

AGONY AND ECSTASY

September 23, 1994

Andy Hipp is recovering this week from the nasty blow he received in an overly damaging Game earlier this month. "Yeah, I broke my jaw in two places," Andy said through wired teeth. "My teeth will be wired shut for six weeks." That six weeks is now about three and a half but the damage to the Rugby team will evidently be more lasting. Both senior Brian Lane and fellow Rugby veteran senior Mark Landy have expressed reluctance to continue their careers as Scrummers, not to mention the obvious departure of team captain Andrew Hipp. "Have you seen Andy?" Brian Lane said earlier this week about his decision to leave the team. "The guy's eating through a rubber tube. Forget that."

Literary Magazine Tycoon and soon-to-be campus legend, Kit Huggins unveiled the much anticipated reformed title for the former Piper this week. "We're calling it The Greenleaf Review." Kit said Wednesday. "It is a whole new magazine. There was no real punch in calling it 'The New Piper.' So we came up with something new." The name comes from late, great Quaker John Greenleaf Whittier, a prominent poet of the mid nineteenth century. The first issue is tentatively scheduled to arrive just before Christmas.

The legend of the mysterious Chickenman is beginning to take a phenomenon-sized hold on Guilford's collective consciousness. After beginning modestly just a few weeks ago, the enigmatic and unnamed Guilford student donning a rubber chicken mask and sprinting through residence halls now seems to be teetering on the cusp of genuine celebrityhood.

Reports of the Chickenman's appearances are cropping up everywhere although only two of his excursions are thusfar confirmed; one in English Hall earlier this month and one in Dana Auditorium last week. A song has been written by Jeff Johnson and Drew Hammond entitled "The Chickenman Cometh." Amid all the fuss, Tom Dawson, Chickenman colleague and official representative has hinted to The Guilfordian that plans are in the works for a Main Event interview featuring the Chickenman and Guilfordian Perspectives Editor Hardy Wallace, otherwise known and seen as The Bee. No date has yet been set. "The Chickenman represents the Avian in all of us." Said Mr. Dawson. "He's touched me. He'll touch you."

Chickenman
Campus Enigma

And finally, in a vague but pointed note to Campus security, an unnamed resident of English Hall shattered the window on his hall's locked north entrance Tuesday evening attempting to enter his home. The door, always locked at nightfall, has foiled many of English's residents from going to bed on numerous nights despite the attempted use of their invaluable security-distributed keys. "I've had my bouts with that door," said one resident. "It was only a matter of time before it got was coming to it." There is no word as of yet as to whether or not Campus Security will also be getting what is coming to them. The door, meanwhile, remains boarded and blocked; now neither locked nor unlocked but still unuseable.

5 MINUTE INTERVIEW

With Mike
Ketchum
Football Head
Coach

Mike: Mike Ketchum
Guilfordian: Coach Ketchum, this is Rudolf Nuryev with the Guilfordian and I was wondering if we might have a moment of your time for this week's five minute interview.
Mike: Shoot.
Guilfordian: Last week the Guilford Football team made its second appearance in the Guilfordian's writer's poll, moving up two places from #17 the week before to finish at #15. What's your favorite number?
Mike: Five
Guilfordian: How much ya bench?
Mike: Mmmm about three hundred, I guess.
Guilfordian: A train leaves Chicago traveling at eighty-miles an hour. A taxi leaves JFK airport in New York at eight in the morning traveling at 35 kilometers an hour. What famous president is JFK airport named for?

Mike: uhhhhh, Nixon
Guilfordian: If you could be any college football coach in history which would you like to be?
Mike: Knute Rockne
Guilfordian: Do you feel the television program Coach is an accurate depiction of a college football coach's life?
Mike: I think its exactly right
Guilfordian: We've been told here at the Guilfordian by some of your players that you also do some work in what is known as the World Wrestling Federation calling yourself the Ultimate Warrior? Is this true?
Mike: Laughs I try and keep that secret.
Guilfordian: Coach Ketchum, how many roads would you say must a man travel down before he can call himself a man?
Mike: Oh, about a hundred.
Guilfordian: If the oppurtunity should present itself, do you feel that you could lead the Dallas Cowboys to a third world championship?
Mike: I think it would be very easy.
Guilfordian: If you and the Guilford College football team could invade any place on earth would you invade A. Haiti B. Congress C. Golden Corral or D. Norway
Mike: We're gonna take Congress.
Guilfordian: How do you feel about making the Football team locker room coed, thereby allowing the Men's soccer team to shower with your players?
Mike: Laughs hysterically I can't stop that one.
Guilfordian: Thank-you, Coach Ketchum.
Mike: Alright, bye.
