

UNION VOX

By Sara Hahnel
UNION PRESIDENT

Welcome back everyone! I hope it was a nice summer. For those of you who don't know me, my name is Sara Hahnel, and I'll be your UNION president this year. The purpose of UNION is to find out how the students want to be entertained and to bring it to campus. We listened to suggestions and requests about things you wanted to change and improve, and have been working hard all summer to make sure this fall is a good one. As we all know, Guilford students have incredibly diverse personalities and we have tried to satisfy all those different desires.

However, the best way to get involved and get your voice heard and to get what you want is to be directly involved with UNION. If you want to help choose and plan the films, speakers, bands, coffeehouses, dances, comedians, or off-campus events, you should come to the meetings. Don't forget about Serendipity (our end-of-year bash). We always need a lot of help planning that! Don't worry if you don't have experience with this sort of thing. UNION is a team effort, and we would love to welcome you to the team.

Our first meeting is Sunday, August 29 at 4 pm upstairs in Founders. Take a break from your homework and spend some time thinking about the fun stuff. If you have any questions or comments about UNION or our events please call the UNION office at x2303. I look forward to seeing everyone at the UNION events and wish everyone good luck this semester!

groups were based around environmental concerns and improving the campus. The Fulcher gardening groups, Forever, and the Outdoor Club collected litter from the Lake and posted signs informing the community on how to recycle.

The Underground Railroad group simulated an escape through the Forest on Saturday, while both the Guilfordian and Admissions Process groups have covered CHAOS and new student concerns. The Guilford College First-Year Mural worked together to design and create a lasting work of art.

The Intramural group worked on integrating intramural sports into the community and on improving the program, and the dancing, guitar, and drumming will perform the Opening Convocation Ceremony, which officially welcomes the Guilford community.

The First-Year orientation has evolved and expanded over the past few years. "What we had when I got here was a typical two-day logistical orientation," said Lundquist. She believes that the best type of orientation programs are those that require students to be active within the school community. "The way you're a part of the community is to become involved in it."

The First-Year Program plans to continue the groups into next year. Some improvements include better organization, with more groups and options.

made a commitment to the Board of Trustees to seek grants to supplement the million dollars which the Board approved for the implementation of the new academic program. "Hopefully, this grant will help to begin a pattern of using grant money instead of inside money," said Borei.

The grant will also underwrite a course which intends to offer challenging content and encourage students to use their understanding of the past to envision future possibilities.

A description of the class approved by the faculty said the course also "requires and provides an opportunity to develop and enrich a range of reading, research, and writing skills."

Borei hopes the Historical Perspectives program will improve from semester to semester and will get closer to its goal of an innovative fusion of English and history.

Teams of English and history professors will read course evaluations and papers written in the classes to assess the program and generate new ideas.
