by the College Administration on February 1 that they were being evicted from their temporary housing. The students, now living in four Frazier apartments, have been asked to move into residence halls by Feb. 15.

According to Housing Director Bob White, students are often placed in Fraziers during Fall semesters to alleviate the campus housing shortage. But it has always been school policy to open up the Fraziers for married students, White said. Now that there are open spaces in the dorms, Fraziers are no longer needed for unmarried students, he said.

The Frazier students have been protesting the eviction plans. In a letter to the Administration, David Hood, who is a resident of one of the four Fraziers being cleared, stated that the legitimate need of some students for a quiet studying environment is being subordinated to an unfair College policy.

It is College policy that, whenever the residence halls are full, overflow students are housed in the Fraziers. The primary function of these apartments, however, is and has been to house married students.

The residents of one Frazier, for example, requested last fall that they be given an apartment instead of a dorm if a housing shortage did exist. Walt Carter, a senior, said of Frazier No. 19, "We knew there was going to be a housing overflow... There has been one every year since I've been here."

All of the students now living in Fraziers realized that they could be asked to leave if the housing situation on campus changed. It did, said White, because many more students than expected are now living off-campus.

Last December Housing notified the students that they might have to move. On February 1 the mid-February deadline was announced. Hoping for a change in policy, the students then made a written appeal to the Administrative Council.

Their requests were denied by the Council, which consists of President Rogers, the heads of the various administrative departments, and Senate President Dennis Blue.

Senate Ticket Added

By Jennifer Park

A second ticket for the student Senate was allowed on the ballot Monday, after the deadline for submitting petitions had passed. The second ticket includes Tom Jarrell for president, John Goodwin for vice-president, Kimberly Eastman for secretary.

Derek Maingot, the first candidate on the ballot for the student government body, said, "We are very glad that we do have someone running against us."

Jarrell's ticket submitted its petition Monday evening after their records were checked to see if they met all of the requirements by "Ken Schwab and a few other people," said Jarrell. He then talked to Dennis Blue, current president of the Senate, about whether his slate would appear on the ballot.

The election committee, comprised of Wendy Quimby, Dennis Blue and Kenilyn Riggs, decided that Jarrell's ticket would appear on the ballot if Maingot's ticket did not have any objections.

Quimby said the committee, "Didn't want to overlook their feelings."

Maingot refused to give his permission for Jarrell's ticket to be on the ballot. He said, "we didn't feel it was our place as candidates to decide whether another candidate's ticket would be on the ballot."

Stohler to leave Guilford

by Jennifer Park

Hugh Stohler, Director of Student Activities, said that this will be his last semester at Guilford. Stohler publically announced this decision to the Student Union late last month.

Ken Schwab, Dean of Students, said, "In conversations with Hugh, it was evident it was time for Hugh to seek new kinds of opportunities for personal and professional growth."

Stohler is completing his tenth year at Guilford. He said that he has not seen himself countinuing in this job forever and that in the past he has considered the prospect of leaving.

"A job like this in a small college is a deadend," Stohler said.

When Stohler began working at Guilford his office was in the Hayworth building. Founder's Hall had been torn down before he came and was being rebuilt his first year. At that time dances were held in the cafeteria and films, concerts and performances were held in Dana Auditorium. Stohler said Student offices were in the old Cox Hall

"The change in facilities has created new work and tasks," Stohler said. He says he feels facilities management has occupied an increasing amount of his time.

"This job covers an awful lot of areas of responsibility," and "leads very quickly to burn-out," Stohler said.

Stohler will complete his contract on May 31 when Guilford's fiscal year ends.

"When contracts came out for this year it was agreed upon that this would be the final year for Hugh," Schwab said.

Stohler said that he is not certain what he will be doing after he leaves. "Both Sarah and I are thinking about what we want," Stohler said. Stohler says he is considering the area of community art administration as well as the field of student activities. "If either of us finds an attractive position before the other it will probably determine where we go," Stohler said. Stohler did say he wants to stay in the Southeast.

Ken Schwab has formed a search and selection committee to fill the position Stohler is vacating.

Schwab said he invited one student to represent each of the three major organizations, two people from his office and two faculty members to be on the committee. The students are Eric Locklear, representing the publications board, Jane Mardock from the Senate and Natalie Dolan from the Student Union. Jim Keith and Bob White will represent the Student Services office. June Benge, chairman of the Students Affairs Committee, and Dave McInnes are the faculty members on the committee.

The first task of the committee is to decide whether "changes in the definition of the position need to be made," said Schwab. McInnes has talked to Hugh about this and the committee intends to talk to members of the college community as well. The committee will place advertisements in appropriate professional journals and will ask people in the field for nominations, says Schwab. Committee members may also attend conferences to solicit applications.

The Committee will then screen the applications and invite probably three candidates for interviews. Schwab says that he expects that the candidates interviewed will also meet with the Senate, Union and other organizations as well as faculty and staff. It should be known who will fill Stohler's position by May 5.
