The editor feels that an apology is due the Faculty of Salem College, because of an article printed in the editorial column last week, and she voluntarily takes this occasion to express to them her regret over the matter.

Several articles have, by the consent of the authors, been withdrawn from the Open Forum column of this week in order that the entire controversy may cease.

The appropriateness of Bishop Rondthaler's return to Y. P. M. was deeply felt by all who attended the Wednesday Chapel Service. He, of all others, is most fitted to prepare us for the two great days of the Christian calendar, Christmas and Easter.

No matter what her creed or her belief, every girl connects with this beloved leader acts of gentleness and of kindness. No matter whether or not her church observes strictly the Lenten season, no girl can fail to be benefitted by the talks which Bishop Rondthaler has made and will make during these next few weeks. His interpretation by both words and deeds of the true significance of this season is one which cannot fail to make a lasting impression. Under his influence, strife and debate lose their fiendish power, selfish desires disappear; and there comes a desire to follow more nearly his example, to make this present season a time of sacrifice, not of small luxuries to be resumed at the end of forty days, but of hate, envy, jealousy, of selfishness, so if any of these common attributes which daily harm those with whom we come in contact. Let us with Herrick say:

"It is to fast from strife,
From old debate,
And hate;
To circumscribe thy life.
To show a heart grief-rent
To starve thy sin,
Not bin;
And that's to keep thy Lent."

Although it has been many weeks since Mr. Stephens from the Barnardo Home in England brought us the story of "Carrots" and of the other homeless waifs, he and his words have by no means been forgotten. Their pathetic story and our corresponding opportunity for service made an appeal so deep that they cannot sink into forgetfulness.

On next Wednesday a drive, initiated not by the Y. W. C. A., but by the College as a whole, will be made, and during the following week every girl may contribute to the fund any sum she desires.

No words of ours can sufficiently endorse this movement. None are necessary if every girl will recall the sympathy and heart-felt interest which Mr. Stephens inspired, and if she will give ample proof that his influence was not a passing one.

THE ALPHA PHI KAPPA SORORITY ENTERTAIN

The Alpha Phi Kappa Sorority of Salem College held its annual banquet for the new members at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, Saturday night, March first. The dining room was attractively decorated in the sorority colors, gold and black; the centerpiece for the table being a Jack Horner pie which contained an appropriate favor for each member. Glod and black place cards, bearing the Alpha Phi Kappa emblem directed each member to her place.

The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, celery, olives, turkey with dressing, green peas, asparagus tips, hot rolls, cranberry ice, Viennese salad, parfait and demi tasse.

The new members received as gifts from the sorority lovely corsages, vanity cases, and stationery embossed with the Alpha Phi Kappa emblem. The new members are Mary Anderson, Albemarle, N. C.; Mary Ragsdale, Jamestown, N. C.; Margaret Bencini, High Point, N. C.; Katherine Raymond, High Point, N. C.; Lucile Reid, Leaksville, N. C.; Elizabeth Braswell, Battleboro, N. C.; Mary Lee Mason, Gastonia, N. C.

A number of former members were here for the banquet. They were Ruth Crowell, Concord, N. C.; Katherine Brawley and Katherine Kinlaid, Statesville, N. C.; Annie Thomas Archibell, Washington, N. C.; Wilhelmina Huske, Fayetteville, N. C.; and Annie Blair Bristol, Statesville, N. C.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT HOLDS MARCH MEETING

The regular March meeting of the Student Self-Government Association was held Monday afternoon in the recreation room of the Alice Clewell Building. After the roll call and the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting Margaret Russell, President, stated the business to be transacted. Heretofore the association has paid for the annual pictures of the council members and a motion was carried to do the same this year. The president read several rules and reminded the association that at the April meeting the officers and council for next year would be elected. Within the next few weeks nominations for the office of president will be posted. There being no other business the meeting adjourned.

