Now that the weather permits us to spend so much time out of doors, the question of keeping the campus clean assumes great importance. We all love our college; we are proud of her age and of her appearance, but our carelessness often causes her beauty to be marred.

Have you ever seen boxes strewn around in front of the building, or papers blown about over the back campus? If you have, did you pick them up, or did you leave that for some one else to do? Outsiders judge the college by the appearance she presents, and of course we want others to see the best side, but apart from all foreign attitudes, does it not seem a desecration to have Salem's grounds resemble those of a factory? Salem bears an old and respected name, but you are stealing from her a little of that respect she so richly deserves each time you contribute toward making her present an untidy appearance. The campus is naturally a place of beauty, if you will only allow it to remain so.

Now, the whole thing rests upon you. Others will be far more careful if you take a definite stand in this matter, and do all in your power to make Salem's campus as beautiful as it deserves to be.

BETA BETA PHI SORORITY ENTERTAINS NEW MEMBERS.

On Saturday evening, March 3rd, at eight o'clock, the members of the Beta Beta Phi Sorority of Salem College entertained at a banquet in honor of their new members, Agnes Pfohl, and Eleanor Shaffner. The "Orangerie" of the Robert E. Lee Hotel was lovely in its St. Patrick's Day decorations of green and white. Each guest was guided to her seat by a dainty little Irish maiden in green and white, who was placed near a charming Fleur de Lis basket containing green and white mints. In the center of the square table was a lovely centerpiece of galax leaves, in the midst of which were found many white roses.

As the guests of honor were ushered to their seats, they found gorgeous blue and silver beaded bags, corsages of roses and valley lilies, and small calendars bearing the seal of the sorority in gold.

At the conclusion of five courses, many telegrams were read by the president, Elizabeth Griffin, after which roses, the gift of the club's honorary member, were distributed among all.

Those comprising the roster at the present are: Elizabeth Griffin, Alice Lyerly, Josephine Shaffner, Elizabeth Connor, Dorothy Sessoms, Ella Aston, Marion Cooper, Elizabeth Strowd, Louise Woodard, Elizabeth Parker, and Margaret McLaughlin. The guests of the evening were Mrs. Ralph Stockton and Mrs. Charles E. Hancock, both members of the sorority.
