

FRESHMEN CABARET

Freshmen Entertain Upper Classmen
—Unique Affair Given Last Saturday Night.

When certain artistic and beautiful posters began appearing in certain conspicuous places around the campus about two weeks ago, Salem sat up and rubbed her eyes with amazement. Was it possible? Could the freshmen, yet on probation, and still beginners in the art of college entertainments, be really and truly planning to give a real true "Cabaret on the evening of Saturday, 21," as the posters read? By the time Salem had been inspired by the posters, by the announcement in chapel of the coming event, and by the talk of the loyal Freshmen, to a state of high anticipation, Saturday had arrived, and the great night was at hand.

Very few people had stopped to wonder what a Salem Cabaret could be, but somehow the school just knew that it was something—a something worthwhile and entertaining, from all advance notices. So it was that every table was filled, and that a merry crowd of Salemites thronged to the Cabaret.

The menu, in true cabaret fashion, gave a chance for variety and satisfaction, and caused the neat little white-capped Freshmen maids to be kept busy attending to orders, while the general dancing furnished amusement between the special numbers given by members of the class.

Everything was so highly successful and showed such talent and ingenuity that Salem, at first incredulous, went to bed, forgetting to rub her eyes any longer, and happy in the realization that a future awaited the Class of '26—a future packed and jammed full of the things that go to make us "Salem Spirit."

WALKING CLUB'S WEEKLY HIKE

Most Beautiful Walk of Season Led by Dean Shirley.

The glow of Indian summer was on fields and woodland. Its charm lured forth faculty and students. Miss Jackson, Miss Rogers, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Heath, and Dean Shirley joined the happy throng on their Saturday afternoon walk. Their road led out into the real country where there was a pleasant little stream winding through the valley. The trees were flaming with gorgeous autumnal tints. Some of the trees had something more appealing to the girls than bright leaves—persimmons. The girls stood at a respectful distance from the trees while Mr. Higgins threw missiles into their branches or leaned against their trunks and shook the persimmons down. Reluctantly the girls started on the homeward way by a cotton field, those woodlands, and over Happy Hill. The setting sun had made the sky even more brilliant than the landscape; sky and earth were uniting to glorify the end of the autumn day.

We are rapidly becoming a soft people, says some one. First, it was soft collars and shirts, and now it is to be soft coal.

MISS BEVARD'S RECITAL MOST ENJOYABLE OCCASION

Large Attendance Pay Tribute to Unusual Skill.

The student body, faculty, and interested friends in the city have awaited with pleasurable anticipation the piano recital of Miss Naomi Bevard which had been postponed on account of her illness and which finally took place Monday night in Memorial Hall.

From the first note of the dashing Sarabande of Rameau-McDowell to the last note of the familiar Rigoletto Quartet, Miss Bevard held her audience as by magic. Her technique is modern, she has a beautiful touch, and plays every note with expression. The Beethoven Sonata was perfectly rendered and the more modern "Island Spell," "Petite Valse Espagnole," and "May Night" were given with exquisite finish. The audience showed its appreciation of her music by its applause, and after the last number, Miss Bevard responded with a lovely little encore. Salem is indeed proud that she has on her music faculty one who is so truly an artist as Miss Bevard.

The following program was given:
SarabandeRameau-McDowell
Rondo AndantinoPh. Em. Bach
Sonata Opus 31, No. 3.....Beethoven

Rigoletto: ParaphraseVerdi-Liszt
Following Mrs. Reid's presentation Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler entertained at the President's House in her honor. The guests at the informal supper included Mr. and Mrs. Sebring, the latter the efficient president of the Music Department of the Woman's Club, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stockton, (Maggie Mae Thompson), Dean Shirley, Miss Desha, and Mr. William Breach, director of Music in the City Schools.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ELECTS TREASURER.

A meeting of the Athletic Association was held in the English class room at one-thirty Friday. The program of this meeting was to elect a treasurer, this office being vacant due to Miss Harriet Harris' failure to return.

Prior to this meeting the officers of the association and the heads-of-sports had selected the following girls as nominees: Jean Abell, Sophie Hall, Margaret Smith and Hazel Stephenson. Sophie Hall was elected treasurer of the association for the year 1922-1923.

NOTICE.

The Y. W. C. A. store will have charge of selling all the class colors this year for the Thanksgiving games, and various other athletic contests. It is hoped that the entire school will cooperate with the Cabinet in making this new venture a success.

DR. CARROLL VISITS-SALEM; SPEAKS AT CHAPEL SERVICE

Makes Appeal to Salem Girls in Behalf of "The Little Sister."

