

MR. HEATH GIVES INTERESTING TALK IN Y. W. C. A. MEETING

For the regular Friday night meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on October 27 we were very fortunate in securing as the speaker of the evening Mr. Edwin J. Heath. Mr. Heath gave a most interesting talk on "Finding Myself," a very vital question in the minds of all college students. His text was taken from the story of the Prodigal Son. A stringed quartet from the social service department accompanied the hymns and rendered a special number, "Traumerie", which added a great deal to the program.

Vespers Sunday, October 29.

Due to the fact that we had as our guest over the week-end Miss Virginia Pritchard, who graduated from Randolph-Macon College last year and who is now a traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement, a vesper service was held in order that she might talk to the association as a whole. Miss Pritchard talked to us about student volunteer work and cited examples of those who had given their lives to this cause. Her aim was not to make us all into missionaries, as that would never do, but rather to lay the opportunity before us and make us ask ourselves fairly if there was anything to prevent us from taking up this work, which she showed us to be so worth while. She merely gave the thought a start and I know it is far from stopping. We thoroughly enjoyed Miss Pritchard's talk and hope she may come to us again in this capacity.

At this same vesper service Clara Walton and Irene Pendleton, two girls from the City Y. W. C. A., laid before the association very briefly the cause of the industrial girl and urged that many of us volunteer to teach classes up there again this year. They expressed sincere appreciation of our work last year and told how much the girls enjoyed it as well as of the benefit they really derived.

A special musical number, "My Task", was sung by Miss Lois Crowell. It was beautiful and seemed so appropriate for this particular meeting.

"Le Cercle Francais" held a pleasant social half hour in the living room of the Alice Clewell Building on last Wednesday at 9:45. Mary Warren, chairman of the entertainment committee, had planned some very interesting games, and judging from the peals of laughter that rang out, the entertainment was highly successful. There was quite a good attendance including several town girls, Mr. Heath, Miss Smith and Miss Hall.

The Winston-Salem sketches, pen etchings of men of affairs of the Twin-City, by Harry Palmer, well known New York World artist, are appearing every day in The Sentinel. Pictures of many of our "College Stand-Bys" up town are being shown. Don't miss seeing them.
