Why do you stand against sexual violence?

By the end of the semester, photographs of determined students, faculty and staff will be printed and made visible throughout campus alongside personal statements answering this question.

Guilford College's poster campaign is modeled after the Men Can Stop Rape campaign titled "My Strength Is Not For Hurting." The campaign takes sexual violence awareness to a larger scale with its posters, billboards, postcards, banners and bus ads gracing various areas of the U.S. and other countries.

"This is an initiative that we have been planning for months," said Wellness Education Coordinator Kristie Wyatt '08. "The Men Can Stop Rape Campaign is something that has greatly inspired me and my work. To have students buying in and getting their faces out there publicly to stand up for these important issues will be a huge step in getting community awareness, raise student involvement and increase programming."

"My strength is not for hurting, so when she said no, I said okay," states the MSINFH campaign. Affirmations and