The Wednesday morning chapel service still holds its place as the time when entirely new phases of both college and outside work and life are presented to the student body as a whole. On October 25, there were several announcements of interest to the students.

Dr. Rondthaler emphasized the mention already made of the reading of "Enoch Arden" by Mrs. Reid, a former teacher here, at Music Hour on Thursday. Notice was also given of the next presentation through the co-operation of the Rotary Club and Salem College. At an early date the Clifford Deveau Players will present the matinee "Romeo and Juliet," and the evening performance, "Arms and the Man," in Memorial Hall.

Miss Marjorie Hunt displayed to the students a calendar with views such as will be made of Salem College and sold by the Y. W. C. A. This is quite a novel and splendid idea for gifts.

With a few words of introduction Dr. Rondthaler presented Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll, resident doctor of Meredith College, and member of the board of trustees of the state Reformatory for Girls at Samrakand, Moore county. She briefly reviewed the history of the institution. At the continued request of club women the North Carolina Legislature appropriated $125,000 for the purpose of such an institution. With the help of the national government and of friends, Samrakand now takes care of three hundred girls with an equal number out on parole.

A startling statement was made that the average age of the Samrakand girls, practically all of whom have passed through jails, is fourteen—much less than the average college girls' age. Too, the life of these girls, all guilty of criminal acts, as influenced by their superintendent, Miss McNaughton, is a revelation of the complete understanding of human nature. They have schools in which their progress is splendid, clubs for social and physical, as well as mental development, and a system of student government like that in a regular college. Many instances of the rebirth of a girl in such an inspiring environment were given.

Dr. Carroll then noted the ways in which college girls can help Samrakand girls. These are to forget their past and do what is possible to make their future more livable and to remember them in appropriate ways at Christmas time. This is the first time that just such an appeal as this has come to Salem girls, but with the great interest which is called forth a hearty response will surely be made.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Miss Virginia Pritchard, a graduate of Randolph-Macon, who is now traveling secretary for the student volunteer movement, is to be the guest of the Young Woman's Christian Association over Sunday.

The Junior Class will give a Halloween party in the recreation room of Clewell Memorial building on Saturday night from eight to ten o'clock. Admission, 15 cents. Refreshments and side shows extra.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTS MARSHALS AND MASCOT

On Saturday, October 20, the Senior Class held an important meeting for the purpose of electing their Senior Marshals and Mascot. The following were elected: From the Junior Class, Eleanor Shaffner, Marion Cooper, and Mary Pfohl; from the Sophomore Class, Lois Crowell and Jean Abel; and from the Freshman Class, Louise Jatta, and Evelyn Tucker.

For the Senior Mascot, little Miss Mary Louise Siewers was chosen. This little lady will be the miniature model of seniority.

MRS. RONDTHALER ENTERTAINS

Following Miss Bevard's recital, at Enoch Arden at Music Hour on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Rondthaler entertained at tea in her honor at the President's House. The guests included the officers of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Frank Stevens, Mrs. J. P. Campbell and Mrs. Estelle Johnson, and the members of the English faculty, Dean Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Heath, and Mrs. Edward Rondthaler.

THE MUSIC HOUR

The Music Hour Thursday afternoon was one of the most delightfully interesting occasions that Salem has had this year. Before introducing the speaker, Dean Shirley extended a cordial welcome to the members of the Woman's Club—the especial guests of the occasion. He then mentioned several important facts about Richard Strauss, composer of the music accompanying "Enoch Arden", and played the motives representing the three most important characters in the story.

Mrs. W. L. Reid is better known at Salem as Miss Killa Garrison, a former teacher of expression. The story of Enoch Arden, familiar to most of us, was presented by Mrs. Reid in a manner that was delightfully new to every one, and the music distinctly added to the effectiveness of characterization and background. The unusually large audience sat spellbound throughout the entire hour—sincere expression of the appreciation of the reader's skill.

THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The Tennis Tournament, in which a large number of girls have entered, is now on in full swing. The first games were played last week, leaving only a comparatively small number of girls to contest for the championships. Other games will be played this week, thus diminishing the number by half each time. The games have been so scheduled that the runners-up will have their final game during the week of November 18-25. The girls who have so far been successful are as follows:

Margaret Whitaker, Hazel Stephenson, Mabel Chinnis, Mary Womble, Emily Moye, Margaret Harris, Mary A. Turlington, Sophia Hall, Adelaide Armfield, Helen Mitchell, Ella Jones, Bessie Chandler, Dorothy Luckenbach.
