TWO DEBATES GIVEN IN EXPANDED CHAPEL

French, and Spanish. Next, she stated that it is only through Latin that one may get an insight into the old Latin Classics and become acquainted with the famous gods and goddesses. She claimed that to read intelligently one had to know Latin, and to prove this assertion she gave classic references in Milton's "Allerges." Latin, she stated, was necessary for the law student in order to know thoroughly the old Roman laws, for the Mathematics student because many of the terms used in Mathematics are Latin, and for the Science student because many of the chemical compounds are of Latin derivation. Many people, she claimed, think Latin a dead language, but how could a language be dead when we speak it daily, see it in magazines and in theatres? In concluding, she stated that if Latin books was also emphasized. In concluding she reminded her listeners that there are only a very few people who are capable of teaching the language, and that those people who know only a limited amount of Latin seldom find occasion to use it.

The next to speak was Miss Louise Watson who spoke for the affirmative in "Resolved, That Student Self Government Should Be Established in Salem Academy." She said that Student Government should be established in the Academy for two main reasons. First, Student Self Government would develop self reliance, self-control, and honor. She argued that high school students should be taught the principles of honor before entering colleges, and since it has been proven many times that high school students are capable of making good rules, why not introduce Student Self Government in the Academy? Second, Self Government is necessary to prepare a girl for College. She declared that the Academy is to the College as a seed is to a plant. The Academy plants the seed and the college develops the seed. She also declared, in her conclusion, that if self government were to be established, perfect co-operation would be the glorious result.

Miss Athena Campoarakis was the speaker for the negative side. She asserted that Academy students are so young and immature that they are not capable of logical thinking. Next, she said that the student government present there on the condition that they would be under the care and supervision of well-trained authorities. Another interesting point that she brought out was the fact that in high school self government is necessary only during class hours, but in a boarding school it would be necessary for twenty-four hours. Her last point was probably the strongest and most convincing. She stated that attempts had been made to establish self government in the Academy, but the students showed very plainly that they neither were ready for it, nor wanted it.

After a very brief absence the judges returned with the following decisions: Miss Grace Martin, winner. "Resolved, That Latin Should Be Required for College Entrance" and Miss Athena Campoarakis winner in "Resolved, That Student Government Should Be Established in Salem Academy." While the judges were making their decision Miss Lilyann Nevell sang two solos.

The debaters are to be congratulated on their poise and the logical way in which they discussed the subjects, and have set a high precedent for others to follow.

The faculty of Princeton University signed a resolution endorsing the resolutions of the Faculty of Political Science at Columbia University, in December, calling for a revision of the international debts.

The University of Wyoming is the only college in the United States to have twelve varsity debating teams which are practically equal to each other. During the year a debating contest is held to determine the superior debating teams of the university.—Crittograph.

ITEMIZED
An old darkey had been hauling some stone and time came for his pay.
Paymaster: We can't pay you your money until you have submitted an itemized statement of your work.
Darkey goes off meditating and in a few minutes returns with the following itemized account:
"3 comes and 3 goes at 4 bits a went—$3.00."

INNER MAN'S ARGUMENT
Mother: "Robert you're a naughty boy. You can just go to bed without your supper."
Bobley: "Well, mother, what about that medicine I've got to take after meals?"

Englishman (hiking in the country and startled by the W-h-o-o, who-o-o of an owl): "What's that?"
Friend: "That's an owl."
Englishman: "I know it's a 'owl', but what is that 'owling'?"
