

Honorable...

(con't from p. 6)

Frances Waters received the Ernestine Milner Scholarship for her combination of family and academia.

Nancy Cable—Wells awarded Jeffrey Blackmun with the Eugene S. Hire Achievement Award for overall achievement, and Rachael Solomon received the Alan Walter Hull Scholarship for her contributions to Guilford as a CCE student. Grome Fulton, Jr. named the Sesquicentennial Scholarship recipients, each receiving a sixty dollar credit in the bookstore. (Sixty dollars was the price of tuition in 1837.)

President Bill Rogers closed the program by stressing that while Guilford is honoring select individuals, it is important that proper consideration be given to the "network of support" these individuals have received: friends, professors, and family. Rogers also reflected on the human mind and its virtually untapped potential. The challenge lies in how each person utilizes this potential.

Comparing the occasion to spring, Rogers conveyed a sense of celebration as Guilford recognized its leaders. Also, he summed up by saying, "the exuberance of mind is to be celebrated in itself."

HOMEWORKERS WANTED!
TOP PAY! C.I.
 121 24th Ave., N.W. Suite 222
 Norman, OK 73069

ATTENTION COLLEGE STUDENTS

$9.45 to start; part-time now and work full-time during the summer. Call 292-6070 between 1:30 and 3:00 PM.

Sports

Women's lacrosse begins season

By Fiona Clem

The women's lacrosse team, in their only pre-season scrimmage, crushed the N.C. State lacrosse club, 17-7.

The team could not keep the winning momentum in their opening regular season games.

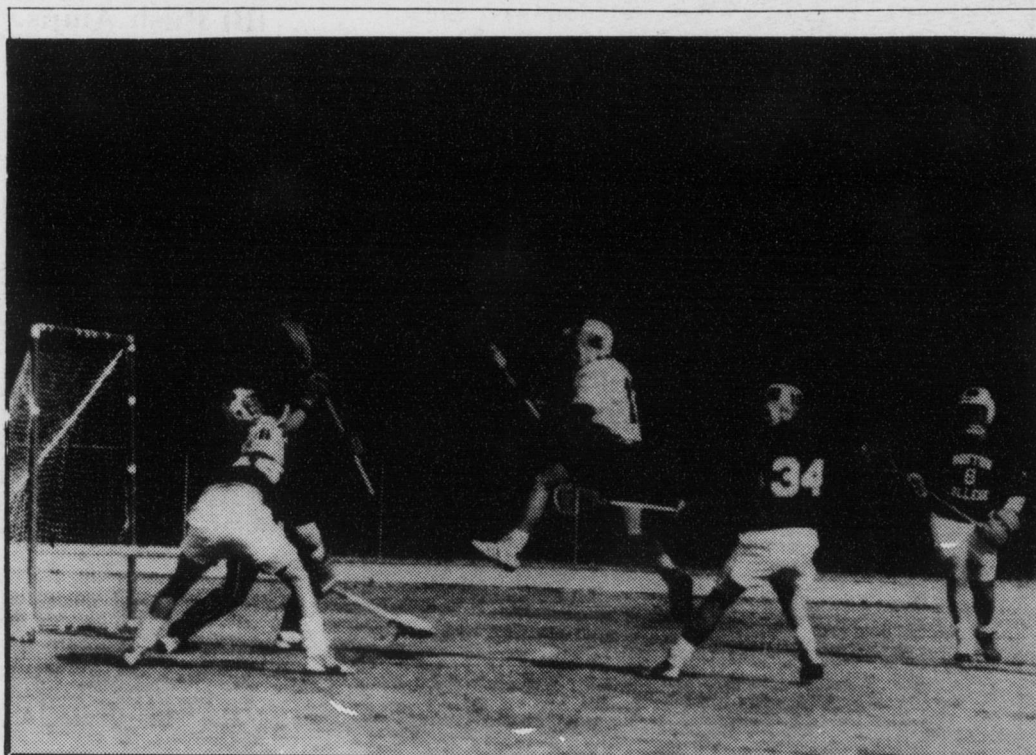

The Quakers tied Randolph-Macon 7-7 in their opening home game.

Their record dropped to 0-1-2 when the Quakers went on the road to challenge Longwood and Lynchburg.

Pam Howe, first-year head coach, has had three years of lacrosse coaching experience. Howe was the assistant coach at Springfield College for two years and the assistant at Dartmouth last year before coming to Guilford.

The next home game for the womens lacrosse team is on April 5 at 4:30 against Randolph-Macon Womens College.

Next Issue:

Spring Season
Wrap-ups!!!

Look for Men's Lacrosse
In Next Issue