

Obviously not discouraged by the Major League Baseball strike, the Quaker baseball team has settled into fall ball practice.

John "Ricky" Carbaugh

To the Guilford College Community,

As you are most likely aware, the Sports section was omitted from the September 23rd issue of The Guilfordian.

There were many reasons for this and I could list for you all the problems the rest of The Guilfordian staff and I experienced last week, but I won't.

I'm not writing this to offer excuses. The plain and simple fact is there was no Sports section and as Sports Editor I am the primary source of blame.

What I am writing this for is to offer an apology to all the loyal readers of the Sports section and of The Guilfordian as a whole. The Sports section's main purpose is to provide the Guilford community with the happenings of the world of sports, both on campus and beyond. Last week, the Sports section did not do its job and I apologize for that.

The incidents of last week have been dealt with and they should not threaten the Sports section again, and it will continue to help make this year's Guilfordian the best yet.

I'd like to thank all the loyal readers of the Sports section for their continued support and I hope you accept my sincerest of apologies.

Sincerely,

Joe Wallace
Sports Editor
