

Election Day at Guilford College

On Tuesday, February 22nd, 54% of Guilford's eligible voters participated in Guilford College Election Day. The day went smoothly for the voters, but proved stressful for the candidates. Guilfordian photographers were present to depict the day.

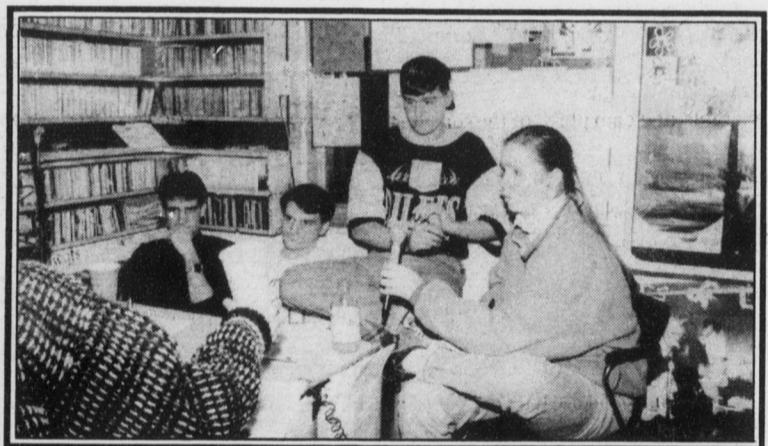

Throughout the day, election workers had to put up with random rushes of people who turned out to vote. (left)

Presidential candidate Rich Ewell takes his turn for the photo opportunity as he poses with Guilforum co-host Josh Lewis and his Vice-presidential opponent Gail Kasun on Monday night. (above)

Every politician knows that there is always time for a good photo opportunity even one with your opponent. Just ask Gail Kasun and Terrence Laster. (right)

On Monday night, the Chris Behm, Brian Burton and Terrence vice-presidential Laster rejoice after hearing the news that their ticket on Guilforum on WQFS. (along with Rich Ewell) was victorious. (below)