"TO HAVE AND TO HOLD" PRESENTED SATURDAY

"To Have and To Hold" was the picture shown by the MacDowell Club Saturday night. It was a grand panorama of life in the early seventeenth century. The pomp of the royal court, the battles of the early English settlers against the Indians and the wilderness, and the strife of the pirates of the Spanish Main were all portrayed on a magnificent scale.

Mr. Vardell at the organ gave an accompaniment that intensified the power of the picture. The music, exquisitely appropriate to each scene, was the true interpretation of the emotions of the audience. It did not seem an accompaniment but an integral part of the production. The picture and the music were so perfectly blended that the listener could not distinguish between the appeal of the two, yet he realized that the half of his enjoyment came from the music.

BETA BETA PHI GIVE ENJOYABLE BANQUET

On Saturday evening, March the first, the Beta Beta Phi Sorority held its annual banquet in the Orangerio of the Robert E. Lee Hotel.

Pastel shades were used in the decorations, the centerpiece being a placard of sweet peas and ferns. At each place was a placard of an old fashioned girl, and card bearing the sorority song.

While a delicious seven course dinner was being served, numerous telegrams from former Beta Beta Phi members were read. Each new member of the sorority was presented with a feather fan, on the handle of which was engraved the insignia of the sorority.

The members present were Mary Louise House, Helen Ford, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Helen and Virginia Griffin, and Inez Gold, of Wilson, N. C.; Carrie Dorrin Ward, of New Bern, N. C.; Hannah Weaver, of Asheville, N. C.; Margaret Peery, of Fazelwell, Va.; Elizabeth Parker, Louise Woodard, Elizabeth Strowd, Marion Cooper, Eleanor Shaffner, Ella Aston, Elizabeth Connor, Alice Lyerly, and Mrs. Charles H. Hancock.

"Now you come into my parlor," said the spider to the fly.

"Parlor nothing; get a flivver!" was the modern fly's reply.

The feet of the college girl are steadily increasing in size, according to the head of the woman's physical education department at Ohio State College. The great interest of the co-ed in outdoor activities is thought to be the cause.

MISS ZOEN KUH ZIEN SPEAKS AT Y.W.C.A. VESPERS

The Y. W. C. A. vesper service of which the World Fellowship department had entire charge and at which Miss Zoen Kuh Zien, a native Chinese girl and a student at Greensboro College, spoke last Sunday night proved to be one of the most outstanding and inspiring services held this year. The meeting was opened by the singing of a hymn after which the Y. W. choir sang "At Even 'Ere the Sun Was Set." The scripture was read by Miss Emily Moye following which Miss Smith offered a prayer. Miss Lois Crowell rendered a beautiful solo, "Come Unto Him." Miss Pauline Wolff, chairman of the World Fellowship department then introduced Miss Zoen Kuh Zien who had already become familiar to many of the girls as "Cherry." Since the interest of nearly all who were present was quite naturally centered on China, Miss Zien began her talk by telling a little of what the missionaries have done for that country. To them is due the praise for the girls now enjoying athletics and, all in all, a more normal life since the Chinese have become such admirers of their missionaries "big feet" that the practice of foot bending has gone quite out of style. Again, they are largely responsible for the change in the marriage customs, since the girls now have some choice in the matter whereas it was arranged formerly by their families and they never even saw their betrothed until the day of the actual marriage. Perhaps the greatest thing, however, that they have done for China has been along the line of education. Before missionaries went to China, only the boy received any education to speak of, the girls being trained only along domestic lines. Now there are schools for the girls as well as the boys and China too is coming to the realization that her women are capable of far more than she ever dreamed.

Fellowship is a vast subject bounded only by the limits of the universe; but Miss Zoen Kuh Zien said she loved to think of it as one big family, the members of which are never ashamed of one another but only too eager to do what they can to help the weaker or more unfortunate of their number. With such a spirit existing as a basis of international relations—how beautiful would be this world! Fellowship must, however, begin at home. Here in college every day the challenge is the big family feeling to be felt here? That is left to the individual. The meeting was closed by the Y. W. choir singing "Peace I Leave With You" as a benediction.
