

FORUM CLASS

south's progress for so many years.
The Forum class is planning another open meeting for the near future when another selection of topics will be presented. The purpose of these open meetings is to convey to the faculty and student body some definite information on present national affairs the one side of our education which is so often vastly neglected. We eagerly await the future meeting.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT

positions rendered, proved of great interest.
The whole concert was a proof that cooperation brings success, for it was through the working of every individual that the final laudable results were obtained, and Miss Webb and the orchestra were able to best present their program.

TELL HIM NOW

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing,
If you like or you love him, tell him now;
Do not withhold your appreciation, till the parson makes oration,
And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow.

For no matter how you shout it, he won't really care about it,
He won't know how many teardrops you have shed;
If you think some praise is due him, Now's the time to slip it to him
For he cannot read his tombstone, when he's dead.

More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny,
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend;
For it gives to life a savor, makes you richer, stronger, braver—
Gives you heart, and hope, and courage to the end.

If he earns your praise, bestow it, if you like him let him know it
Let the word of true encouragement be said,
Do not wait till life is over and he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone, when he's dead.

JOLTED

"I'd like to go to a funeral this afternoon, Sir," said the office boy.
"Oh you would, would you?" the chief tartily replied. "Well you won't!"
"No sir, I know I won't, but I would like to all the same."
Something tragic and appealing in the youthful voice led the chief to ask: "Whose funeral?"
"Yours sir," replied the boy.

HER ONE CHANCE

"Auntie," romantic Annabel inquired of an elderly relative, "did you ever have a proposal?" "Once dear," the aunt replied. "A man asked me over the telephone to marry him, but he had the wrong number."

MUSIC HOUR RECITAL

Those of us who were here last year remember well the interesting lecture on the Seashore Tests, given in the fall by Prof. Paul John Weaver, the supervisor of Music at the University of North Carolina. Hence it was with great pleasure that we heard the announcement that the first organ recital of the Lenten season would be given by Prof. Weaver. The recital fully justified our expectations. We are quite proud of the fact that Salem possesses one of the largest organs in the South, and thus it affords us great pleasure to have notable organists with us. The music department of Chapel Hill has only been in existence for two years; however, Professor Weaver has done much in this field.

A copy of Prof. Weaver's program is given below:
Fugue in C Major Buxtehude
Prelude and Fugue in D Minor Bach
Nocturne, Au Convent, Reverie Borodin
Kamennoi Ostrow Rubenstein
Romance Sibelius
Le Petit Berger, Ballet, Prelude ("La Damoiselle Elue") Debussy
Finale, Act I. Prince Igor Rimsky-Korsadon.

MISS JOHNSON, OF NEW YORK ADDRESSES H. E. STUDENTS

On Saturday morning, March 11th, Miss Johnson, food expert of New York, made a most interesting talk on the subject of the "B. S. Degree." Several of the Education and English classes, as well as the students in Home Economics, assembled in Main Hall to hear Miss Johnson.

She said that Home Economics was truly a movement, and that rapid progress had been made in the past several years. In the beginning many were prejudiced against the B. S. Degree because they did not realize for just what it stood. It is just as liberal and as cultured as the A. B. degree, and is also most practical. It fits women for life by teaching them to expend wisely their resources.

There are three ways of providing prosperity: producing more efficiently; choosing more wisely; consuming more intelligently. Of these three ways women have to do with the last two, therefore it is highly important that they be trained. On important help in choosing and consuming more intelligently is the budget.

Mrs. Johnson's talk was enthusiastically received by A. B. and B. S. students alike.

POSTPONEMENT OF HOCKEY FINALS

As the unfavorable weather of the past two weeks has made hockey practice practically impossible, a postponement of the final game was deemed advisable, and a new date, March twentieth, was decided upon. The practices that have been held have proven very successful, and the two teams are rapidly improving. Those who witness the final are promised a good hard fought game, with team work and Salem Spirit predominating.
