

In This Issue

Students protest to free Jerry Godard, shouting, "Let the man retire!"
 Page 21

Doss Attempts Bryan Hall Putsch
 Page 37

Program a Success
 Page 11

Doss Attempts Bryan Hall Putsch

Guilford Putsch has begun! This is the "let the man retire!"

Doss then took other Guilford administrators into a back office and told them he was applying for the position of Dean of Campus Life. "You can't drink alcohol without me, and they feel a pretty penny on the black market - way more than a $50 fine."

Though technically illegal, selling organs on the black market is one way Guilford can avoid further participation in corporate markets, while at the same time promoting and embracing fair

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

Doss Attempts Bryan Hall Putsch
 Page 37

New Guilford survey reveals 98% of our graduates have college degrees!

liar this semester. Well, same as always, the first time you're caught with alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alblood to livers," Minton. "You can't drink alcohol without me, and they feel a pretty penny on the black market - way more than a $50 fine."

Though technically illegal, selling organs on the black market is one way Guilford can avoid further participation in corporate markets, while at the same time promoting and embracing fair

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

After extensive student polling and debate, Campus Life directors decided over winter break that monetary fines for alcohol, you get a warning," explains Dean of Campus Life Anne Lundquist. "The second time, we get your liver."

Program a Success

Guilford Putsch has begun! This is the "let the man retire!"

Doss then took other Guilford administrators into a back office and told them he was applying for the position of Dean of Campus Life. "You can't drink alcohol without me, and they feel a pretty penny on the black market - way more than a $50 fine."

of other benefits the surgery can have. "Well for smokers, the post-surgical risk is increased by 80%." You see, quality but medicine the popular soap opera General Hospital.

